Sprague, Man., Canada

"Isn't it wonderful, what man can do?" But when looking at man's work, we often overlook the Hand of God. Man harnessed the power in this great dam, but God created it. Long before man discovered the turbine or the electric motor, God placed the power at man's disposal.

God is the source of every one of man's inventive and ingenious undertakings. He gives us the natural resources and the intelligence to use them. And He wants us to use them constructively.

Our Christian faith teaches us of God's power and the vastness of its scope. It teaches us the right use of these blessings, so that life may be enriched by them. Go to church and learn God's plan of love for us and our fellowman. It will mean a better world for all of us.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Trainmen's Chief Is Guest Speaker at Banquet Here

"The railroad brotherhoods are just groups of individuals who want a share in the American way of life, but who do not ask for more than they are entitled to," William P. Kennedy, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, told an audience of nearly 250 persons in the Eagles hall Friday evening, Aug. 19.

Kennedy, president of the brotherhood and active in the affairs of the organization for 50 years, gave his address to an audience composed of members of his organization, railroad officials, businessmen and interested citizens. His appearance was sponsored jointly by the local lodge of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Chamber of Commerce.

Kennedy stated that he felt that the organization, the oldest labor organization in the United States, was the ideal labor organization of the country, pointing out that a belief in God and opposition to communism are necessary for membership.

"These are troubled times for the farming element and my heart goes out to them," he said. "I never thought I would live to see the day when a farmer was paid not to raise his crops. The railroad man is also experiencing trouble."

He pointed to the record of the railroads in the two World Wars

CONGRATULATIONS were extended to William P. Kennedy, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, by Lloyd Quesnell, right, president of the local lodge, at the dinner meeting in the Eagles lodge Friday evening which attracted an audience of fully 250 persons. The local lodge presented the floor globe to Kennedy for his 50 years of service to the brotherhood.

Harvest about Half Done, Co. Agent States

Stelmaschuk Says Yields Vary Widely in This Locality

Pennington county farmers are about one-third to half done harvesting their small grains, states County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. Varied crop reports have been received at the extension office. Some of the fields have yielded very well, with others, sometimes on the same farm, doing rather poorly. The reason for variations was mostly excessive moisture in late June, followed by excessive heat in July which retarded the yields of late grains in the wet areas, hurting the bushel weight of grain as well as the yield.

Martin Mau in the west part of the county reported wheat running well over 50 bushels per acre. Another farmer in the southwest corner reported barley yields on some fields over 50 bushels and others in the 20 bushel category. Harry Hanson in the east part of the county reported generally a good crop. The overall county crop yields are good with some excellent fields and some poorly drained areas returning low yields.

The fields doing best are the ones which were well fertilized and were seeded earlier in the spring. These crops developed a strong root system and were able to get water even during the hot part of the summer. The later fields, with poorer fertilization programs are giving the lower yields. About 75 per cent of the wheat, half of the barley and thirty per cent of the oats has been harvested in the county.

Corn is doing very well under the warm conditions especially where the fertility of the fields was adequate. Oats-peas silage has also given good yields, but alfalfa hay cuttings have been generally reported as light in yield.

12th Purebred Ram Sale Will Be Held Here September 12

Date Moved up from Early October to Allow for Earlier Use of Animals

The 12th annual purebred ram sale is scheduled to be held at Thief River Falls on Monday, September 12. Directors for the sale met Wednesday, August 17, to work out the details. The date for the sale has been moved up from the first part of October as held in earlier years to permit earlier use of rams and earlier lambing, in keeping with a current trend in the sheep industry. Many sheepmen have their ewes lamb in the early part of the year to take advantage of the better prices in the spring and early summer months.

With a five month gestation period, rams are used in late September and early October for late February or early March lambing. Sheepmen figure a hundred pound lamb in three and one-half months. This would mean lamb marketing from May to mid-summer.

Lambs produced under this system require housing in case of inclement weather in early spring. They are weaned at one month and put on a grain ration and fattened in dry lot for market. This system of lamb marketing has proven profitable on many farms.

All students who will be grades 7 through 12 at Newfolden high school are asked to come to the school cafeteria on Wednesday, August 31, between 9 and 12 a.m. or between 1 and 5 p.m. It is especially important that those in the upper grades should register. Those who cannot come on August 31 should come to the school office on Sept. 1 or 2. School will open on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 9 a.m. and will run until 11 a.m. that day. Wednesday will be the first full day of school with the hot lunch program in operation.

FIFTY-FOUR years ago, on August 1, 1906, Geo. A. Beito, president of the Northern State bank, started his career in banking. Born on a farm south of McIntosh, he had completed what schooling was available in that community and, with one year to his credit at Concordia, he qualified as a rural school teacher. After one year of teaching, at the age of 18, he took employment at the McIntosh National bank as a bookkeeper.

From that time on he advanced steadily as bookkeeper, to clerk, to assistant cashier, to cashier to vice president. Three years his senior in years of service, C. M. Berg was then president, and over a period of many years he and Mr. Beito were associated in expanding banking interests in McIntosh and neighboring communities.

And it was George A. Beito and C. M. Berg who organized the Northern State bank in Thief River Falls 25 years ago, the anniversary of which is being observed by an open house Friday.

Mr. Beito has been successful as an independent banker in a difficult period of years that brought failure to many banking organizations. His good record of service was recognized by his fellow bankers of the state when they elected him president of the Minnesota Banker's association in 1945. Following his term of office in this capacity he served for three years as a member of the executive council of the American Bankers association, a national organization.

SENIOR BANKER in Thief River Falls in terms of active service is George W. Werstlein, vice president and manager of the Northern State bank which is 25 years old this week. Mr. Werstlein's record as a banker dates back to 1921 when he was employed as a bookkeeper by the First National Bank, and he had advanced to the position of cashier at the time of the bank holiday in 1933.

The First National bank had the distinction of being one of the few banks that was liquidated at that time that paid off all of the depositors 100 per cent. Mr. Werstlein and three of the directors of the First National were brought into the Northern State bank when it was organized by George C. Beito and C. M. Berg in 1935.

Looking back over his years of banking service Mr. Werstlein marvels at the many changes that have been made in the mechanics of bank operations. Since 1935 the Northern State has been mechanized and modernized to such an extent that all of the old equipment has long since become obsolete. He guesses that with the mechanical processes now being used, the production of one worker would have required five workers 25 years ago.

During that period the bank interior has been completely remodeled and is comfortably air-conditioned.

Open House Friday at Northern State Bank on Its 25th Birthday

Friday will be Open House day at the Northern State bank in observance of its 25th birthday. Coffee will be served from 10 o'clock Friday morning to 3 o'clock that afternoon and from 6:30 to 9:00 o'clock Friday evening. Orchids will be presented to the ladies and leather key cases to men. Children will receive balloons and candy. Four attendance prizes of 25 silver dollars each will be awarded.

The Northern State bank opened for business on Saturday, August 24, 1935, and has enjoyed a steady growth year by year since then. George A. Beito of Gonvick, the principal stockholder, has served as president of the organization during these 25 years and George Werstlein, whose banking experience in Thief River Falls dates back to 1921, has been vice president and manager.

During the 25 years of its operation in the building formerly occupied by the First National bank, the interior of the building has been completely remodeled, including a lowering of the ceiling, and is air conditioned. A night deposit service has been made available and greater privacy has been provided for the users of safe deposit boxes. All of the mechanical equipment has been modernized and all checks are microfilmed as an additional accounting accuracy factor.

BRT President Is Guest Speaker at Chamber Luncheon

William P. Kennedy Heads Trainmen's Brotherhood, Largest of Rail Groups

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Friday noon in the Rex Cafe, W. P. Kennedy, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, discussed a wide range of subjects and answered many questions from the audience.

The guest speaker was introduced by E. A. Hameraki, division superintendent of the Soo Line here, while Lloyd Quesnell of the local BRT lodge introduced a large group of visiting officials. Don M. Olson, chamber president, conducted the meeting.

Mr. Kennedy stated that the BRT, largest of the railroad brotherhoods, was founded 77 years ago and embraces 1,100 lodges in this country and Canada. Due to improved highways and other factors, he said, the number of railroad workers in the nation has declined from a peak of 2,200,000 some years ago to 790,000 at the present time.

Kennedy spoke of the problems arising from the unrestricted importation into the United States of items made with low-cost labor in foreign countries. He decried the practice of some American firms in setting up plants overseas to manufacture products to be sold in this country.

Mr. Kennedy said that BRT lodge members strive to be an active part of the community in which they live and to maintain close relations with business people.

Plans Set for Public School Start Sept. 6

Supt. Hankerson Announces Schedule for the Opening Day

Opening session of the Thief River Falls public schools for the 1960-61 term will be Tuesday morning, September 6, at 9 a.m., Supt. Marshall Hankerson announced today. School will be in session all day and the hot lunch department will open the first day.

Copy of CAB Order in North Central Case Is Received

Continuation of Service Apparently Assured as Long as Quota Is Met

City Attorney Robert Wurst has received a copy of the order issued by Walter W. Bryan, hearing examiner of the Civil Aeronautics Board, directing North Central Airlines to continue service to Thief River Falls and other cities that had been served under temporary certification. The order, following the examiner's findings as to public convenience and necessity, reads:

> "The public convenience and necessity require the renewal of North Central Airlines certificate of public convenience and necessity insofar as it authorizes air service to Bemidji and Brainerd, Minnesota, and to Ironwood, Michigan, for an indefinite period; and to Clintonville, Wisconsin, and to Thief River Falls and Winona, Minnesota, for an indefinite period subject to the Board's policy of 'use it or lose it'."

Mr. Wurst stated that he had discussed the wording of this order with state department of aeronautic department officials and they had come to the conclusion that this probably means that it will not be necessary to appear in support of continued service at the CAB hearing that was to be held in Washington this fall. He is of the opinion that continuation of the service is no longer in doubt as long as the passenger boardings average at least five a day.

Karlstad Family Singers at Viking Monday, August 29

Family from Tacoma, Washington, to Appear at Zion Lutheran Church

Appearing in a sacred concert at Zion Lutheran church in Viking on Monday, Aug. 29, at 8:30 p.m., the Karlstad Family Singers of Tacoma, Wash., will present a sacred program of choral music representative of the great music masters such as Bach, Brahms, Grieg, Handel, Gretchaninoff, Mendelssohn, Pitoni, and Tchaikowsky. In addition, a variety of national carols and folk songs, together with a group of seasonal hymnodic gems, will be offered.

Originating from a parsonage home where singing was made a family project, the Karlstad Family Singers look upon this singing-venture as a mission to promote inspiration for wholesome family living. Pastor and Mrs. Alfred M. Karlstad and their three eldest children (Janice, 17; Curtiss, 15; and Judy, 12) engage each Friday evening as Family Night throughout the year, pursuing the difficult project of mastering a wide range of sacred music. Thus, a unique ensemble has been developed which is capable of producing effects generally achieved only by large mixed choirs.

The Family Singers are currently spending their vacation by presenting concerts in 25 cities from coast to coast.

Farm Housing Loan Rules Are Eased

Joel P. Rosengren Cites Changes in Regulations

Under a recent change in the eligibility requirements for farm housing loans, a farmer who owns a farm that will annually produce for sale or home use at least $400 worth of commodities may, if he meets other eligibility requirements, be able to obtain a farm housing loan.

Previously, according to Joel P. Rosengren, Farmers Home Administration county supervisor for Pennington and Red Lake counties, an applicant had to own a farm that would produce a substantial amount of the operator's income.

Other eligibility requirements for farm housing loans remain unchanged. These requirements are that the applicant lacks the resources needed to obtain credit elsewhere, be a citizen of the United States, and have sufficient income from farm and other sources to pay farm operating and family living expenses and meet payments, when due, on his debts.

Applications for this type of credit may be made at the county office of the Farmers Home Administration located in the court house in Thief River Falls.

High Court Vetoes $59,980 Judgment to Warren Woman

North Dakota Supreme Court Rules Against Mrs. Sylvia Austinson

The North Dakota Supreme Court ruled Mrs. Sylvia Austinson, Warren, should not receive a $59,980 judgement awarded her as result of her husband's death in an auto accident.

The opinion, written by Judge Thomas J. Burke, also granted the defendant, Robert Kilpatrick, Winnipeg, a new trial and ordered the case against Kilpatrick's employer dismissed.

The case resulted from an auto accident Sept. 3, 1952, in Walsh county, N. D., in which Delos H. Austinson, 36, Warren, was killed. The Austinson car collided with Kilpatrick's car at the junction of N.D. 44 and 17.

Mrs. Austinson brought suit in Walsh county district court against Kilpatrick and his employer, Sheriff's Ltd., a manufacturer and seller of food products in Canada.

The district court trial resulted in a verdict and judgment in favor of Mrs. Austinson.

District Judge Asmundur Benson ordered the $59,980 judgment and dismissed the defendants' motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and for a new trial.

The Supreme Court said it reversed Judge Benson because of a prejudicial error in instructions to the jury and for failure to admit certain other testimony as evidence in the trial.

The high court also said the judgment notwithstanding the verdict asked by Sheriff's Ltd. should have been granted because Kilpatrick was returning from his vacation at the time of the accident and not in the company's employ.

when they were secondary only to the military in the defense effort. "Then we had 2,200,000 railroad workers compared to 800,000 today.

"As the highways grow, there will be fewer jobs on the railroads. Pipelines have replaced tankers from Oklahoma and Texas and inland waterways have also cut into railroad shipping. But these are changes we have to accept," the speaker said. "I am hopeful for tomorrow."

"One thing isn't going to change and that is the growth in our nation's population," Kennedy said. He went on to say that he was concerned that there was no apparent progress in the field of education to compete with some other nations.

"They seem to think that time will take care of the problem," he stated, adding that we must find an answer to the problem and give the young a chance for higher education.

Kennedy's speech followed the presentation to him of a floor-model globe. Lloyd Quesnell, president, made the presentation on behalf of the local lodge for 50 years of service to the international brotherhood and to remind him of the many countries he had visited on behalf of the membership.

The introduction of local civic officials, railroad company officials and area notables was made by W. E. Dahlquist, toastmaster for the banquet. Cliff Buoen, general chairman of the Soo Line BRT, introduced railroad brotherhood officials.

Karl Rolvaag, lieutenant governor, gave the state's greetings to the audience on behalf of the governor who was unable to be present.

Officers of the international organization of of Railroad Trainmen who were present included Paul Byers, vice president from St. Paul; Lester Covey, retired legislative representative; Elmer Berglund, recently appointed as legislative representative; John Nichels, general chairman of the Great Northern railroad brotherhood; Bud Kennedy and Carl Yaeger, of the legal council in Minneapolis; H. F. Eberhard of Fargo, field supervisor, and Lou Coral of Cleveland, Ohio, director of public relations for the national organization.

Marshall County ASC Convention to Be Held Oct. 17

Committee Members to Be Named by Delegates Selected by Farmers

The annual ASC convention for Marshall county will be held October 17 at the court house in Warren, county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee chairman, Edward A. Johnson, announced today.

The chief purpose of the meeting will be to elect the members of the ASC county committee, who during the coming year will direct the various U.S. Department of Agriculture programs administered by the agency.

Committee members will be elected by convention delegates chosen earlier by mail in various communities of the county. The elected chairman of each community ASC committee is the community's delegate to the convention with other members as alternates.

The convention delegates will elect committee members for a one-year term. The person receiving the highest number of votes will be county chairman, followed in order by the vice chairman, third member, and first and second alternate.

The committeemen elected must be bona fide farmers who are taking part in one or more of the programs administered by the county ASC office, which include price support, acreage allotments and marketing quotas, the wool and sugar programs, farm storage facility loans, the Agricultural Conservation program and the Conservation Reserve. While the county office staff conducts day-to-day activities of these programs, the county committee provides voice for the participating farmers in major decisions and is responsible to the Secretary of Agriculture for the overall operation of the programs.

THE STEADY YEAR-BY-YEAR GROWTH OF OUR DEPOSITS TELLS THE STORY OF PROGRESS OF BOTH OUR BANK AND OUR COMMUNITY

The Northern State Bank was organized in response to a recognized community need for a second bank, preferably a home-owned and home-controlled organization.

The bank's record of growth during its first quarter of a century of service fully justifies the confidence of the founders and their faith in the future of the community.

In the group that organized the bank were men who understood the problems of the large area served by Thief River Falls and who had a personal interest in its progress and development.

Their purpose was to establish a bank that would provide safety for its depositors and meet the legitimate credit needs of an expanding economy in a community that was still young. That has been and will continue to be our aim.

We are proud of the record of past progress and we pledge our continued effort to deserve your continued confidence and support.

Greenbush Tips Bums in Pen-Ro-Shall Finale

A pair of two-run home runs powered the Greenbush team to a 6 to 4 win over Wally Grovum's Bums in a Pen-Ro-Shall league playoff finals game played at Greenbush on Sunday afternoon. By virtue of their win on Sunday Greenbush, the league champions, will represent the Pen-Ro-Shall league in the regional Class B tournament.

In Sunday's game, the Bums took a 1 to 0 lead in the top of the third inning when, with two out, Darrell Rude singled, stole second, moved to third on the catcher's high throw to second base, and scored on Larry Gilbertson's ground single past second. The Bums' lead was short-lived as Greenbush, in their half of the third inning, scored a pair of runs when Stan Goodman boomed a home run over the center field fence with Larry Johnson on base.

Greenbush moved into a 4 to 1 lead in the fifth inning when Larry Johnson, who had reached first base on an error, scored ahead of Larry Colton, who drove a home run over the fence in right-center.

The league champions tallied what proved to be the winning run in the sixth inning. Larry Trusciaski led off with a single, and was sacrificed to second base by Lou Huortson. Mark Gonshorowski singled to center field, scoring the run.

The Bums, making a desperate effort to get back into the game, scored twice in the seventh inning when a walk to Grovum, a single by Gilbertson, a hit batsman, and Fred Jensen's single accounted for the runs. Roy Pederson, batting for Darryl Smith, lofted a pop foul to third base. Mickey Hanson kept the rally alive by beating out an infield hit, filling the bases. But Einar Johnson, who had replaced Merris Hemichek on the mound for Greenbush struck out Armstrong for the side-retiring out.

The Bums added a single run in the eighth inning when LeRoy Aasland led off with a ground single to shortstop. Grovum beat out a hit to third base, with Aasland moving to third base. Rude struck out, but Gilbertson's ground ball to second base permitted Aasland to tally.

Greenbush added an "insurance" run in the last half of the eighth inning on a hit batsmen, a single by Gonshorowski, and an infield out.

A Popular Win

Stan Wilson, after breaking 46 targets, getting a pair of 23's, on Thursday evening in the fifty-bird Class A event of the third annual Thief River Falls Trap club tournament, found himself in a three-way tie with son Sandy and Si Schantzen. In the shoot-off, Stan dropped but one bird while Sandy was losing a pair and Si losing three. The result was that Stan Wilson was declared the winner of the Class A title. And a popular win it was.

Stan has been a low-handicap shooter for quite a number of years. And he has been one of the more active and influential members of the club.

For the past couple of years, Stan and Sandy have participated in the granddaddy of all the trapshooting events, the Grand American at Vandalia, Ohio, but this year the Wilsons are going to by-pass the week's program. Instead, and to experience somewhat of a change of pace, the two are making plans for an elk hunting trip.

The Grand American, which opened on Friday, is quite an event. The 2,000 shooters will fire at a million and a half targets, and the .12 guage shells will spew out more than fifty tons of lead pellets along the half-mile firing line. Later the lead will be scooped up by a machine which skims off a couple of inches of topsoil, shreds it, and recovers the no. 7½ shot.

And it's quite a costly experience to shoot in the Grand. To fire the entire program, one must post an entry fee of $151.50. To participate in the purses and to play the "options", under which a shooter backs his own prowess against the field, calls for another $199.

On top of that, each shooter needs a minimum of sixty-eight boxes of shells costing about $2.50 each, an outlay of $170. These items plus incidentals, bring the total to $820.50 for the week. When travel, board and room, and other expenses are added, the sum is more than tidy.

During the Grand American, 41 championships for juniors, sub-juniors, men, women, veterans, and teams will be decided in 16-yard, handicap, and doubles events.

And returning the shooting here on Thursday evening, we must report that the Class B title required a shoot-off, too. In that event, Russ Embury and Walt Fischer were tied at the completion of the fifty-bird shooting, with each shooter posting a 44. In the shoot-off, Russ had a 21, while Walt scored a 20. It was a popular win, especially for Russ Embury. Russ will probably make plans for attending the Grand American next season, and playing all the "options".

The Medalist

Rury Mehlhoff, shooting sub-par golf, posted rounds of 34-35, for a 69, to win medalist honors in the qualifying play for the championship flight of the local golf club's tournament. Match play in the eight flights will begin this week.

Stan Larson, the defending city champion, was seeded into the championship flight, but the competition for the remaining seven places in the flight was vigorous. Following Mehlhoff in the qualifying were Ron Solheim, 36-38; Shorty Perkins, 35-39; Reid Stromberg, 37-38; Wally DuChamp, 38-38; and Jon Larson and Ron Kvikstad, with 35-42 and 36-41. Larson and Kvikstad gained the championship flight after playing an extra nine-hole qualifying round. Jack Boyer, with a 39-38, had tied Larson and Kvikstad with a 77. In the playoff round, Larson and Kvikstad scored 36's while Boyer came in with a 39.

In the championship flight pairings, and the first round matches, 18-hole competition, will be played this week, the draw was as follows: Stan Larson vs. Reid Stromberg; Ron Solheim vs. Jon Larson; Rudy Mehlhoff vs. Wally DuChamp; and Shorty Perkins vs. Ron Kvikstad.

An Entertaining Regional Tourney

The Region 2B baseball tournament, starting next Sunday at Bagley and Ada, should provide plenty of fun and entertainment.

With only two leagues participating in the tourney this season it was agreed that each league should have two teams entered in the double-elimination series. As a result of league playoffs, the Northern Minny league will have Bagley and Fosston as its league representatives, while the Norman-Polk league will have Twin Valley and Fertile as its two entries.

In Norman-Polk league playoffs, the Twin Valley team won first place, defeating Fertile, 4 to 1, on Sunday night. Twin Valley will meet the number two team from the Northern Minny league in a first round game at Ada on Sunday night, August 28.

Fosston, defeating Bagley, 11 to 5, in a playoff game at Fosston on Sunday night, forced the Northern Minny league playoffs into a deciding game. This game, between Bagley and Fosston, will be played at Bagley on Wednesday night, and the winner will be the Northern Minny league's number one team. This team will play Fertile at Bagley on Sunday night, August 28.

Soo Office Reports on Area Crop Conditions

Alexandria to Thief River Falls

Moisture conditions vary from poor in the southern area to adequate in the north. Threshing is in full swing with this week's reports showing the following averages: wheat 29, rye 19, barley 38, oats 47 bushels per acre. Prospects for flax are fair in the south; good in the north. Corn and soybeans range from poor to fair depending on their moisture supply and the elevation of the land, the low land being better than high land.

Newfolden to Orleans

Ideal harvesting weather was interrupted by only a few showers. More rain is necessary to give the potatoes and flax a boost. Present condition of flax and potatoes is good to fair. This week's threshing reports show durum averaging 21, hard wheat 29, rye 21, barley 33, oats 45 bushels per acre.

Viking to Rolette, N. D.

Moisture ranging from scant to 2" was received this week. However, more rain is needed for the potatoes, sugar beets and flax. Reports indicate that the present condition of sugar beets is good; potatoes and flax fair to good. Aided by favorable weather threshing is progressing well with this week's reports showing the following averages: durum and hard wheat 22, rye 27, barley 28, oats 39 bu. per acre.

Overly to Norma, N. D.

Dry weather enabled farmers to proceed rapidly with harvesting operations. Very little rain was received this week and the late flax and pastures are noticeably suffered from the drought. Consequently the flax crop will not be as bountiful as was anticipated. This week's threshing reports show the following average yields: durum and hard wheat 21, rye 29, barley 29, oats 39 bu. per acre.

Dahlen to Orrin, N. D.

Sunny, dry weather prevailed this past week which enabled farmers to complete a large portion of their harvesting. Moisture conditions are still inadequate and precipitation was limited to a few showers. Consequently forage crops and late flax are deteriorating rapidly without moisture. The following average yields shown on this week's reports are as follows: durum 22, hard wheat 20, barley 26, oats 35 bushels per acre. Prospects for flax are fair to poor.

General

The weather during the past week has been favorable for cutting and threshing small grains. Most of the Winnipeg Division needs rain for corn, late flax, potatoes, soy beans, sugar beets and pastures. Threshing of rye, wheat, oats and barley is under way; and except for rather light yields of barley on the 3rd, 4th and 5th subdivisions, farmers are generally satisfied with yields. In many areas little of the barley is of malting quality, being light in weight. This week's threshing reports indicate most hard wheat weighs 58 to 60 and durum 58 to 62 pounds per bushel. — E. A. Hamerski, superintendent

Some 2,500 4-H members from all parts of Minnesota will invade the Minnesota State Fair grounds to demonstrate, exhibit or judge livestock or to take part in the dress review during the 10 days of the state fair.

All these young people have won county honors which entitle them to compete for further awards on a state level.

About a thousand of them will perform on seven platforms in the 4-H building, giving home economics and agricultural demonstrations. The demonstrations will begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 27, and continue until 5 p.m. each day except Sundays.

More than 1,250 boys and girls will exhibit livestock in the barns on Saturday, Sept. 3. Their exhibits will include 745 dairy cattle, 155 pigs, 126 sheep, 102 beef heifers, 152 pens of poultry and 25 pens of rabbits. Judging will begin at 8 a.m. Sept. 3.

Eighty county booths in the 4-H building will portray 4-H activities. A center display, also in the 4-H building, will develop the theme, "4-H — Town and Country." Pictures and models will depict activities and projects suited to boys and girls in town and carried out in the country. 4-H junior leaders will be on duty near the display to give information on the club program.

Among special events planned for 4-H'ers attending the fair will be the luncheon Tuesday, Aug. 30, for club members who have received key awards for leadership and outstanding service. The Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce will give its annual banquet for 4-H'ers on Thursday, Sept. 1.

State Ranks Ninth as Beer Producer

Breweries Purchased Many Farm Products

Minnesota's 13 breweries made an important contribution to the farm economy last year, consuming 220,158,417 pounds of barley, rice, corn, sugar, hops and other products, according to the United States Brewers Foundation.

The figure was released in conjunction with publication of the 1960 Brewers Almanac, published annually by the Foundation, whose members brew approximately 85 per cent of the nation's beer and ale. According to the Almanac, Minnesota breweries produced 3,928,641 barrels (31 gallons each) of beer and ale last year, which ranked the state ninth among beer-producers.

These were some of the specific contributions Minnesota breweries made to farm income: they bought 3,389,513 bushels of barley; 1,615,000 bushels of corn, 2,901 bushels of rice; 2,667,002 pounds of sugar and syrups, and 1,197,175 pounds of hops and hop extracts.

Minnesota also ranked fourth among the states in production of barley. North Dakota was the nation's largest barley producer, with California second and Montana third.

"Never throw away hastily any old faith, tradition or convention. They may require modification, but they are the result of the experience of many generations." —Oliver Lodge

We Liked Kennedy

Of the approximately 300 who were present at the Trainmen's dinner at the Eagles hall Friday evening, few, if any, had had less formal schooling than the speaker of the evening, William P. Kennedy, president of the international organization. But few, if any, were better educated than Mr. Kennedy. That was our conclusion after listening to his address and having heard his less formal discussion of our economic problems at a noon luncheon meeting.

Mr. Kennedy admits there are two sides to a question and that in itself, proves him to be a wise man. By experience, observation and study he has become well informed. And he is an effective speaker. Add all of these together and combine them in a man of integrity and you have a great leader.

And he has proven himself to be a great leader of one of the nation's top labor organizations. In that capacity he of course has been, and is, a special pleader. He is an advocate, representing the special interests of the members of the organization he represents. That is as it should be.

We have labor leaders, as we have leaders in other fields, who, we think, lack integrity and in whom we lack confidence. Mr. Kennedy is a labor leader who inspires respect and confidence in himself and in the order he represents.

In bringing their national leader to Thief River Falls the local Trainmen did our community a good service.

On Two Sides of the River

Across the river from troubled Leopoldville, in the city of Brazzaville, another African state achieved independence last week. Brazzaville had been the capitol of French Equatorial Africa. It now is the capitol of a vast area of what was French Equatorial Africa, to be known as Congo, distinguished as the French Congo.

During the war, when France was occupied by the armies of Hitler, Brazzaville was the capitol of Free France and the headquarters of General Charles de Gaulle. There is no hatred of the French among the natives and the new Republic of Congo will be a partner in the French Community of nations.

The ceremony recognizing the new nation was simple and impressive. A spokesman for the French government said,

> "—united within the Community, the French Republic and the Republic of the Congo will fraternally pursue their common task."

The spokesman for the new government responded with words that promise well for the relationship, within the Community, between the two governments. He said:

> "Our first duty is to show our gratitude to and friendship to France. She has led us wisely and surely to independence. She has prepared us for it during long years, instructing us, equipping us, and showing us fraternal affection and devotion. We therefore rejoice together in our emancipation like a family when a son sets up his own home."

The French Congo, although it extends over a vast area, has only an estimated 760,000 inhabitants, of whom about a hundred thousand live in Brazzaville. There are only 10,000 non-Africans in the Republic.

The natives who inhabit the country on both sides of the Congo river are cousins. On one side of the river the natives and the whites get along well together. On the other side there is hatred.

In material things the natives of the Belgian Congo had received more than had their cousins in French Equatorial Africa. But the French had lived with the natives as friendly and sympathetic neighbors. The natives were treated as fellow human beings. That relationship is now paying off.

A Nation of Complainers?

From the Colorado Transcript, published at Golden, Colorado, comes the following editorial, expressing some views that merit consideration. It isn't particularly flattering to us as citizens of a democracy, where each of us, in theory, has a share in the responsibility of government. Perhaps it is not flattering because it comes pretty close to being true. But read it anyhow. With an important election coming up it certainly is timely.

"A democracy, despite its many advantages, breeds a strange type of people.

"They use their vast amount of freedom not to help create an even better life but to complain about the inadequacies of the one they have. They use their right to participate not before the die is cast but after the mold is formed.

"The right to complain without fear of reprisal, of course, is one of our basic and most cherished freedoms. But during the nearly two centuries since our nation was founded, we Americans apparently have come to the conclusion that our participation in government—local, state and federal—should be limited to passing judgment on what has already transpired.

"We have become a nation of complainers after the fact rather than workers before it.

"In about three months, we will be in the midst of county, state, and national elections — that most important yet most abused of all American privileges. At such a time in the Soviet Union, with its one "candidate" for each office and its mandatory voting, there would be a 98 per cent turnout at the polls. If 1960 is an average election year in the United States, however, ballots will be printed for only about 60 per cent of the eligible voters, and of those, somewhat less than five out of six will be used.

"Qualifying as a voter under law, of course, is far easier than qualifying as an intelligent and well-informed voter. For those over 21 years of age, being the former requires very little other than registering. Being the later requires time, work and individual thought—three "hardships" the average adult apparently is unable to endure.

"Ideally, everyone should be interested enough to study the pending problems at each level of government. He should "sound out" the candidates, either personally or through the various news media, on their views of taxes, reapportionment, state and federal aid, national defense, states' rights and many other issues.

"Only then, after he has earned the right to participate in government, should he feel justified in criticizing the result. Only then can he count himself as one of the builders of our democratic way of life instead of as one of its destroyers.

"After Nov. 8, to which group will YOU belong?"

Better That We Believe

The Russians announced Saturday that a dog-carrying space ship had been returned to earth with its live cargo safe. While the details of the triumph were vague, our American space men have proven that what the Russians say they have accomplished is not possible. They may be telling the truth. But the statement that this project was so successful that "the deviation from the calculated point of landing was less than seven miles," approaches the incredible.

We are assuming that the passenger capsule was not a guided missile, and when we take into consideration the probable error in directing a carefully aimed projectile at a target just a few miles away, it is inconceivable that a capsule could be triggered out of a satellite travelling through space at a speed of 227 miles a minute and land it in a target area less than 14 miles wide. The percentage of direct hits scored by a jet plane dropping bombs on a battleship from an altitude of five miles would be very low.

But maybe the crafty thing for us to do is to believe their story; accept their statements as true and assume that what they now have done, they are able to repeat. Better that we overestimate their progress and their potential than to underestimate them. Our own progress has been good, but not good enough to justify complacency.

A Lesson In Secrecy

(Montgomery, Ala. Advertiser)

It is now law that a congressman must account for the public money which he spends to cover travel expenses in this country and abroad. President Eisenhower signed the bill Tuesday, July 12.

What is remarkable is that the law was such a long time coming, or that a law was required in the first place.

Congress, which originates all money bills and then through its committees chases after waste and misspending, permitted of its members what it condemned elsewhere. The sums were relatively trifling as the federal budget goes, but the fact that many congressmen claimed a special exemption from public accountability is what galled.

It was through the exertions of newspaper reporters that the practice was halted.

Seeking to breach the secrecy with which many congressmen had surrounded their expenditures, the reporters (from the Knight newspapers) laboriously poured through a mass of spending records. The records were available to them, but filed with little system. One kind of expenditure was stacked with another, so that it was necessary to examine thousands of documents to find the few that related to expense accounts.

Difficult as it was, enough of the truth emerged to support a series of articles. But the minute the articles began to appear, an officious clerk and several congressmen reflexively clamped a secrecy label on the records. The label didn't stay, but the attempt illustrates at once the value of secrecy to the bureaucrat and the beneficial effects of the opposite policy to the taxpayers.

Gerald Hanson couldn't keep ahead of weeds even with his corn checked. So this year, the Foley area farmer drilled the corn and applied the recommended rate of atrazine in the row band after planting. According to Burton Olson, Benton county agent, Hanson's corn is almost completely weed-free and needed no more than two cultivations. Hanson is so satisfied he says he would keep using the atrazine even if he does have a carry-over problem.

Here's why excess soil compaction hurts: Compaction reduces moisture and air movement, especially in finer textured soils. Poor aeration means poor production. Kirk Woodworth, SCS soil scientist from Owatonna, says he has seen much compaction in the surface 10 inches. Main cause is too much cultivation and working the ground when it is too wet. He urges fewer trips over fields, thru rough tillage, chemical sprays, and growing crops that don't require so much tillage.

Laying drain tile in patterns is better than a random arrangement, according to Waldemar Grewe, farmer near Gibbon. In 1959, he put a pattern system of tile on his lowest 30 acres. He put 13,000 feet of tile in, with laterals 100 feet apart, in cooperation with SCS technicians from Gaylord. Even though this was a wet spring, Grewe worked the newly-tiled field first, even before his upland fields with random tile systems.

PRUNING RASPBERRIES

In many gardens the raspberries are often allowed to grow to a dense tangle of old and new plants. Berries from such patches are not only difficult to pick but usually small and poor quality.

Raspberries should be grown in neat, well spaced rows that are cultivated frequently to keep the suckers down between the rows.

After the last berries have been picked, it is time to prune. First, cut out all the old canes that bore fruit. These canes will die and never produce fruit, even if left in the planting. Next, cut out some of the surplus new canes. The exact number of canes you leave will depend on the system of culture, soil fertility, and moisture conditions. If the plants are grown in rows, keep about 3 or 4 strong canes per foot of row. If they are in a hill system, keep 6 to 8 strong canes per hill.

Beer By-Product Lowers Penicillin Prices

Ten times as much penicillin can be purchased for 30 cents as could formerly be obtained for $4.00. This is possible due to a by-product of beer manufacturing which has been found to be an excellent culturing medium of the penicillin mold. The nation's two largest penicillin producers are now breweries.

SPAN OF TIME — Eaton, Ohio — A distinct American rarity, this two-way covered bridge with built-in lane divider (left) spans Seven Mile Creek near Eaton. Rugged beams make the bridge extremely strong, but the wooden floor takes a beating from today's autos. Built in 1829, the "double-barreled" span is one of only eight remaining in the U.S.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Q—I expect to be starting school this fall under the Korean GI Bill. How soon will I get my first GI allowance from VA?

A—Your first VA school allowance will not come until after you have been in school about two months. Payment can only be made after the first month's training is completed. And VA has 20 days after that to process checks. Be prepared with money enough to last at least two months.

Q—I am eligible for War Orphans schooling and want to start training this fall but cannot make up my mind about my course of study. Will VA help me decide?

A—Yes. In fact, VA is required by law to go over your study plans with you and your parent or guardian, and arrange for vocational counseling so you and VA can be sure you have chosen the right course. Therefore, the VA advises that you apply immediately if you intend to start school this fall.

Q—Is there any deadline for applying for compensation for a service-connected disability?

A—No. A veteran with a service-connected disability may apply for compensation at any time. However, if he applies within one year from date of discharge, compensation may be back-dated to his first day as a civilian.

Q—I want to pay my GI insurance premiums once a year instead of once a month. Where can I find out how much the yearly premium will be?

A—Write to the VA District office where you pay your premiums. Be sure to include your policy number when writing.

. . . Desserts are fine . . .

. . . but meat and potatoes are more substantial!

Almost everybody likes desserts . . . but few would want to try to live on them! It is the "main course" of the meal (usually meat and potatoes) that gives us our essential nourishment.

Newspapers, too, have their "dessert" side: comics, sport news, society notes, entertaining features and columnists . . . all of which add up to a goodly measure of "reading refreshment."

But it is on the "meat and potatoes" side (the prompt, accurate, comprehensive coverage of the NEWS) that newspapers serve the more serious interests of their readers. Your newspaper brings you the facts about what is happening in your community . . . facts which may directly affect your life . . . facts you must have in order to make wise decisions, take constructive actions on almost everything that concerns you.

Council on Better Vision Urges Eye Exams for Pupils

Says Poor Vision Often Is Responsible for Bad Performance In School

An estimated 25 per cent of America's 34,000,000 school children have trouble seeing, yet many of them don't realize their vision is abnormal, the Upper Midwest Council for Better Vision reported today.

Poor vision, the council said, is often a cause of poor marks. A number of studies have shown a decided relationship exists between visual efficiency and scholastic performance. One school reported its achievement level rose nearly 15 per cent after a thorough survey of the children's requirements was followed up by adequate eye care.

Poor vision can also affect a child's attitude in school, the council said. Some students make a determined effort to study but find that their vision blurs after 10 minutes or so and have to rest between brief periods of reading. Others suppress one eye to avoid seeing double. Some students, frustrated by inadequate achievement resort to bad behavior in an attemp to find some avenue of self-expression.

One study of 400 fourth grade children in five different schools produced these results: Out of 126 pupils who were visually below average, 75 per cent were in the lower half of the arithmetic class and 45 per cent were in the lowest quarter of that class. As for reading class, 80 per cent of the 126 who were visually below average were in the lower 60 per cent and 35 per cent of them were in the lowest 20 per cent.

To keep a youngster's vision up to par during the school years, the council recommended a yearly eye examination.

Soil Packing May Lower Crop Yields

'U M. Man Says Excess Compaction Hits Output

How overuse of heavy field machinery can pack the soil and lower crop yields was reported Saturday at the International Soil Science Congress in Madison, Wisc.

George Blake, University of Minnesota soil physicist, said that experimentally packing the soil surface in recent field trials lowered potato yields 54 per cent.

Packing reduced wheat and sugar beet yields 13 per cent, and corn 7.5 per cent.

Where both surface and the plow bottom layer were packed, corn yields went down 14.5 per cent.

Also, Blake said, packing tended to harm the crop quality. He found twice as many crooked, misshapen beets in fields with a compacted soil surface. Potato tubers had lower specific gravity—and therefore lower cooking quality.

In two years of these tests, Blake packed the soil surface with a heavily loaded truck, and packed the plow layer with a special weighted wheel. The resulting compaction was similar to that which occurs from excessive use of field machinery; compacted soils had less air space and were harder to penetrate.

The results, he said, produce further evidence of the value of minimum tillage — working the soil as little as possible.

Many farmers have already accepted the idea, particularly in corn production. Thousands in Minnesota nowadays plant corn in wheel tracks on soil which has been plowed but tilled very little or not at all otherwise.

Potato Trade Law Topic at G. Forks

Meeting Set for Armory Thursday, September 1

A PACA marketing clinic for Red River Valley potato growers, dealers and shippers has been arranged by the Red River Valley Potato Growers association, and will be held at Grand Forks Thursday, September 1, at the Armory beginning at 10 a.m., Central Standard Time.

The purpose of the clinic is to discuss the perishable agricultural commodities act, and give everyone an opportunity to understand their rights and responsibilities under the act, commonly known as PACA.

John J. Dimond, chief, regulatory branch, fruit and vegetable division, U.S. department of agriculture, who is in charge of administering the act, will conduct the clinic.

Although the clinic is being held to give growers, shippers and dealers an opportunity to learn of the changes that have recently been made in the act, and to better understand trading under the act, the clinic is open to anyone in the produce business who may be interested in attending.

Livestock Entry List at State Fair Sets New Record

8,184 Animals Due to Be Exhibited at 1960 Show Starting Next Saturday

Livestock from fifteen states and Canada will be a top attraction of the Minnesota State Fair, August 27 thru September 5.

States represented include Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Georgia, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, as well as Canada.

Horses, cattle, swine, and sheep to be shown in open class, FFA, and 4-H Club contests number 8,184 animals, biggest such entry in the history of the fair.

The combined entry consists of 1,293 horses, 2,543 dairy and beef cattle, 3,028 swine, and 1,300 sheep.

The open-class sheep show is 40 per cent bigger than a year ago. So large are other open-class shows that newly built cattle, swine, and horse annexes will be filled with over-flow entries.

Open-class cattle, swine, and sheep shows will be held first six days of the fair, and FFA and 4-H Club shows last four days. Open-class judging begins August 29.

The horse show will present seven evening and five afternoon performances. Evening shows are scheduled Sunday, August 28 thru Friday September 2, and on September 4. Matinees will be held August 27 and 28, September 2, 4, 5.

State Legion Sets Membership Drive

Seeks to Exceed 95,000 Members Signed for '60

Assembling and mailing 1960 American Legion membership material is a big job, according to R. M. Parker, department accountant, St. Paul. Approximately 5,000 pounds of membership cards, application blanks, transmittal forms, and related informational brochures were sent out this week to the 632 posts locates throughout the state. The Legion is he largest veteran's organization in the state and perhaps the largest of all the community service organizations.

101,800 membership cards in quadruplicate were contained in the 80 mail sacks and 8 large cartons in the parcel post mailing, which included over 330,000 other pieces of preparatory and promotional material.

The shipment launches the '61 drive for memberships with equal opportunity for each post to be the first to return the new year's quota. The eventual goal of the campaign is to exceed the nearly 95,000 memberships of 1960, according to George Abalan, Duluth, department membership director. Such accomplishment will create the fifth consecutive all-time high in this department, Abalan reported, and the tenth consecutive year of continuous increase.

Drive Launched to Halt Forest Fires

Keep Minnesota Green Commitee Takes Lead

Keep Minnesota Green (KMG) has called out its Fire Prevention Research committee launching a new drive to prevent forest fires. Extreme dry conditions have led to a general state-wide alert to cope with mounting fire danger.

The committee, appointed by Frank Koufert, KMG president and director of the University of Minnesota school of forestry, spearheads a new crash program to study why we have fires and what can be done to prevent them.

Floyd T. Ryan, KMG executive secretary and member of the committee, said Minnesota's "hot spot" areas will be constantly under intensive obbservation to determine exact causes of fires. The study will base a program of fire prevention adaptable to all areas of the state.

Other Committee members are Robert D. McCulley, Chairman, Lake State Forest Experiment Station; J. Eldon Johnson, Minnesota and Ontario Co.; Don Wilson, State Division of Forestry; Frank Irving, University School of Forestry.

The Committee reports that the three greatest causes of fires are careless smokers, intentional meadow burning, and willful burning of brush land.

P[illegible]ulation Changes t[illegible] Affect Allocation o[illegible] [illegible]treet Aid Funds

A major redistribution of state aid street funds to Minnesota municipalities with over 5,000 population has been brought about by population changes indicated in preliminary 1960 census figures, State Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman announced today.

Street funds are apportioned 50 per cent on the basis of population and 50 per cent on the basis of computed needs. Because of changes in population and new urban classifications, some municipalities are now faced with reductions in their share of those funds based on population, while others will get increases.

A combination of growth and the addition of 18 new urban municipalities in the 5,000 or more population classification shows an urban population expansion of about 25 per cent, and unless a municipality's gain is equal to or greater than this increase, its portion of funds based on population will automatically be reduced, according to the manner of distribution specified by state law, Zimmerman said.

Seventy-seven municipalities will now share in municipal state aid street funds instead of the previous 59.

For comparison, the 1960 apportionment of $4,185,298 to the 59 municipalities, as based on a total population of over 1¼ million, amounted to slightly more than $2.73 per person. Using the same 1960 apportionment figure, with 77 municipalities having a population of 1.9 million to share 1961 funds the apportionment per person would drop to $2.19, a reduction of nearly 54 cents per person.

It is not yet possible to determine the impact the additional municipalities will have based on the needs portion of the allocation formula, according to Zimmerman. This data will be prepared immediately in advance of the final 1961 apportionment to be announced in January.

In order to assist the municipalities in budgeting street maintenance and construction expenditures for 1961, the Minnesota highway department has released a schedule showing the indicated revisions in the population portion of the state aid allotment. It is based upon the total funds allocated for 1960 distribution. No attempt has been made to estimate the increase in the total funds available for distribution in 1961.

Thief River Falls, with a preliminary 1960 census of 7,112 compared to 6,926 in 1950, would receive an apportionment of $15,569, or $3,319 less than the $18,888 due on the basis of the 1950 census.

Chief E. Cummings Tells TRF Lions of Law Enforcement

Club Defers Until Spring Presentation to City of New Playground Equipment

Police Chief Elton Cummings discussed recent trends in law enforcement work at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday noon in the Elks club rooms.

Introduced by Dr. Leo Herber, program chairman, Cummings stated that while police calls of all types nearly tripled from 1954 to 1959, some categories of serious offenses actually showed a reduction during the period. He noted a sharp increase in youth larceny cases, including shoplifting, and added that the issuance of worthless checks also has gained.

Cummings also pointed out that no traffic deaths have been recorded in the city of Thief River Falls in nearly six years, and he urged the cooperation of all local citizens in observing traffic laws.

Lieut. Robert Burkhardt of the Salvation Army, who with Mrs. Burkhardt is leaving early next week for a new post in Virginia, Minn., spoke briefly, expressing regret at leaving the local club and community.

Bill LaFave, a charter member of the Lions, was presented by Secretary George Hale with an Old Monarch certificate, and E. J. Gaer was given a one-year perfect attendance pin.

Club President Clarence Mattson announced that the board of directors had approved payment of nearly $400 in playground equipment for the local parks. Owing to the lateness of the season, he said, installation of the equipment will be delayed until next spring.

Grain Handler Strike at Twin Ports Settled

Local Elevators Have Been Plugged Since Last Monday

Grain shippers in this area today heaved a collective sigh of relief on learning that the grain handlers strike, which had tied up the movement of grain thru the Duluth and Superior ports, since last Saturday, had been settled late Wednesday.

The strike had its repercussions in Thief River Falls, where all elevators, unable to move out the grain, became plugged to capacity Monday, and were forced to turn away many truckloads of grain. It was probably the first time in the 30-year history of the Osborne-McMillan company's 750,000-bushel capacity plant that it was unable to accept grain.

E. A. Hamerski, superintendent of the Winnipeg division of the Soo Line, stated that to relieve congestion in the local yards, several hundred cars filled with grain had been moved early this week to sidings in towns along the route to Duluth, with about 100 cars left on this division.

With more than 5,200 carloads of grain already in Duluth waiting to be unloaded, a week is expected to elapse before any more grain can be received here.

Members of locals 112 and 118 of the Grain Millers union late Wednesday approved a new contract calling for 12 cents more per hour the first of the year, retroactive to July 1, and 8 cents more next July 1, a spokesman for management said.

The settlement was announced after nearly continuous 48-hour sessions, with federal Conciliation Commissioners Raymond Lewis and Charles LaValley heading the conference along with State Labor Conciliator Charles Johnson.

700 Persons at Sioux Falls Discuss Region Power Development

More than 700 representatives of rural electric cooperatives and municipal power systems in an eight-state area attended a meeting in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, Monday to hear an explanation of a proposed program of central power development and the pooling of existing facilities.

The meeting was sponsored by the Mid-West Electric Consumers Association, an organization of "preference customers" served by the Bureau of Reclamation hydro power facilities on the Missouri River. A power supply committee that had been authorized to study the needs of area and the possibilities for a giant power plan, presented reports and recommendations.

The study of this committee revealed that the eight-state area faces a power shortage after 1963, and estimates that from that time on there will be a need for additional generating capacity of 200,000 kilowatts a year to meet the requirements of rural electric and municipally served consumers.

Andrew Freeman, manager of Minnkota Power Cooperative, which serves this area, outlined the development program recommended by the committee. He pointed out that the Bureau is not going to build steam plants to supplement the supply of Missouri River hydro power and that if they are to be built they will have to be built by the joint effort of rural electric co-ops and the municipalities. Building large steam plants at the source of low cost fuel will make possible the production of electricity at costs that will compare favorably with Missouri river hydro power. The alternative to large, efficient central plants of this kind is many small, inefficient units and high-cost power.

A factor in favor of the central plants is the fact that a vast transmission system is already available and can be explaned at a low per-kw cost.

In order to proceed with such a plan it will be necessary to form a giant power cooperative through which the rural electric and municipal plant consumers can join forces in a long range power development program, Mr. Freeman explained.

Representatives of the Bureau of Reclamation encouraged the development of such a program and gave assurance that the Bureau would work with an organization of the kind proposed Alex Cloutier was born in Argyle January 14, 1892, and attended school there, coming to Thief River Falls in 1909. In 1916 he was employed by the Soo Line as a brakeman, and after his service during the war he served as a conductor until his recent retirement.

He served for 26 years as a member of the Pennington county selective service board, much of the time as chairman. He also was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters and of the Eagles aerie.

Farm Bureau Leaders Talk Here on Issues

State President Heads Delegation at Session Monday

Twenty-three Farm Bureau members, members of resolutions committees from Red Lake, East Polk, West Polk, Marshall, Roseau and Pennington counties, met at the Rex cafe Monday evening, Aug. 22, to hear area and state officials explain matters which they could consider for action.

C. W. Myers, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation; L. L. Daby of Warren, state board member from the ninth congressional district; Clifford Pyle, regional field man from Crookston, and Ken Snyder, new administrative secretary of the state federation, were present at the meeting to outline procedures and to discuss state and national issues.

The meeting was opened with the introduction by Albert Koop, president of the Pennington county Farm Bureau, of L. L. Daby, who presided at the meeting and began with an explanation of the resolution process beginning with the county meetings.

C. W. Myers, state president, called farming "a dynamic industry offering challenges" and said that four out of every ten persons employed in the nation are employed in some business or industry connected with agriculture.

Myers listed state problems which the Farm Bureau feels need attention including the reapportionment amendment, the compulsory milk house bill, compulsory car inspection bill, driver education, farm safety, voluntary meat inspection and gasoline tax.

The state president, after the presentation of these subjects, told the audience that action must be initiated by the county organizations.

Ken Snyder, administrative secretary of the state organization, pointed out Farm Bureau policies on agricultural programs since 1953 and listed items or issues of national interest that the organization felt warranted attenion and discussion. Among the topics listed were farm programs, foreign trade, anti-trust laws and rulings, farm labor and education.

"You are citizens first and farmers second," Snyder told the group. "At no other time has it been so important for every person to find political candidates who stand for the things he believes in and wants and then to stand behind those candidates."

During a question and answer period, the question of how farmers could best express their opposition to the grain handlers strike in Duluth was raised. Individual letters to state and national government officials and to candidates for office were urged by the state leaders. When letters to the governor were suggested, one member of the audience asked, "Do you think he will do anything about the strike?"

The matter of labor dictatorship as a problem was agreed upon and that something must

Connie Ekeren Tells More about Greece

Miss Connie Ekeren, Lincoln high school junior and an American Field Service student spending the summer months in Greece, gives further details of her stay in that country in the following letter. She is scheduled to leave for home next Tuesday, August 30.

Dear Friends,

My stay in Greece is fast drawing to a close. In about two weeks I will once again be in the U.S.A.

A short while ago my family and I spent three exciting days traveling all over the island of Peleponnesus. We visited such places as Corinth, Sparta, Mystra, Mycenes, Tripoli, and Olympia. About eighty per cent of the traveling was done in the mountains.

All of the cities were as I expected them to be except Sparta. I had imagined ancient ruins on a mountain top. Instead I found a modern city situated in a valley.

Because my family is rich, we were able to stay at Class A hotels. This meant such luxuries as a wash basin in each room, hot running water, and, in some rooms, a private phone.

This past week I spent an evening at the home of Mary Demetreliou. It was so nice to meet her friends. But I was especially pleased to meet her family. The evening was spent dancing, taking pictures and talking over old times.

The most touching moment of the evening was when I first entered their home. Mary's younger sister and a friend had spent the day designing and erecting a special "Welcome" sign.

Recently I attended two parties, each being held by a Greek AFS'er. Most of the guests were 1960 AFS'ers—Greek returnees and Americans abroad.

On August 27, I will depart from Patras and go to Athens where I will stay for three days with sixty-six other AFS'ers. One day will be spent visiting the famous Delphi, which is indeed something to look forward to.

Early on the morning of August 30, I will board a Flying Tiger chartered plane. Twenty hours later I will be once again in the U.S.A.

Although I will have left my Greek family and friends, the memories remain. I am looking forward to sharing these memories with you.

Sincerely,
Connie Ekeren

Electric Power Development Is Sioux Falls Topic

and give it all possible assistance. It was assumed that government financing would be available for this type of expansion.

The next step in the advancement of this program would be a thorough survey of the power generating potential and the future power needs of the rural electric and municipal service consumers in the area that would be interested in exploring the possibilities further. It was estimated that such a survey by competent engineers might cost up to $300,000 and this cost would be distributed on a pro rata basis among the interested agencies. Mr. Freeman stated stated that this question of participation should be decided by November 1.

N. B. Bennett, assistant commissioner of reclamation of the Department of Interior, explained to the group what the Bureau proposes to do to make supplemental power available for the additional needs of the next few years. All contracts will be renegotiated on a basis that will provide firm power according to estimated needs through 1963.

The Bureau would agree to provide additional power during this period by purchase from other sources if necessary, the additional cost being added to the firm bureau rate. It was estimated that such power could be secured and made available at little added cost.

Attending the meeting from Thief River Falls were Roy Lee, president of the city council; Morris Owen, chief engineer of the city power plant; and W. E. Dahlquist of the Times.

Miss Judy Gramstad of Benson, Minn. spent the weekend at the home of a friend, Gwen Anderson of this city.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

We wish to congratulate Arthur M. Senstad Lodge, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Chamber of Commerce for the opportunity to hear Mr. Kennedy speak. He covered our economy thoroughly as it now is, the rebroadcast was a good idea, we enjoyed hearing the speech again. Thank you all.

I wish to point out a mistake in the August 22nd issue of the Times, under the headlines "Trainmen's Chief Is Guest speaker at Banquet Here." In the third paragraph we read, "Kennedy stated that he felt that the organization, the oldest labor organization in the United States, was the ideal labor organization in the country." Mrs. Kennedy did not say that. He said, one of the oldest labor organizations in the United States."

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has the distinction of being the oldest railroad labor organization in the United States. In May 1863 a few men met in Marshall, Michigan, to discuss the matter of forming an organization for the welfare of locomotive engineers. The second meeting was in Detroit, Michigan, on May 5, 1863 where they decided to call themselves "The Brotherhood of the Footboard," which name was later changed to Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

At this meeting W. D. Robinson was elected the first Chief Engineer. The reason for the name Brotherhood of the Footboard was because the engineer and fireman stood on a platform back of the boiler. There were no cabs on locomotives in those early days to protect the men from wind, rain and snow. There is now a monument marking the spot where the first meeting was held in Marshall, Michigan.

Respectfully yours,
C. E. Hellquist

Law Officers Met in City Tuesday

Shoplifting Was Main Topic of Discussion

Sheriff Charles Richards and Police Chief Elton Cummings were hosts at a meeting Tuesday evening of sheriffs and police officers from several northwest Minnesota counties and towns, during which means of combatting shoplifting, improving traffic safety and law enforcement were discussed. The meeting was held in the court house.

Shoplifting discussion occupied most of the time during the meeting and it was agreed area peace officers would conduct a concentrated effort to stamp out shoplifting. The problem is not confined to Thief River Falls alone in the area, Chief Cummings said. Several shoplifters were apprehended in the city this summer.

Other discussion centered around suggestions which could be made to the legislative committee on ways of improving traffic safety and better law enforcemen in general, Cummings stated.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Fertilizer recommendations for different soils are getting another look this sumer from farmers and county agents around the state. In cooperation with Lowell Hanson, University of Minnesota extension soils specialist, the farmers and agents have set up more than 100 soil test correlation plots. Each one is split into six different areas, each getting a different fertilizer treatment. Purpose is to check response to fertilizer against what would have been recommended based on soil test.

Ripe corn where he used to have nubbins—that was the experience last year of August Waldock, near Foley. His black, heavy silt loam in low, flat fields wasn't properly drained in past years. With help from county agent Burton Olson and SCS worker Leonard Connelly, Waldock worked out a complete farm conservation plan — including contour strips on sidehills, drainage ditches in the flat. The soil then warmed up faster, dried out quicker and raised a better crop. He also set up a rotation of corn, corn, grain and hay on the low ground and hay, hay, corn and grain on the contour strips.

Stock water pits do double duty in the Big Stone county soil conservation district. Besides giving water to livestock, each one checked this spring was serving as a haven for waterfowl. According to Charles Washburn, SCS conservationist from Ortonville, most of the pits have ducks nesting nearby.

A flax variety resistant to aster yellows disease may now be possible. Scientists in Canada found resistance to the disease in two selections from the World Flax Collection in St. Paul. Now, USDA scientists V. E. Comstock and R. A. Frederiksen at the St. Paul campus are testing the selections further to see if they can be used in a breeding program. Aster yellows is always a potential threat. A few years ago, it wrecked 20 per cent of the state flax crop. Current varieties do not resist it.

Former Prisoner in Russia Speaks in City Sept. 15

Nine and a half years' imprisonment in a Soviet prison and slave labor camp can seem like a lifetime, according to John Noble, one of the few American citizens ever to return from a Russian prison camp. He will be relating his experiences when he speaks at Assemblies of God Tabernacle Thursday, Sept. 15.

Mr. Noble regained his freedom from Soviet imprisonment in 1955, only after personal intervention by President Eisenhower. Since then he has spent much of his time traveling about the country, speaking to church, civic and other groups in an effort to awaken the American people to the dangers of Communism.

At a Thanksgiving Day ceremony this past year Mr. Noble received the 1959 Freedom Book Award for his book, "I Found God in Soviet Russia."

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Comeback of the Year

When the year's athletic feats are recapitulated it is probable that Ron Kvikstad's come-back win over Larry (Shorty) Perkins in a first round match in the city golf tournament will be rated the year's best. Ron defeated Shorty, 1-up, after twenty holes of play on Monday afternoon.

But it was the manner in which he won this match that gives such lustre to Ron's performance. At the completion of the first five holes of the match, Kvikstad, apparently suffering from jitters and the realization that he was playing against one of the tournament favorites, was four-down, losing the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th holes. Against such a steady-shooting opponent as Perkins, such a deficit would appear insurmountable.

Ron won the 6th with a birdie, and the 7th with a par when Shorty three-putted. Kvikstad had a river ball on number eight, and lost the hole, and was three-down coming in to number nine. Perkins' drive on number nine faded off into the river, and Ron, on in two, was down in two putts for a birdie four, and had pared Shorty's lead to 2-up.

On the second nine, Kvikstad had a birdie deuce on number four and carded a birdie three on number seven to even the match. Perkins won number eight with a four to go 1-up with one to play, but Ron's birdie four on number nine evened the match and forced the encounter into extra holes. The tenth hole was halved with par fours, but on the eleventh, Ron closed out the match by dropping a fourteen-foot putt for a bird.

The cards reveal that Shorty had a score of 514 253 351 for a one-under-par 35. In the extra holes, Perkins had a pair of fours, par golf, while Kvikstad had a 4 and a 3, one under.

Kvikstad will now meet the winner of the Rudy Mehlhoff vs. Wally DuChamp match in a semi-finals match.

Worth a Look

A first round game of the Region 12B baseball eliminations will be played on the Fair Grounds diamond here on Saturday night, with game time slated for 8:15 P.M. Greenbush, winners over the Bums in a playoff finals game on Sunday, by a 6 to 4 score, will represent the Pen-Ro-Shall league, and will meet Alvarado or Florian of the Red River Valley league.

The winner of Saturday night's game will then travel to Warroad on Sunday for a 2:30 P.M. game against the Warroad Muskies. The winner of this tilt will gain a berth in the state Springfield early next month.

This Greenbush team will probably be the shortender in Saturday night's game, but if manager Manville Borgen's team can get some consistent pitching, Greenbush may surprise the boys from the Red River Valley loop.

Greenbush will exhibit a pair of youngsters who are top flight baseball prospects. We're referring to Larry Johnson, a fifteen-year old third baseman, and Larry Colton, a sixteen-year old shortstop. These two boys give Greenbush ample protection in the field, and they are sturdy batsmen, with Johnson hitting in the leadoff position and Colton batting in the number two slot.

Miscellany

Arlan Hjelle and Paul Saurdiff, members of coach Ralph Skay's Prowler baseball squad this past season, will be enrolling at Bemidji State College next month. Bob Montebello, coach of the Bemidji State baseball team, has been greatly impressed by Hjelle's pitching performances in the Northern Minny league this past season. Montebello managed the Cass Lake team into a share of first place in the league standings this year . . Corky Johnson, who graduated from Erskine of the Northern Minny league into Organized Ball, and who is pitching for Springfield of the Class A Eastern league, won his fourteenth game on his fifth try. Corky, who was an early-season sensation with the Springfield Giants, won his first victory since July 16 when he blanked the league-leading Williamsport team, 2 to 0, on three hits. The righthander, who notched his fourteenth win after losing four in a row, struck out eight and walked but two batsmen . . Had a short note from Harold (Babe) Paulsen, postmarked Trondheim, Norway. Babe, who is director of the physical education department at Slippery Rock Teachers college, has been visiting in Norway for a couple of weeks. He states that he was able to go fishing while in Hammerfest, and reports that "two of us caught thirty-six fish in less than one hour." . . Louis and Adeline Benson have been visiting in town for the past week. They have stayed at the home of Mrs. Benson's parents, the Fred Lorentsons. Louis is well-remembered here for his baseball exploits during the late 1930's and early 1940's, being a pitcher - catcher - outfielder for manager George Lee's strong clubs of that era. Following his play, Louie joined the Crookston Pirates of the Northern league for a season He is now in the Evansville, Minn. school system, and has been there for the past five years. Louie was rightly proud of the play of his sixteen-year old son, Don, with the Evansville American Legion junior baseball team. This team defeated Alexandria in a playoff, and lost to Willmar, 1 to 0, in the finals.

Program of Tree Planting Planned by Marshall ASC

Now Receiving Requests for Cost-sharing under ASC Program for 1961

Chairman Edward Johnson of the Marshall county ASC committee announced today the opening of the 1961 Agricultural Conservation program. Initial requests for cost-sharing will be limited to tree planting practices only. The initial sign-up period will be from August 25 to October 3.

Through the ACP the federal government provides cost-sharing of up to 80 per cent of the average cost of planting approved species of trees to farm owners and operators who request assistance.

The Minnesota conservation department division of forestry and the Soil Conservation Service, through cooperative agreements with the Marshall county committee will provide technical assistance to each approved applicant.

This service will include advice to the farmer on what species to plant, what site preparation is necessary to insure a good stand of trees and, wherever necessary, will provide proper designs for windbreaks and shelterbelts.

Chairman Johnson urged each farmer who intends to request cost-sharing for tree planting under the 1961 ACP to do so as promptly as possible. He stated that requests filed now will receive prompt consideration. Requests for cost-sharing should be made to the Marshall County ASC committee at its office at Warren.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

by JIM KIMBALL

As all good duck hunters know, the waterfowl of this country are managed by flyways. That is, the states have been divided into four vertical sections, up and down which different groups of ducks are supposed to migrate. We all understand this very well, but the ducks have not all been properly informed or, if they have, they sometimes cheat by getting out of their prescribed flyways at times.

Be this as it may, the flyway concept of waterfowl management has proven good. For example, suppose we have a good supply of ducks in our Mississippi flyway but, due to drought or other conditions, they are scarce on the Pacific Coast. There is no reason why we should have restricted hunting here because that other group of ducks needs protection—or vice versa.

The states within each flyway have organized themselves into flyway councils, Minnesota being one of the 14 states in the Mississippi flyway which extends from here to Louisiana.

When I started representing Minnesota at these council meetings five years ago it was much like going to one of the old-type sportsmen's club meetings which, thank goodness, are disappearing in Minnesota. At their early meetings the councils appeared to have two objectives: one, to fight each other (mostly north versus south); and, two, put pressure on the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Southern representatives would come to me and try to trade votes. They would whisper, "I'll vote for anything you want on woodcock and jacksnipe if you will vote for a long dove season;" or, "I'll vote for a September opening on ducks if you will vote for letting us shoot through January." Too few were interested in the welfare of the wildlife resource.

But, over the past five years an amazing change has taken place. This year there was no attempt to trade votes and the first concern of the Mississippi Flyway Council was the welfare of our waterfowl. We voted to close the season on cans and redheads if they needed further protection and to refrain from any liberalization in the season length and bag limit. Much as we all like to start hunting one-half hour before sunrise, we voted against it unless the federal service believed some relaxation was warranted. Illinois and Wisconsin realized they were shooting too many geese. They took the advice of our technical committee and agreed that Wisconsin would stop shooting when 7,000 geese were killed and Illinois would close when they had taken 14,000. In short, the council had reached maturity and demonstrated restraint and sound judgment. I was proud to be a member.

I was also proud to be elected co-chairman of the council, which meant I would be the northern representative for our flyway at the National Flyway Council and the National Waterfowl Advisory Board in Washington, D. C.

At the national meetings, as at the flyway meeting, it was obvious that the influence of pressure and special-interest groups was slight while factual data submitted by the states and Canadian provinces provided the basis for our waterfowl regulations.

Herein lies one of the great hopes for the waterfowl hunter. Greater knowledge will lead to management by species and management by areas as well as management by flyways. With this knowledge we can safely shoot more of the abundant ducks when and where they are available without endangering any species. In other words, through greater knowledge we can, believe it or not, harvest more ducks and at the same time know we are being conservative.

There is one string attached. If we are to get into management by species, the hunter must learn to identify ducks on the wing. This fall will be your test. If you can identify the rapid wing beat of the divers and not shoot cans and redheads, we are well on the way. If you fail, you can expect the major can and redhead shooting areas to be closed to all hunting next year. That is a severe penalty but no one intends to see these species shot into oblivian. I hope we pass the test.

Public Warned to Heed School Buses

Also Obey School Patrols, Says Traffic Director

More than 275,000 students will "take the bus" and leave the driving to 5,000 school bus drivers when September classes beckon them back to the schoolhouse, according to Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director.

"It's a reminder to Minnesota motorists to keep a watch out for the school bus, and obey state laws that protect the passengers they carry to and from schools each day," Sieben said.

State law requires a driver to stop when meeting or overtaking a bus that is stopped for the purpose of loading or unloading passengers, and the bus has its red lights flashing and signal arm extended. The driver must remain stopped until the lights are extinguished and the signal arm retracted.

"Also, respect and obey the young school safety patrol members who help but passengers cross streets and highways on the way to and from the stopped buses," Sieben added.

Last year, there were a few more than 200 accidents involving school buses in the 46 million miles traveled by the vehicles during the school term, a record that is "fair, but can show improvement," according to Sieben.

Invested Funds Don't Offset Debt, Says Tax Group

Only Interest on Trust Funds May Be Spent, Says Research Director

"Recent statements, made in current political campaigns, attempting to minimize Minnesota's record debt by comparing it with the amount of the state's invested funds are both meaningless and misleading," says Harold T. Miller, research director of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"First, let's examine the invested trust funds," Miller suggests.

For nearly 100 years — ever since the creation of the first of the four permanent trust funds in 1862—these funds have been operated under the same principles as adopted by the framers of our state constitution, namely, "to forever preserve inviolate and undiminished the principal sums."

"As public information, our people should know that, while these funds are invested, only the resulting interest may be spent—and then only for very specific purposes," Miller points out.

Of the $302 million in our four trust funds on June 30, 1960, approximately 81.4 per cent was invested in U. S. government bonds, and 18.5 per cent in municipal bonds and loans to the state and its subdivisions. "These monies are being held in trust, and obviously cannot be used to pay state debt, says Miller.

The remaining approximately $321 million in invested funds comprises various retirement fund reserves, the personal funds of patients and inmates in our state institutions, temporary surpluses in the state treasury, and various highway funds. "Except for the trunk highway funds *which will be used to retire high*way bonds and the temporary surpluses which will shortly be used in payment of school aids and for other current operating expenses, the remainder of these monies are being held by the state as a trustee and obviously cannot be used to reduce our state debt," says Miller.

"Except for the trunk highway bonds, all of the state debt is payable from property taxes authorized by legislative acts," Miller concludes.

Editorials . . .

"Whatever our pleasures may be, the important thing is never to fake them, never to attend a ball game because that is the right thing to do or read a book because it is fashionable. The discovery of what one really likes is not as easy as it sounds. It involves the discovery of oneself, a laborious and frequently painful business. In our time mass enjoyments are so effectively, so seductively promoted that at times they seem to be the only kind available. All the more reason for us to keep delving into the mysterious inner world of our selves, to isolate and develop our special pleasure skills, often unsharable, often even inexplicable."

An Era of Liquidation

Observance by the Northern State Bank of its 25th birthday brings memories of an era that is interesting to look back upon. Oldsters will agree that it was an era of many heartaches.

The worst of our depression locally, and generally thruout agricultural Minnesota, had occurred during the 'twenties. The first half of the decade of the 'twenties was an era of bank failures and mortgage foreclosures. There was a measure of recovery during the second half and 1929, the year of the stock market crash, was a good year for Thief River Falls.

But then came a steady deterioration in the national economy. This time the large centers of population suffered most under the pressures of unemployment. A government that was deadlocked by partisan politics failed to act and there were no effective brakes to halt the decline that led us hopelessly into the bank holiday.

Many banks thruout the country did not survive that unhappy holiday and one of the victims was the First National of Thief River Falls, which, in liquidation, paid off one hundred per cent. That was in 1933, and for more than two years we were a one-bank town.

Under the circumstances, the announcement that a new bank was to be organized was especially good news. New capital was made available by George A. Beito of Gonvick and C. M. Berg of McIntosh, whose several banks had survived the storm. Several of the old officers and directors of the old First National were brought into the new organization, and on August 24 of 1935, the new ship was launched.

It was not a particularly impressive launching. The new bank was not a large bank. Starting from scratch, it started small. Nor was its growth sensational, but it was steady, and year by year its volume increased to where now its footings are approaching the five million dollars figure. That growth speaks well for the bank and it also speaks well for the community.

For this good record our sincere congratulations. The Northern State has performed a valuable service for our community and Thief River Falls is a better city for having had, during the past 25 years, two strong banks.

Looking back upon the era of bank failures, the reason for those failures is understandable. Because of the experience we gained in that tragic era our banking practies have been greatly improved. It isn't the banks that are a threat to our economy at the present time.

Why We Haven't Tried It

Referring to New York's withholding system for paying income taxes, adopted last year at the urging of Governor Nelson Rockefeller, the Minneapolis Star comments:

"The director of the New York state income tax bureau said in Minneapolis this week that the new system is working well, that it is boosting revenue, catching tax dodgers and reducing tax delinquency. He spoke at the convention of the National Association of Tax Administrators.

"In informal conversations, tax officials of other states which have withholding expressed similar satisfaction with it. Most of them look upon the plan as a service to the taxpayer, allowing him to pay the tax in small portions. In Kentucky withholding increased income tax revenue more than 10 per cent without any change in rates.

"The New York speaker, Edward Igoe, admitted that his department had a multitude of adjustments to make in putting withholding into effect and that the refund load is heavy. But the changeover went smoothly. Like the plan turned down by the Minnesota legislature last year, the New York system applies to all taxpayers, with the self-employed paying quarterly.

"If New York and 18 other states can increase revenue and reduce tax delinquency by withholding, why shouldn't Minnesota try it?"

That is a good question. Maybe the plan should be tried in Minnesota. But we all know why the plan has not had popular support in the past here in Minnesota. The opposition has been not so much to the withholding idea itself but rather to Governor Freeman's insistence that withholding be adopted in such a form that it would bring to his administration another nice windfall of additional tax revenue of from 25 to 30 million dollars.

Governor Rockefeller did not seek a tax windfall when he offered his withholding plan in New York state. In New York there was complete forgiveness of one year's taxes. Governor Freeman's original plan would have forced payroll employees to pay an extra year's tax. They would pay three years' taxes in two.

And Governor Freeman is still looking for that windfall in an effort to bolster the state's precarious financial condition.

A Sound Program

We attended the meeting of the Midwest Electric Consumers Association at Sioux Falls Monday, hoping to learn a little more about their long range power supply plan for the members of the rural electric cooperatives and the residents of municipalities such as Thief River Falls where the business of providing electricity is a community responsibility. The day was not wasted.

We are convinced that the leaders of this association are on the right track. The plan they propose deserves the whole-hearted support of rural electric cooperatives in the area and the people in the municipalities that would have an opportunity to share in the benefits of a long range, low cost, power development program.

One of the weaknesses in the plan is the broad expanse of area that would be served. This area includes eight states, extending from Iowa to Montana. In so large an area there are many diverse interests. There are many little kingdoms that might lose some of their importance if they became parts of a union of kingdoms. It is reasonable to assume that there is likely to be some opposition to any plan of union that recognizes the fact that the whole is greater and more important than any one of the parts.

But this weakness is also the strength of the proposed program. Distance no longer is a serious problem in the transmission of electrical power. As an example of this, Canadians to the north of us, are planning a Dominion-wide power grid under which all of the far-flung power resources of the Dominion will be integrated into one system. This will make available to all of Canada all of the power potential of the Dominion. If that makes sense in Canada then certainly it makes sense in the eight-state area that would unite as a Midwest Electric Consumers Association.

Considering this problem in terms of our local interests, as residents of Thief River Falls, served by a municipal operation, or as members of a rural electric cooperative, our community will be best served by the kind of organization the leaders of the Midwest Electric Consumers Association have in mind. There isn't much to argue about.

The Midwest plan would anticipate our future power needs and provide a dependable, low-cost, service, taking advantage of whatever natural resources are available for the production of low-cost power. The only alternative is scattered, high-cost, local operations, and that is a luxury our community cannot afford.

Quiet, Please

(Chicago Tribune)

The Congo delegation bound for the United Nations to present Mr. Lumumba's latest grievances took off in a Russian made Ilyushin turbo-prop plane owned jointly by the Congo and Ghana governments but manned by a soviet crew. A request was forwarded to the Port of New York authority to land at Idlewild airport, but was rejected by the authority on two grounds.

The first was that permission involving soviet aircraft has to go thru the state department. The second was that the authority demands that all planes using its facilities undergo a noise level test before being permitted access to New York airports, and the soviet plane had not qualified thru a test of this sort. At the instigation of the state department, these objecions were waived and the Congolese were told to come on from London in the plane.

There is one useful idea in this incident. It is that the clamorous Mr. Lumumba and the whole Congo be obliged to meet a noise level test before they are paid any further heed by the United States, the United Nations, or anybody else. We are sure that they would be ruled out as a public nuisance.

TV Political Debates

(Milwaukee Journal)

The agreement of Kennedy and Nixon to hold television debates on issues—without prepared text—increases the promise of an interesting election.

Direct debate between candidates is not always advisable. There are times when one candidate is much more articulate than the other or more clever on his feet—and yet does not possess the leadership qualities or experience of his opponent. In such situations a clever man can cover up his shortcomings.

In the present instance there is not much risk of that. Nixon has a debater's background. But Kennedy need give no ground on that score, for he is highly able to speak his mind and does so with directness and sureness.

At best these could be debates in the Lincoln-Douglas style and tradition. A great deal depends upon the men themselves if the debates are to prove worth while. Neither shows any inclination to use the situation for stunting. Each seems anxious to make this a test of principles and philosophies rather than a test of wits.

If they stick to that the electorate can't help but be the gainer—and issues so vital to our future should be sharpened.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

SAVINGS & LOAN ASSOCIATIONS
Other Type Financial Institution
Other Type Financial Institution

Here's why...

TIME-PROVED FOR MORE THAN A CENTURY-AND-A-QUARTER: Savings and Loan Associations like ours have existed for 129 years. But, the last ten years have seen them grow faster than any other type of savings institution. Take a look at the chart!

PROFIT WITH SAFETY: Our expanding American economy and a home building boom have been responsible in part for this strong, healthy growth. But so, too, has the reputation we've built for safety and above-average rate of return on investments. People prefer to invest their savings with us, because of the inherent safety of our investments, as well as the generous earnings!

TODAY $88 BILLION STRONG—BIGGER TOMORROW: Now, our specialized savings institutions have total resources of 68 billion dollars, serve 25 million savers and are helping over 10 million persons buy a home of their own. The next decade promises to be just as rewarding – and offers more and more savers an opportunity to see their money work hard as it earns a substantial return. Can you find a better reason for preference?

Pheasant Hunting to Open in State Oct. 29

A 23 day season for pheasant hunting this fall was announced today in St. Paul by James W. Kimball, state game and fish director.

The season, scheduled to open at noon on Saturday, October 29, will run through November 20. Shooting hours on all days except the opener will be from 10 a.m. to sunset. Daily bag and possession limits will be three and six, cock birds only.

State game officials are still awaiting the final results of the statewide brood census, but it is known that while the breeding population was 40-45 per cent below the all-time bumper year of 1958 it was only slightly below the average for the past 10 years.

Regions where breeding populations appear to have held up best are in the area of Otter Tail, Grant, Traverse, Big Stone, Stevens and Swift in the west; Lincoln, Pipestone, Murray, Rock and Nobles in the southwest; and Renville and Sibley in the south central region.

In speculation on the success of the season Kimball said, "It will definitely not be another peak year as 1958 when we shot 1½ million cocks. May and June rains are believed to have curtailed pheasant production the heart of the pheasant range in south central Minnesota. However, early reports indicate average or better production to the north and west of this area."

Summing it up Kimball said, "There may be few areas of great pheasant abundance but we could have fair to good hunting over a large area of the state." He emphasized that these predictions are based on limited information on this year's production and no knowledge of the weather in store.

"Crops are late this year so it is fortunate that we have a late opening date. Even so, severe weather and unharvested corn and beans can always make pheasant hunting poor," Kimball concluded.

Hungarian partridge will have a season running concurrently with the pheasant season. The daily bag and possession limit has been set at three and six, respectively. Hun populations have shown little change from last year.

There will be no open season on bobwhite quail this year. Quail populations continue at a low ebb and game officials indicate a closed season is in order this year as last.

Farmers Reminded of Conservation Reserve Contract

Chairman Edward Johnson of Marshall County ASC Cites Responsibilities

Chairman Edward A. Johnson of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee today reminded farmers with land in the Conservation Reserve of their continuing responsibility to refrain from using this land for grazing or harvesting any crop from it during the contract period.

"Even though we are not authorized to take new land into the Conservation Reserve," Johnson said, "there has been no change in the regulations concerning the land retired from production under existing contracts. The farmer is being paid an annual rental for compliance with his contract, and in most cases has already received his payment for a part of the cost of establishing a conservation practice on the land. In return, he is obligated to exercise his responsibility of withholding the land from production for the life of the contract."

There are 1,061 Conservation Reserve contracts in effect in Marshall County, involving a total of 146,404.8 acres of cropland. Of these contracts 718 are "whole farm" contracts, covering all the cropland on the farm. Some of this land will be held out of production through the 1969 crop season.

Nationally, there is a total of about 28.6 million acres in the Conservation Reserve in 48 of the 50 states. This acreage involves part of 96.1 million acres, or nearly 10 per cent of the total U.S. acreage in farms.

The Conservation Reserve program provides for limiting the production on the participating farms. In addition, new land may not be brought into production on these farms. On all participating farms the acreage normally used for the production of crops must be reduced. On farms that have all cropland in the program all the acreage is withdrawn from crop production. Nationally 70 per cent of participating farms have placed all cropland in the Reserve.

Sal Mineo, as the famed jazz drummer, and his close pal, James Darren on the trumpet, make music in "The Gene Krupa Story," also starring Susan Kohner. The first run showing of "The Gene Krupa Story" in Thief River Falls, starts Sunday at the 59-Hi Outdoor Theatre.

Marshall County Nursing Advisory Board Convenes

The regular monthly meeting of the Marshall county nursing advisory board was held Friday evening, August 19, in the court house at Warren.

The school health program and the public health nurse's function in the program was discussed. It was generally agreed that a regular schedule of visits to the school by the nurse would be desirable. This schedule will be available at a later date.

School officials who attended the meeting were L. J. McKinnon of Warren, Ralph Larson of Argyle, Roy Anderson of Stephen and Kenneth Haapaoja of Middle River.

The nursing advisory board members are Mrs. Melvin Anderson, Dr. B. F. Bro, Earl Kalliher, Dr. E. E. Pumala, Roy Edman and John Pearson.

Mrs. Viola Rud, county nurse, also participated in the discussion.

July Traffic up 9 Pct. over June

Tourist and Vacation Travel Causes Increase

Traffic on Minnesota highways in July went up 9.6 per cent over June, the Minnesota highway department reported. The increase was due mainly to a normal jump in vacation and tourist travel and to resumption of grain shipments from the west to the Port of Duluth.

The 27 automatic traffic recorders located at points throughout the state showed the greatest increase occurring on T.H. 61 southwest of the Knife River, a main road leading into the border lake region and into Canada.

Other substantial increases over June due to vacation and tourist travel occurred on T.H. 10 southwest of Royalton, with a 19 per cent increase; and on three points on T.H. 10 northwest of Anoka, with increases of 17, 15 and 14 per cent.

An increase of 27 per cent on T.H. 2 east of Lengby was reported, a result of grain shipments from the west to the Port of Duluth.

During July, as in June, T.H. 10 leading from the Twin Cities northward through Anoka was the heaviest travelled highway in the state.

Welfare Dept. to Exhibit at Fair

State Agency to Depict Big Variety of Services

The Minnesota department of public welfare exhibits at the state fair are designed to show the public its many areas of service, Ralph T. Hunt, director of the Pennington county welfare department, announced this week.

"This year, the Welfare theatre, free to the public, has several brand new films on its daily program," Hunt declared. The theatre schedule is 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

Minnesota services to the blind will display items made by the sightless, in a new booth set up this year. The council on adoptions has combined with the division of child welfare showing colored slides of a typical adoption story.

The booth devoted to state facilities for the mentally retarded has been enlarged for this year's fair, with a new addition devoted to services for the epileptic.

As in previous year, the services for the blind division will run a vending stand where refreshments will be served.

School Days Add to Traffic Perils

State Safety Director Issues Annual Warning

"There are 853,000 reasons why Minnesota motorists should be extra cautious in traffic this coming month," Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, said today in advance of the September school openings.

That is the number of students expected to return to classes in our state's grade and high schools within the first two weeks of the month. This figure also includes private and parochial schools.

"Our boys and girls will be returning taller and probably wiser than when they left school last spring, but they will be just as energetic-and-unpredictable," Sieben said. "It'll be up to us to watch out for this superfluous display of youth and keep them safe and healthy as we give them a chance to complete their education."

Today, the traffic accident is a leading cause of death to school-age children, and the responsibility of keeping youngsters safe from this "Killer" belongs to the parent as well as the school official," according to Sieben.

He warned that parents and motorists "cannot be lukewarm about the traffic situation when confronted with the fact that more than 2,500 elementary students are killed and another 150,000 are injured in the nation's traffic each year.

Forestry Division to Take Seedling Orders

The department of conservation's forestry division announced today that on September 1 it will mail out 7,000 application blanks to be completed and returned by those wishing to order state tree nursery seedlings for spring planting.

The initial mailing will be to agencies of state and local government and to private parties who have notified the forestry division that they wish to place orders.

No orders will be accepted before September 1, and no shipments of trees will be made until spring.

The price remains at $10 per thousand for pine varieties and $8 per thousand for deciduous (broadleaf) types. Shipping charges are paid by the purchaser. No orders for less than 500 seedlings will be accepted and if more than one species is desired, they must be ordered in groups of 100.

The maximum limit is 10,000 trees per order. Applications for more than this number will be returned unfilled.

State tree nursery chief, Ray Clement, said today that there will be approximately 40 million trees available for shipment in 1961 as against 26 million shipped this year.

By far the greatest number of requests are for Norway pine, although many prefer the white spruce, jack pine, white pine and other species which are available.

Approximately 98 per cent of requests are for conifers (pines), Clement said. Only the remaining two per cent are for the deciduous types.

Application blanks may be obtained by contacting forest rangers, county agents, Soil Conservation Service offices or the Conservation Department forestry division, Centennial Building, St. Paul 1.

Wheat Buyer Has Obligation, Says Marshall Co. ASC

Is Liable for Penalty on Purhase of Wheat Which Is Not Free from Penalty

Grain warehousemen, truckers, or other persons who buy wheat from farmers have definite responsibilities in connection with the government marketing quota and price-support programs, according to Chairman Ed A. Johnson of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Johnson said the buyer is liable for the penalty on any wheat purchased which is not identified as penalty-free.

Wheat is normally identified as penalty-free by a marketing card or a marketing certificate. The marketing card—printed in green on white paper for 1960—permits a buyer to purchase without liability all wheat offered by the card owner which was produced on the farm or farms listed on the card. A marketing certificate covers only a stated quantity of wheat which a buyer may purchase from the certificate holder without penalty.

On any wheat not identified as penalty-free, Johnson said, the buyer's responsibility is to collect penalty at the rate of $1.08 per bushel and remit the money to the ASC office for the county in which the wheat was produced.

The TREMENDOUS Teens

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Ezekiel	46	[illegible]
Monday	Romans	14	[illegible]
Tuesday	Psalms	103	[illegible]
Wednesday	John	3	17
Thursday	Colossians	3	[illegible]
Friday	Romans	12	[illegible]
Saturday	Romans	12	[illegible]

Hardest fact for the adult mind to comprehend is that a teen-ager stands at the threshold of life.

When you enter a strange door you are uncertain. You don't know what's in store for you. You aren't sure which way to turn.

There may be familiar, welcoming voices — but even these now have the ring of uncertainty. For when your whole world is changing, can you be sure that the people around you are not changing also?

For boys and girls in this time of uncertainty the Church is the fulcrum of strength. Its truth is unchanging. Its teaching is clear. Its promises are worthy of hope, trust, endeavor, sacrifice.

The problems of the teen-ager are tremendous . . . but so is the might of his God. The character, the certainty, the charity of the Church inspires his ideals . . . challenges his courage.

E. L. Andersen Says He'd Veto Sales Tax Bill

Denies Governor Freeman's Charge He Supports Levy

Elmer L. Andersen, Republican candidate for governor, Thursday sharply denied that he had said he would sign a sales tax bill.

He was replying to a statement by Gov. Orville L. Freeman.

Freeman pledged he would continue to fight a sales tax to "block the selfish interests in their heavily financed conspiracy to shift the tax burden to those who are less able to pay" and added:

"I hope you will thoughtfully compare my stand on a sales tax with that of my opponent. He talks vaguely, loosely and irresponsibly about replacement and then says he would sign a sales tax bill if he were governor."

Replied Andersen:

"The governor quotes me as saying I would sign a sales tax bill. My statement is and has been that I would veto a sales tax bill.

"I urge overall tax reform to bring property tax relief to farmers, homeowners and small business men and to create a business climate that will create new jobs, increase the number of taxpayers and expand our industrial tax base.

"I have said I would work with the legislature, conservatives and liberals, to find an area of agreement on overall tax reform.

"What is the governor's tax program? How much does he think our state should spend in the next biennium and how would he propose it be raised?

"The people are entitled to know his program and its cost. He deceived us in 1958. We will not let him do it again."

Old Mill Will Run at State Park on Sunday & Monday

Plant to Grind Flour for Only Time This Year over Labor Day Weekend

Operation of Marshall county's historical old mill will take place, probably for the only time this year, Sunday and Monday of Labor Day weekend. This restored mill of 1890 vintage will grind grain into flour between its 65-year-old mill stones powered by Case engine 359 built in 1878.

The mill will operate each afternoon in Old Mill State park between Newfolden and Argyle, with the Marshall County Historical Society cooperating. In years past crowds upwards of 5,000 persons have witnessed a running of the historic mill.

The restored mill was dedicated in June, 1958, Minnesota's centennial year. Souvenir bags of flour are being sold with the proceeds going to defray expenses of restoring the house on the mill site.

Farmers from throughout the Marshall County area have brought grain to the mill to guarantee an adequate supply for grinding for the 2-day event. Residents from the entire valley are urged to attend the running and use the fine picnicking facilities of Old Mill State Park.

Danish Youth Arrives to Spend Winter with M. Mehrkens Family

Karrebaeksminde, Zealand, Denmark, this month lost one of its residents for the next year and the Thief River Falls area gained a slight, soft-spoken young man who will study at Lincoln high school beginning Sept. 6.

Viggo C. B. Fischer, the fourth of the American Field Service's students to come to Thief River Falls under the foreign exchange student program, completed a 13-day trip from his island home Tuesday, Aug. 23, and was greeted by his American hosts, the Maynard Mehrkens family in Rocksbury township.

He began the trip Aug. 10 when he traveled with his father, mother and two brothers by car to Copenhagen. From there, he traveled to Rotterdam, Holland, by train and boarded the S.S. Seven Seas for the nine-day trip to New York. Traveling by bus, he arrived in Minneapolis Monday and in Thief River Falls the following day.

Visibly tired two days after the journey was over and slightly withdrawn as would be any person suddenly removed from his native surroundings, the young man became more animated when talking about Denmark. Using a map, he pointed out his island in the Baltic sea and its proximity to Sweden which is visited without passports by Danish citizens. South and east of Karrebaeksminde lie the fishing grounds where his father, a commercial fisherman, catches eels which are relished by the English, Dutch, German and Danish people.

Much farming is done on his island and a medium-sized farm averages 80 acres. Dairy and beef cattle are raised as well as crops of wheat and barley.

The television set in the Mehrkens living room was on while Fischer was talking, and a comparison of American and Danish systems revealed that all stations in his country are govern-

Three Are Injured in Car and Tractor Crash Near Grygla

Tractor Demolished When Struck by Arnold Tanem Car in Fog Saturday

Three persons suffered cuts and bruises, a farm tractor was demolished and about $800 damage was caused to the car involved in a car-tractor collision five miles south of Grygla on highway 89 about 10 p.m. Saturday, according to the highway patrol.

The farm tractor driven by David Borman, with Byron Bakke as a passenger, was struck in the rear by the car driven by Arnold E. Tanem, rt. 5, Grygla. LeRoy Tanem was a passenger. All are from the Grygla area.

According to the patrol the Tanems came up on the tractor during a fog, striking it in the rear. The tractor was completely wrecked, and damage to the car was extensive.

Three of the persons were brought in to Northwestern Hospital for treatment, two of whom were treated and released immediately. None of the injuries was believed serious.

Charges, if any, are being withheld, pending further investigation of the crash.

Bolt of Lightning Burns Baled Hay

An evening thundershower west of Thief River Falls about 8 p.m. Saturday set off a chain of events resulting in loss of considerable baled hay on the Dale Stark farm, a wrecked pickup truck and a workout for the Warren fire department.

The sequence of events was started when a lightning bolt struck the north end of one of two large stacks of baled hay on the Stark farm, rt. 1.

A few miles east, on the Frank Hible farm, a rural youth employed by Hible, Harold Solseng, started out for the Stark farm to help fight the blaze. Solseng struck a muddy spot in the county road leading to the Stark farm, lost control of the truck, and overturned, causing considerable damage to the 1955 Ford pickup owned by Hible. Solseng was not injured.

Meanwhile, the burning pile of bales was cut in two with a bulldozer and the burning hay was doused by the Warren firemen. Details were not available but reports are that several hundred bales were destroyed although most of the hay was saved.

ASC Explains Conservation Reserve Rules

Can't Take Off Crop or Use for Grazing, Culkins Announces

Office Manager Patrick W. Culkins of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee today reminded farmers with land in the Conservation Reserve of their continuing responsibility to refrain from using this land for grazing or harvesting any crop from it during the contract period.

"Even though we are not authorized to take new land into the Conservation Reserve," Mr. Culkins said, "there has been no change in the regulations concerning the land retired from production under existing contracts. The farmer is being paid an annual rental for compliance with his Conservation Reserve contract, and in most cases has already received his payment for a part of the cost of establishing a conservation practice on the land. In return, he is obligated to exercise his responsibility of withholding the land from production for the life of the contract."

There are 662 Conservation Reserve contracts in effect in Pennington county, involving a total of 95,805 acres of cropland. Of these contracts 428 are "whole farm" contracts, covering all the cropland on the farm. Some of this land will be held out of production through the 1969 crop season.

Nationally, there is a total of about 28.6 million acres in the Conservation Reserve in 48 of the 50 state. This acreage involves part or all of the cropland on about 305,000 farms which have a total farmland acreage of 96.1 million acres, or nearly 10 per cent of the total U.S. acreage in farms.

The Conservation Reserve program provides for limiting the production on the participating farms. In addition, new land may not be brought into production on these farms. On all participating farms the acreage normally used for the production of crops must be reduced. On farms that have all cropland in the program all of the acreage is withdrawn from crop production. Nationally 70 per cent of participating farms have placed all cropland in the Reserve.

Polio Chapter Is Giving $2,500 for Medical Research

Payment to Apply on over $40,000 Advanced by National Foundataion

The Pennington county chapter of The National Foundation announced today it is forwarding $2,500 in uncommitted funds for reallocation to medical research projects in critical need of financing.

The announcement was made by Charles Rodekuhr, chapter chairman, who said the funds would be made available for projects like the one now operating at the University of Minnesota, where a recent grant by the March of Dimes for $108,979 for research on cells and viruses was made—for the second successive year.

The chairman said that for the first time in the history of The National Foundation it may be necessary to curtail funds for promising research projects because of a lack of funds. He said the nationally coordinated program had attracted many of the country's top scientists whose efforts have unlocked many secrets and gave the nation the Salk vaccine.

Rodekuhr stated that the $2,500 being turned over is in partial repayment of more than $40,000 advanced by the foundation to the local chapter in past years in excess of amounts contributed by residents of this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sorum of Crookston, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sorum of Newfolden and Mrs. Albin Dahl of Goodridge visited Friday at the Esther Sorum home.

Benson Man to Take over Position of C.C. Manager October 1st

Don M. Olson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced today that board of directors has secured a man to fill the position of manager of the civic group. He is Roland K. Larson, the present manager of the Benson, Minn., Chamber of Commerce who will take over his duties here Oct. 1.

ROLAND K. LARSON

Larson was born and raised on a farm at Slayton. He received his advanced education at the University of Minnesota, where he studied agricultural economics and animal husbandry. In 1959 he became the Big Stone county 4-H agent and worked out of Ortonville. His record there as an organizer, worker and promoter brought him the offer to serve as manager of the Benson Chamber of Commerce.

Rolly, a single man of 22 years, has been instrumental in promoting an industrial development corporation, retail promotions, livestock shows, and the county fair. He was chairman of the West Central Dairy Day, he promoted the annual Benson Kid Day, an REA silver jubilee and a University of Minnesota lecture series on the nation's economy. He has had his own newspaper column, radio broadcast, and has made several television appearances.

Larson has been a Toastmaster, a Jaycee and sportsman, and is a specialist in the Minnesota National Guard.

Larson says, "I'm looking forward to coming to TRF and working with the community proper and the vast trade area that it serves so well."

Local Delegation Is Impressed by Marvin Plant at Warroad

A group of Thief River Falls businessmen drove to Warroad Thursday afternoon to inspect the Marvin woodworking plant in that city which provides employment for 182 people. Following the inspection tour they had dinner at another Marvin family operation, Cal's Cabins dining room, with George Marvin, founder of the Marvin industries, three of his sons and several of the Warroad Chamber of Commerce members. The visit was sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce.

As explained by the Marvins, the woodworking plant came as a result of two discouraging developments in the economy of the community. Commercial fishing had been an important source of employment and revenue, and when commercial fishing ended there was an unemployment problem.

During the war the Marvin Lumber & Cedar Co. had built up quite a substantial payroll building boxes for Uncle Sam. When the war ended the plant was idled and so were the workers. It was then that George Marvin decided to convert his mill to a sash and door operation and he discovered that he was able to manufacture and sell windows. And that is what the plant has been manufacturing and selling since then.

The dinner followed an inspection of the Marvin woodworking plant by a group of Thief River Falls businessmen.

44 Purebred Rams Consigned to Sale Here September 12

12th Annual Sale to Be Conducted in Livestock Pavilion on Fair Grounds

Forty-four rams of four breeds have been consigned to the purebred ram sale to be held at Thief River on Monday, September 12. Breeds in which rams are consigned ar Hampshire, Columbia, Shropshire and Suffolk.

The rams will be judged the morning of the 12th and sold at 1:00 P.M.

The sale this year will be held in the new livestock pavilion at the fair grounds. The date of the sale has been shifted from early October to September 12 to permit earlier purchases of rams for use in flocks where earlier lambing is practiced.

The rams sale has been instrumental in dispersing good breeding stock through Northwestern Minnesota and raising the quality of the sheep because of the careful selection of the animals consigned. Judges at the sale also cull out any animal not meeting the high standards set for the sale by the directors.

This year's sale is the twelfth annual sale sponsored by the breeders of Northwestern Minnesota.

Lois Elseth Is Bride Of Warren Stone Aug. 6

The First Baptist church of this city was the scene of the marriage of Lois Elseth and Warren Stone, both of this city, August 6, at 8 p.m. with Rev. Ronald Dalzell officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Elseth of Newfolden and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Stone of this city.

Baskets of gladioli and spiral candelabra graced the altar as the organist, Jerry Joringdal, played the nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Karen Carlson of Newfolden, as the sang, "Song of Ruth," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of tulle over taffeta with lace-inserts in the skirt. The lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline accented with sequins, and sleeves coming to a point over the hand. Her fingertip veil, edged with lace was held in place by a crown of tiny seed pearls. Her bouquet of miniature white carnations surrounding a purple orchid, centered on a white Bible completed her ensemble.

The identical lavendar dresses of the bridesmaids featured lace bodices with scoop necklines, wide cumberbunds and bouffant skirts. Each carried bouquets of white carnations tinged with lavendar.

Attending as matron of honor Jamestown, N. D., and serving as bridesmaids were Barbara Cook of Newfolden and Kay Stone, sister of the groom.

Melvin Stone, brother of the groom, served as best man with James Kempel and James Elseth, brother of the bride, as groomsmen. Dale Swenson and Allan Torkelson served as ushers. The gentlemen of the bridal party wore ice blue dinner jackets, black trousers and white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Elseth chose a light blue dress with white accessories. The groom's mother was also attired in light blue and white accessories., both wore corsages of white carnations and red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception with 175 guests present was held for the couple in the church parlors. Grape punch was served to the guests at they arrived. The serving table, centered by a five-tiered wedding cake, trimmed in lavendar and topped by a miniature bride and groom was baked by Mrs. Gilford Sannes of this city.

Miss Linda Swanson of Kennedy and Mrs. Richard Kezar of Warren, cut and served the wedding cake while Miss Bonita Elseth of Newfolden and Miss Janet Stone of this city poured. Carol Martin of Newfolden, Lois Gunderson and Patsy Hetland of Minneapolis were at the gift table and Renee Martin was in charge of the guest book. Waitresses were Misses Marjorie Dalzell, Norma Swick and Delores Swanson and Joyce Hjelle of Newfolden. Mrs. Lewis Hetland of this city was hostess.

For her going away costume the bride wore a navy blue suit with navy blue accessories. After a trip to the cities and Wisconsin, the couple will make their home at 322½ LaBree Ave. North.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of Newfolden high school and a 1959 graduate of the area vocational school of nursing, and is presently employed as a nurse as Northwestern hospital in this city. The groom is a 1957 graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed in electronics at the Stone Mobile Radio of this city.

Out-of-town guests came from Langdon, Fargo and Jamestown, N. D., Wheaton, Brainerd, Stephen, Warren, East Grand Forks, Moorhead, Newfolden and Plummer.

[illegible] JEWELERS

WED AUGUST 14 at the Lund Lutheran Church at Gully were Miss Maxine Dyrdahl of Gonvick and Clarence Thompson of Kindred, North Dakota. The couple will be at home at Los Banos, California, where they both will teach.—Photo by Ken Johnson, Crookston.

Maxine Dyrdahl Married to Clarence Thompson

The Lund Lutheran church of Gully was the scene of the wedding of Maxine LaVonne Dyrdahl to Clarence Thompson Aug. 14 at 4 p.m. with the Rev. R. Chelsen and Rev. R. Williams of Bemidji officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Alyce Dyrdahl of Gonvick and the groom is the son of Mrs. Emma Thompson of Kindred, North Dakota.

Baskets of pink gladioli decorated the altar with white gladioli as decorations on the ends of the pews. Camelia Hagen of Minneapolis played the nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Carlin Berg, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Song of Ruth," and "Jeg Elsker Dag."

The bride, escorted to the altar by her uncle, Carl Erickson, was attired in a floor length gown of silk organza over white taffeta and featured a chapel train, princess style fitted bodice with a scoop neckline and short sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of tiny seed pearls. She carried a crescent style bouquet of deep pink roses with white carnations featuring white satin leaves and white streamers. Her only jewelry, a pair of cultured pearl earrings were a gift of the groom.

Miss Beverly Dyrdahl of Minneapolis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while Miss Carolyn Hemsing of Kindred, North Dakota, and Miss Jean Fehr of East Grand Forks were bridesmaids. They wore identical nile green street length dresses of nylon chiffon over taffeta with matching round net clip-on hats. They carried crescent style bouquets of pink garnet roses and white carnations with light pink streamers.

The flower girl, Miss Barbara Dyrdahl of Grand Forks, North Dakota, wore a dress identical to the bridesmaids and carried a lace basket with pink roses which she scattered in the aisle.

Serving as ushers were Elson Vigstol of Plummer and Herbert Dyrdahl of Great Falls, Montana. Jackie Fischer of Dilworth was ring bearer. The bride's mother chose a two-piece blue faille dress with navy blue accessories and the groom's mother was attired in a two-piece navy blue crepe dress with navy blue accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors with 175 friends and relatives attending.

In charge of the arrangements was Mrs. Alden Spray of Gonvick as hostess. A main table, centered by a wedding cake and topped by a miniature bride and groom also contained the wedding luncheon which was served cafeteria style. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Carl Erickson of Gonvick, and Miss Clara Thompson, of Minneapolis. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Irvin Hemsing of Kindred, North Dakota and Mrs. Clarence Dyrdahl of Gonvick. The guests were served a lime punch as they arrived by Virginia Lee of Gonvick and Mrs. Bud Severson also of Gonvick. The Library Corner

By Eleanor Olson

Much as the library wants to help the community's children, it is an educational force which must be kept available to all adults as well. This fact, coupled with our library's very overcrowded conditions, has been the motivating factor in drawing up the library rules to be enforced with the beginning of the new school term.

As of September 6, the east side of the library after seven o'clock will be reserved exclusively for adult use. Even if this section is empty when they arrive, junior and senior high students will not be allowed to use it.

This rule will make space available to adult patrons who may wish to read newspapers or do reference work of their own, but who have been crowded out of the library in the past few years as school usage and enrollment has far exceeded the original estimated capacity.

Other rules made to help the library provide better service under very overcrowded conditions are as follows:

Students are welcome to come to the library to check out circulating materials, but they will not be allowed to loiter.

There will be absolutely no talking allowed in the library. Any student violating this rule will be suspended from the library for two weeks.

Students will be permitted to do homework at the library only if they are using reference or reserve books and magazines in conjunction with their homework.

A high school student will be allowed five magazines for any given topic and three hours to complete his work with them. These magazines will not be pulled for him again.

Students must request magazines they need for reference the day before they intend to use them. (This may seem an unduly strict rule until you consider that four classes of forty students assigned reference problems involving up to five magazines apiece adds up to a vast number, all of which must be brought up by the staff from the stacks in the basement periodical room.)

With a staff of only three, extra trips to the basement are impossible. Adequate service can only be provided when these magazines are pulled and brought up in the hours when traffic is at its lightest.

As always no reference books will be circulated.

These rules and their strict enforcement do not mean in any way that the librarians are trying to discourage student usage of the library. On the contrary they want all the students to know that they can ask for help any time they need it. Multiply a senior class of close to 200 by four and top that number off with the junior high enrollment and the total will convince you that every child and adult will have an equal opportunity to use the library's resources only if strict rules are enforced during the school season.

As of September 1, the Library's hours will be 12-9 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The library is closed on Sunday.

Fewer Men Now to Be Classified as IV-F

New procedures to identify men who would be qualified for military service in an emergency, but who are not accepted under current Armed Forces standards, have been put into effect by Minnesota selective service local boards, Lt. Colonel Murley A. Reep, Minnesota selective service director, announced. The new procedures have been adopted on a national basis.

"These men will no longer be placed in Class IV-F," Lt. Col. Reep said. "It is expected that selective service regulations will be amended to provide in the near future, a new classification for men not accepted under current standards, but who are available and who would be qualified in an emergency," the state director added.

"Until the contemplated changes in the regulations are adopted, those men the local boards find would qualify in an emergency will keep their current classification. Local boards will continue to place in Class IV-F those men the Armed Forces are unlikely to need even in an emergency," the State Director said.

"Armed Forces examining stations will adapt their procedures to report to local boards after examination whether a man is currently qualified, may be qualified in an emergency, or is unlikely to be needed for military service even in an emergency," Lt. Colonel Reep added.

The state director pointed out that current standards of acceptability have resulted in high rejection rates. Many of those men not being accepted today and who are now classified IV-F would have to serve in an emergency under altered standards.

"Identification in advance of men qualified in an emergency will permit the local boards to save time in meeting mobilization requirements in an emergency," Lt. Colonel Reep added.

"The new procedures," Lt. Col. Reep said, "provide a more realistic picture of the manpower resource for an emergency." "It will," he added, "also emphasize that rejection is temporary and that a IV-F classification does not mean a man is unable at any time to contribute by military service, or to pursue vital civilian activities as circumstances may require."

Approximately 39,000 men are classified IV-F in Minnesota as of June 30, 1960, out of 425,500 men classified by local boards since 1948. Far fewer will be put in this class in the future under the new procedures.

Donated funds are used to purchase steer calves. These calves are placed with farmers who volunteer to donate the feed and care until ready for market.

When the steer is sold, the initial price is retained and reinvested in another calf starting the cycle all over again, and the net gain is sent to the designated society. Twenty missionary societies with missionaries in all parts of the world are now receiving benefits through Steer Inc.

Rodney Brodin of Brodin Sheet Metal company is chairman of the board.

SPEAKING at the annual missionary fall roundup of Steer Inc. in the Thief River Falls Auditorium September 7 to 11 will be Dr. Eric Gosden, home director of the Japan Evangelistic Band, Inc. Local Delegation Inspects Marvin Plant at Warroad

The present operation is highly specialized and is mass-producing standardized types of windows, complete and ready for installation in dwellings. An expanding market is being served through lumber yards in Minnesota and several other states.

George Marvin started business in Warroad in 1903 when he built a small grain elevator, an instance of where the grain elevator came before the grain. The Marvin Lumber & Seed Co. came later and the company has provided a market for pulp wood in that area over a period of many years. During the past ten years the company's sales of pulp to the M & O Paper company at International Falls have averaged more than a quarter of a million dollars annually.

The Marvins have developed an extenseve pulp operation in Canada, headquarters of the Spruce Products Ltd. being in Winnipeg. In recent years the sales of their Canadian operations have exceeded one million dollars annually.

George Marvin spoke briefly, and his son Cal responded with remarks about hockey, a game in which he has distinguished himself, having coached the American amateur team that toured Europe two years ago. Bill Marvin, in charge of the mill and retail operations, reviewed briefly the history of the organization and indicated good prospects for further expansion of the woodworking operations.

"We are in business to make a profit," he said, "but we also are interested in developing employment opportunities for our young people and keeping them in our community. During the past year we had approximately 200 applications for jobs and were able to place only 50 of this number. Of our 182 employees, all but two of them are from our community and have learned their trades here."

Dividing Peonies

A good time to transplant or plant peonies is in late August or early September. Often peonies do very poorly in areas where there is excessive shade or where the soil is poor. To solve this problem, transplant them to a more suitable location. The first step in transplanting is to prepare the soil where the peonies are to go. Since they will stay in the same spot for many years it will pay to fertilize the soil well before planting.

Select a site that is sunny, free from competing trees or shrub roots. It is best to plant peonies in clumps toward the back of the flower border. Space the plants at least 2 feet apart in clumps.

Dig a hole about 18 inches deep and a foot in diameter for each peonie. In the bottom of the hole put about six inches of well rotted cow manure or compost. Cover the manure or compost with several inches of good soil before placing the roots in the hole.

Dig up the old clumps so that you do not break off the brittle side roots. With a sharp knife cut the clumps into sections so each division will have a strong root and several buds. Plant the division so the buds will be about two inches below the soil level. Laying a board or shovel handle across the hole will help to determine the correct planting depth. Firm the soil around the roots to avoid settling as the plants are watered in. Otherwise the peony may be too deep after the soil has settled.

Where new plants are being started, mulching might be beneficial the first winter.

Tax Group Fights Withholding Law

Says It Means Doubling up of Paymnest 1st Year

The Minnesota Taxpayers Association today warned its members that a renewed drive is under way for an income tax withholding law in Minnesota, despite its defeat at each of the last three legislative sessions.

"Time target of the new push for withholding is the 1961 legislative session," Charles P. Stone, general counsel of the Association, pointed out today. "The time therefore seems appropriate to state again some of the reasons why our Association continues to be so strongly opposed to withholding.

"Installation of withholding, with cancellation of only 25 percent of the first year's tax—which is the most 'forgiveness' actually provided for in the 1959 withholding bill, would subject our individual income taxpayers to payment of almost three years' taxes in two years.

"Were cancellation to be increased to 50 percent of the first year's tax—which we often have heard our state commissioner of taxation say is the maximum that can be cancelled without seriously shorting the income tax school fund for the first fiscal year following adoption of the system, our salaried and wage earning income taxpayers still would have to pay one and one-half year's taxes in one year. In our opinion, this inability to provide 100 percent cancellation in the shift over to withholding in itself is one of the most serious indictments of the plan.

"An even greater objection to withholding than the doubling-up of tax feature," Stone said, "is the fact that such a system invites a steady inching upward of our state income taxes, either by way of increased rates or in the form of additional surtaxes. With their taxes being withheld, our taxpayers no longer would have their present awareness of how much those taxes are. This would set the stage for further increases in our individual income taxes, and would provide a ready-made vehicle for the financing of ambitious spending programs without seeming to cost the taxpayers any money.

"For those who doubt that this would happen, let's recall what transpired at the last legislative session. Each of the omnibus tax bills introduced in the House by the administration's legislative spokesmen (HF 588 in the regular session and HF 1 in the special session) provided for a full 1 percent increase in individual income tax rates in each income bracket. Each bill also provided for withholding. When it became obvious, in the closing hours of the special session, that the withholding provisions of HF 1 could not be enacted into law, the rate increases were dropped back to ½ of 1 percent in each income bracket. Obviously, the administration and its legislative lieutenants did not dare continue to press for a full 1 percent increase in rates in each income bracket without withholding to hide the impact of the higher rates."

Ron Kvikstad, 15, Wins City Golf Title from R. Stromberg Sunday

Ron Kvikstad, a 15-year old high school sophomore, made local golf history on Sunday afternoon when, by a 1-up margin, he defeated Reid Stromberg in an 18-hole finals match to win the city golf title.

Kvikstad, in defeating Stromberg, carried one-over-par golf for the eighteen holes, having a 36 on the first nine, and a 37 on the second nine.

In the championship flight consolation play, Larry Perkins won the honors by scoring a 3-up win over Ron Solheim.

In the championship flight finals, Kvikstad held a 2-up lead at the end of the first nine holes of play. On the second nine, Stromberg won the 11th hole with a par, and the 12th hole with a birdie to even the match. Stromberg carded bogeys on the 15th and 16th holes to be dormie with two holes to play.

Kvikstad took a four on the 17th hole and had his margin sliced to 1-up as Stromberg scored a par for a win. On the 18th hole, Kvikstad's tee shot faded off to the right and was down the river bank. Ron came out well and then placed his third shot ten feet short of the green. Stromberg's third shot was just off the green to the left of the pin. Kvikstad chipped to within inches of the cup for a conceded par five, and when Stromberg's putt was short of the cup, the hole was halved and the match was over.

In semi-finals play on Sunday morning, Kvikstad defeated Wally DuChamp, 2 and 1; and Stromberg bested Jon Larson, 3 and 2. In his match against DuChamp, Kvikstad won five of the first six holes to take a commanding five-up lead, and then held off the Plummer golfer as DuChamp made a desperate effort to get back into contention. DuChamp won the 7th and 9th holes to pare Kvikstad's lead to 3-up and the turn; but on the second nine, DuChamp ran out of holes and the match was closed out on the 16th hole.

The cards of the championship flight finals, and the championship flight consolation finals:

Fertile Team Defeats Bagley 10-1; Twin Valley Shuts out Fosston 12-0

Northern Minny league representatives did not fare so well in the Region 2B baseball tournament games played on Sunday night. In a game played on the Brustad geld diamond in Bagley, the Fertile team of the Norman-Polk league defeated the Bagley Merchants of the Northern Minny league, 10 to 1. And in game played at Ada, Twin Valley of the Norman-Polk league gave a whitewashing to the Fosston team of the Northern Minny, wining by a 12 to 0 score.

On Tuesday night, on the Ada diamond, Twin Valley will play Fertile in a winner's bracket game. Also on Tuesday night, on the Bagley diamond, Fosston will play Bagley, and the loser of this game will be eliminated from the double-elimination playoff series.

In Sunday night's games, the draft choices from the Thieves' team playing with the Bagley and Fosston clubs saw action in relief duty. Bob Hallameck pitched one and one-third innings in relief of starter Dennis Fallon for Bagley, closing out the game; and Arlan Hjelle hurled the final two innings for Fosston in their losing effort against Twin Valley.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Take Your Choice

The winner's bracket of the city softball league playoffs — Hartz Stores and Hamm's Beer — will meet this evening, Monday, on the East Side diamond. The game could develop into a classic.

On Tuesday evening, the Len's Tire Service and the Bridgeman's will make another attempt at playing a game to a decision with the loser being eliminated from the playoffs. On Thursday evening the two teams did manage to post three-and-a-half innings into the scorebook, with the Len's taking a 10 to 4 lead, but then the rains came and the game was washed out. The game Tuesday evening will start from scratch as a new game. We're hoping, and so are the Len's, that the Bridgeman's will have their regular lineup available for the game. It's not such an honor to beat the make-shift lineup that the Bridgeman's have been forced to field in their last two outings.

But to get back to the main event, the game between the Hartz, the league champions, and Hamm's, champions last season. It's as even a match as could be arranged, and the breaks and the bounces of the ball will probably decide the tussle.

Both teams have capable pitching, with Hartz relying on Kerm Malberg, and Hamm's placing their confidence in George Janssen. The chuckers are righthanders, and they feature a snap-ball delivery. If the two pitchers are "on" on Monday evening, meaning that they have control of their pitches, base hits should be at a premium.

The one advantage that the Hamm's will have in this evening's tilt is in the southpaw hitting of Glenn Carlson and Fred Dablow. Hartz cannot match the potent long-ball power of these two hitters, and with the difficult fielding problems posed by the tennis courts in right field, Carlson and Dablow, batting back-to-back, will be a threat.

But we must consider the desire and will-to-win that has been one of the Hartz Stores assets this season. This club has the appearance of being a dedicated outfit, and they will enter this evening's contest as a "hungry" club.

Come On, Braves

We were lunching at the Club the other afternoon and we joined in a friendly discussion with Gunder Grovum and a couple of baseball fans on the outcome of the major league pennant races. Gunder, a former manager and treasurer and owner of the franchise of the Grygla Red Sox, and now one of the influential powers of the Pen-Ro-Shall league, was emphatic in his belief that the Pittsburgh Pirates would win the National league race. After considerable backing and filling on Gunder's part we were able to place a modest wager, at suitable odds, that the Milwaukee Braves will overtake the Pirates.

It's not that we love the Pirates less, but that we like the Braves more. In fact, our second choice for the National league pennant is the St. Louis Cardinals. And then we can make room for the Pirates.

It's probable that the outcome of the National league race will be determined by the results of the nine games that the Pirates and Braves have to play against each other in September. Six of these games are slated for the Pittsburgh field. Could be that we made a foolish wager. But as we said, the odds were pleasing.

Those Errors!

That was an interesting Region 12B baseball game played on the Fair Grounds diamond here Saturday night, and which was won by the Alvarado Farmers of the Red River Valley league, defeating Greenbush of the Pen-Ro-Shall league, 6 to 3.

Our sympathies were with the the Greenbush club, and not only because lefty Freddy Jensen and Larry Ward formed the battery for Greenbush, the two players being drafted from the local Bums club, but because we have followed the play of the Greenbush club quite closely. Manager Manville Borgen's club won the league championship, and went on to win the league playoff title.

And but for an epidemic of errors — the team was charged with nine errors—it's probable that Greenbush would have defeated Alvarado. Jensen hurled a creditable game for the losers, giving up but five hits, and never giving up but more than one hit in an inning. But those errors!

Three of the misplays were muffs of routine fly balls by the Greenbush outfield, and two of these muffs were costly, giving Alvarado their first two runs.

Four of the Greenbush errors were throwing errors, and there was some excuse for these wild throws as the baseballs, due to the heavy field and the dew, were difficult to grip. But of course Alvarado was throwing the same baseballs and they committed but one throwing error.

Draft Choices

Bagley, the number one team in the Northern Minny league, three players by selecting right-exercised its draft option of handed pitcher Bob Hallameck of the Thieves, southpaw pitcher Jerry Daniels of Cass Lake, and catcher Bob Montebello, also of Cass Lake. Fosston, the number two team in the Northern Minny league, made the following draft choices for the Region 2B play: righthanded pitcher Arlan Hjelle of the Thieves, left-handed pitcher Roger Perling of Cass Lake, and catcher Dale Swenson of Cass Lake.

These drafted players were available for duty as Bagley and Fosston entered regional tournament play on Sunday night.

Warroad Wins Place in State Tournqment, Defeating Alvarado

The Alvarado Farmers of the Red River Valley league, taking advantage of numerous errors by Greenbush, defeated Greenbush of the Pen-Ro-Shall league, 6 to 3, in a first round game of the Region 12B baseball tournament. The game was played on the Fair Grounds diamond here on Saturday night, and the winner, Alvarado, moved into the regional finals against Warroad at Warroad on Sunday afternoon. The Warroad Muskies, by a 9 to 2 score, defeated Alvarado and earned a berth in the state tournament to be held in Springfield beginning on September 8.

Before the Alvarado team could take the field against Greenbush on Saturday night, manager Don Bergman's club had to settle some unfinished baseball with the Florian team. The two teams, in game that was called at the end of eleven inning last Sunday, were tied at 5-all. On Saturday evening, on the Fair Grounds diamond, the two teams resumed the game, and Alvarado, scoring four runs in the top of the twelfth inning, and holding Florian scoreless in the last half of the inning, marked up a 9 to 5 win to enter the region tourney as the Red River Valley representative.

In the regional contest, Alvarado picked up a pair of runs in the fourth inning when Greenbush committed three errors, two being outfield bobbles of fly balls. And in the sixth inning, Alvarado added a run on a single by Ron Olson and a pair of throwing errors by the Greenbush infield.

Greenbuesh entered the scoring column in the last half of the sixth inning when Ron Thompson drew a walk, and then scored when Larry Ward, catching for Greenbush as a draft choice from the Bums, lined a double to left-center.

A couple of walks, a stolen base, a single, and a pair of errors added three runs to the Alvarado total in the seventh inning, boosting the Farmers lead to 6 to 1.

Greenbush ignited a rally in the ninth inning when, with one out, Morris Hemichek drew a walk, Larry Johnson singled, Larry Colton hit into a force play, and Stan Goodman banged a two-bagger to the fence in right field, scoring Johnson and Colton. Thomson ended the game by lofting to centerfield.

Lefty Freddy Jensen, a draft choice from the Bums, pitched a strong game for Greenbush, giving up but five hits, issuing three walks, and wriffing eight batsmen. Side-arming Gordy Fillipi gave eleven hits, but proved effective with runners on base, stranding ten Greenbush base-runners.

Marshall Extension Service to Conduct Soil Test Campaign

In a concentrated effort to increase soil sampling as an aid to proper soil fertilization, the Marshall county extension service has instituted a program which will be carried to all communities of Marshall county.

With only 600 soil samples taken in the county last year, the campaign this fall is pointed toward a goal of at least 1,000 samples, according to Fred Heck, Marshall county soil conservation agent.

Under the provisions of this year's campaign, several business places in each county town will serve as distributions centers for soil sampling information and supplies. Alvarado and Oslo have been organized and work is being done this week on other community distribution centers, Mr. Heck said.

Ideal weather conditions and the slack peroid between grain harvest and row crop harvest should combine to make the sampling as convenient as possible this year, Mr. Heck said. Farmers can carry a pail on their tractor while plowing and take soil samples without even making a special trip to the field.

Sampling procedure is simple and relatively inexpensive when campared with the cost of excessive amounts of the wrong type of fertilizer which may be applied by guesswork, the soils agent added. The cost is only $1 per sample at the state soil testing laboratory and is payable when the sample is collected.

Soil samples may be returned to the distribution center where supplies were obtained or to a community round-up which will be announced later for each community. At this round-up a car or station wagon will be in the community to collect the samples and $1 fee to that they may be sent in for testing. These round-ups will be held within a few weeks to allow the samples to be sent in and processed before the major rush of fall sampling begins.

40-day Duck Season Opens October 8th

Increased Bag Limits Announced by Kimball

Minnesota duck hunters will open a 40-day season Saturday noon, October 8, with limits increased to four daily and eight in possession.

Game and fish director James W. Kimball announced the season, and it drew an immediate letter of commendation from the tion. An MMA Game and Fish Advisory council, headed by John Hoene of Duluth, had requested the short season and increased limits in 1959 and again this year.

Northern Minnesota hunters last fall complained that the 50-day season is of little value because lakes are frozen before the season ends. Limits last fall were three and six.

Two major changes ban shooting of redheads and canvasbacks and allow shooting on legal species from a half-hour before sunrise to sunset. Last fall hunters were allowed one redhead or one canvasback, and shooting hours were from sunrise to a half-hour before sunset.

Through the development of new and improved refining methods, International Nickel now recovers 14 elements from its ores mined in the Sudbury District of Ontario.

Rainfall Interrupts Harvest in Soo Area

Alexandria to Thief River Falls

Rain showers on this subdivision provided ½ to 4" of badly needed rain, which did much to rejuvenate the corn, soybeans, flax and forage crops, plus conditioning the soil for fall plowing. Threshing of barley, wheat and oats is progressing nicely and if farmers are favored with fair weather, harvest of these crops should be completed within several weeks. Wheat is averaging 28 bu. per acre, barley 37 and oats 46.

Newfolden to Orleans

Rainfall average 1½" on this subdivision, supplying both the top and subsoil with ample moisture. Conditions of potatoes and flax have improved considerably after this rain and farmers will now be able to begin their fall plowing. Farmers are busy harvesting wheat, oats and barley with the yields averaging as follows: Durum 26, hard wheat 29, rye 18, barley 37, and oats 48.

Viking to Rolette, N. D.

Harvesting activities moved at a fast pace last week, not seriously hampered by several rain showers which produced from .6 to 1.1" of rain on parts of this subdivision. This rain was of benefit to the late flax, which is in the filling stage, sugar beets, and potatoes and helped to get the ground in shape for plowing. Prospects for sugar beets are good, with potato prospects being fair to good. This week's threshing reports show durum averaging 21, hard wheat, 23, barley, 26 and oats, 38 bushels per acre.

Overly to Norma, N. D.

The weather this past week was generally good for harvesting, with several showers of rain helping the late flax to fill nicely. More moisture is needed before farmers can begin their tilling operations to get soil in condition for next year. Harvesting is still in progress with the following yields in bushels per acre indicated: Durum, 21; hard wheat, 24; rye, 30; barley, 31; and oats, 43.

Dahlen to Orrin, N. D.

Wheat, durum, barley and oats are nearly all cut and combining is about 50 per cent completed. Yields average durum, 23, hard wheat, 22, barley, 26, and oats 33 bushels per acre. Intermittent rain interrupted harvest occasionally and provided .40 to 1" of moisture which benefited the flax and moistened the ground to facilitate plowing.

General

Harvesting activities progressed at a rapid rate last week, in spite of rain showers on nearly all of the Winnipeg Division. This moisture rejuvenated the late flax, which is filling, corn, sugar beets, soybeans, and potatoes and conditioned the soil for fall plowing. Pastures and haylands responded noticeably to the rain, although the moisture supply is too depleted for a third cutting of alfalfa. The overall farm picture is considered good at this time.

Dormitories will open Monday, September 5, so that students can arrive early and be settled prior to the opening of registration the following morning.

Freshman students who have not pre-registered during the summer will report at Memorial Hall (old gym building) at 8 a.m. Tuesday, September 6.

Freshman who have pre-registered will not be required to report until Wednesday morning, September 7, when they will join other freshmen at 8 a.m. in Memorial Hall to receive registration packets and attend the opening convocation.

Transfer students who have not pre-registered will report at the personnel office in the administration building during the forenoon of Wednesday, September 7.

Aalberts said late admission applications would be accepted through early September and that dormitory rooms were still available. The college has added a new four story dormitory since last year and it is expected that despite an anticipated enrollment increase there will be housing available for all students this fall.

Fall quarter classes will be in session beginning Monday, September 12, and the deadline for late registration is September 23.

Clearbrook Hit by Brief Windstorm

Several Buildings Are Damaged Early Thursday

A sudden windstorm awakened residents of Clearbrook at 6 a.m. Thursday; and damaged a number of buildings. No one was hurt.

The storm was over almost before residents realized it had struck.

A small metal building was picked up and carried three blocks.

A transformer at the Otter Tail Power Co. plant was blown down and Clearbrook still was without electricity at noon.

Roofs at a cabin court and a grocery store also were damaged.

"By and with religion the living together of men was made not merely possible but also desirable. Religion clothed and adorned the cold nakedness of primitive existence with shreds and patches of beauty. All that grace and color which transmutes mere existence into life—in a word, all art—may truly be said to have arisen out of religion. Sculpture had it origin in idol making, architecture in temple building, poetry in prayer writing, music in psalm singing, drama in legend telling and dancing in the seasonal worship of the gods." —Lewis Browne

Crime and Punishment

Prior to July 1, 1959, the warden of Stillwater prison was permitted to help himself to groceries from the prison commissary for his own household needs. On that date a new law became effective, providing the warden with a cash allowance of $175 a month for food purchases and ending his right to the use of prison supplies.

Persistent rumors since that time led to the disclosure recently that Warden Douglass Rigg had drawn heavily on the state's food supplies in anticipation of the new arrangement. During the months of May and June he had transferred $1,500 worth of food from the commissary to his own living quarters. This was estimated to be $1,100 more than he would have normally needed. And that would be $1,100 worth of groceries he wouldn't have to buy with his $175 a month cash allowance.

Warden Rigg admitted his "mistake" and has agreed to pay for the groceries he was not entitled to. He is quoted as saying, "I'm making no excuses for my mistake. I'm being punished for it and I'm accepting it."

The punishment, administered by Rigg's boss, Will C. Turnbladh, state commissioner of corrections, is a suspension of 15 days, after which, presumably, he will resume his duties as warden.

In defense of his mistake, Rigg stated that he withdrew the food "with full understanding that it was approved by my then superior," Morris Hursh, commissioner of welfare. It would seem that that would make Morris Hursh an accomplice, and if that is true, what will be his punishment? And had Mr. Hursh obtained the approval of his superior? Had the Attorney General been consulted? These are points that probably should have a little more clarificaion.

It has been said in Warden Rigg's defense that he had violated no law. By his own admission he had enriched himself, at the expense of the state, improperly, to the extent of $1,100. Some of the convicts serving time in Stillwater may have profited less by their mistakes.

Warden Rigg has our sympathy, as we sympathize with any person who is in trouble, but we can see no justification for his case being dropped without a more thorough investigation of all of the facts. It has been suggested that what he did at Stillwater may also have been done at some of the other institutions.

These are matters that should be carefully checked and wherever there is evidence of possible wrongdoing, any question as to whether there have been law violations should be determined by prescribed legal procedure.

Can He Do As Well?

Presidential candidate Jack Kennedy told the Veterans of Foreign Wars last week that national defense must be "beefed-up" regardless of cost. This is a somewhat hysterical approach to a problem that all are agreed is of prime importance. We all favor an adequate defense program but no reasonable person would suggest we should act on any proposed measure without due regard to the cost factor.

In spending for national defense there is just as great a need for considerations of value as in spending for any other worthy purpose. We do not necessarily improve our defense structure just by tossing more dollars around, and if we fail to maintain a sound economy we may discover too late that by reckless spending we have weakened our defense structure.

Under the present administration we have made very satisfactory progress in national defense. In spite of a late start we have reason to believe that we now have superior strength in the air, and we are far ahead in the development of submarines. The greatest achievement of the administration probably is in the field of foreign relations. Recent tests of power in the United Nations and in the Organization of American States indicate that we have the friendship and respect of all of the nations of the free world.

If Jack Kennedy is elected president, and if, as president, he does as good a job of making friends for our country as Ike has done he will be assured of recognition as a great American.

Not So One-Sided

Majority leaders in Congress are now willing to admit that it was a mistake to return to Washington after the conventions. The business of the session should have been disposed of before convention time. Now nothing is being accomplished and in spite of their two-thirds majority in both houses, the Democrats are unable to get action on the program they had hoped would make them look good in the coming election.

The plan had merit. There were a few bills that had good pressure-group support that could be run through in a hurry. A couple of presidential vetoes would provide good campaign ammunition.

But the President, in his message, presented a long list of other unfinished business that should be acted on, putting the majority leadership on the spot. Failure to act would give their opponents something to talk about. They have discovered that lame-duck Ike is still a popular leader thruout the country and they know that he can be an effective campaigner.

Things do not appear to be as one-sided as they were a few months ago.

The Cause Is Not Hopeless

There are times when the prospects for a peaceful solution to the problems of Africa seem hopeless, but, fortunately, now and then there is a note of restraint and understanding that is encouraging. Lumumba evidently is not the Moses to whom the masses of Negro Africans look for leadership. There is opposition, and the opposition seems to be gaining strength.

The following comment by the African Daily News, the only Newspaper for Africans in Southern Rhodesia, probably is more representative of the thinking of informed Africans than are the mumblings of Lumumba:

> "It is about time Lumumba stopped imagining that he was a sort of demigod who could threaten the whole world into pandering to his every whim and caprice. Indeed, it is time he realized that at the moment he is a man virtually walking in borrowed robes, a Prime Minister in name only. The Government of which he is supposedly the head is bankrupt and in a process of rapid disintegration.
>
> "The country of which Lumumba speaks in such glowing terms is an utter shambles and nothing short of massive international help, financial, administrative and technical, can save it from irreparable ruin. The U.N.O. has rallied to the help of the Congo with unaccustomed gusto and big-heartedness.
>
> "It behooves Lumumba if he knows what is good for his country to thank his lucky stars for this help which could be withdrawn at any time and which he has done nothing to deserve."

A Wage Is When You Get It

(Christian Science Monitor)

"A point worth keeping in view in connection with legislation taking shape in Washington is this: That while Congress can enact a minimum wage, it takes an employer to pay it.

"The current status of business activity, of price trends, and of unemployment suggests that there can be some question whether the next six months represent a propitious time in which to initiate an increase from $1 to $1.15 or $1.25 in the minimum permissible pay among the more than 20 million employees under the present law and to extend that coverage to from two to five million more employees.

"Earlier this year Labor Secretary Mitchell recalled that the Eisenhower administration in each of the last seven years has recommended extension of minimum-wage protection to several million workers. That much is desirable to curb exploitation. Yet he declared that the effect of proposals for an immediate $1.25 minimum and a 40-hour basic work week would be too great to permit absorption of the changes without substantial curtailment of employment.

"Labor spokesmen have pointed out with great validity that persistent unemployment is a serious national problem even after two years of recovery from a business recession which some fear may be repeated.

"Those who are concerned, and properly concerned, about underemployment might well consider whether they are really contributing to its alleviation by forcing up the floor under a large segment of wages when probably the greatest stimulus that could be given to business would be one of lower costs and lower prices."

Senate in Trouble

(Washington Post and Times Herald)

The first week of the Senate's postconvention session offers little hope of constructive achievement. The pull of the political whirlpool seemed irresistible. With each side blaming the other for playing politics, the tempo of the partisan quarrel mounted ominously. Even some Senators who are usually aloof from political squabbling got into the fray, and further intensification of the contest may be anticipated unless both sides see the necessity of putting the national welfare ahead of party cannonading . . .

As a practical matter, the session can be used successfully only to clean up unfinished legislative business on which there is some measure of agreement between the two parties. President Eisnhower is ready to wield the veto on bills that do not meet with his approval, and there is no more point in passing Democratic bills that would run into certain vetoes than there is in pressing Republican bills that would provoke filibusters. What is needed is concentration on the few important measures which can be enacted with relatively little controversy. Both parties would be better off if they reserved their new programs and their politicking for more appropriate occasions.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"You don't speak fondly to me the way you used to," she said. "I guess you just don't love me any more."

"Don't love you," he muttered. "There you go again. Don't love you! Why, I love you more than life itself. Now shut up and let me read my book."

AYRSHIRE BULL GETS FAIR TREATMENT

SHOW RING ETIQUETTE is being taught this young Ayrshire bull by Roy Knutson, manager of Modern Ayr Farms near Owatonna, Minn. Roy will be leading this animal past dairy cattle judges in the open-class show at the Minnesota State Fair, Aug. 27 through Sept. 5. He uses a pole attached to a ring in the bull's nose to control him while getting his daily training stroll around his home show ring. The open-class livestock shows for dairy and beef cattle, swine, sheep and draft horses will be held first six days of the fair, followed by four days of FFA and 4-H contests.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Q—I see that World War II veterans have just been given another two years in which to get a GI loan, and that at the same time VA was given new authority to make direct loans. What is the direct loan program?

A—It is a much smaller program than A's loan guaranty program. Direct loans are made only to veterans who live in certain rural and small town areas where GI loans are not obtainable from local lenders. Eligible veterans apply directly to VA.

Q—Does the VA in Washington, D. C., have a list of all courses approved for veterans under the Korean GI Bill?

A—No. Each regional office maintains a list of state-approved courses for veterans under the Korean GI Bill. To get the information, contact your VA regional office, and not VA headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Q—I am a Korea veteran, discharged in 1956, and have a disability which VA has just rated service-connected. What is my deadline for finishing vocational rehabilitation training under Public Law 894

A—Your deadline is January 31, 1964, or nine years after separation, whichever comes first. There are exceptions to this deadline for certain veterans, but apparently they do not apply to you.

Q—I understand that special restorative training is available under the War Orphans Education program to handicapped young men and women in need of it. Does this restorative training include medical care?

A—No. Special restorative training does not include medical care. It does include special courses—such as braille reading, language retraining and the like—designed to helped a person overcome his handicap so that eventually he can take regular training at school.

PASTE THIS IN your hat is a familiar expression, meaning to remember a certain thing for future reference. But did you ever see anybody put a notation in his lid? . . . Take care when you shave. A medical school reports that a single razor cut may result in skin cancer within a month. Skin cancer is now 10 times more common than lung cancer and surgeons are now removing upwards of 700,000 of them a year. In cases of razor cuts, the skin cancer appears at the site of the cut that doesn't heal, but crusts over repeatedly.

THANK A DEATH for the self-starter on your automobile. Way back in 1910, a prominent Detroit car dealer gallantly offered to start the stalled car of a woman on the highway. The engine kicked back and the starting crank broke the car dealer's jaw. He died later of the injury. The great genius and inventor, Charles Kettering, got busy and produced the first self-starter in 1911 . . . Wonder why handwriting that looks so bad in a letter can look so wonderful on a check . . . What's your choice: The average American girl is five-foot-three and weighs 133 pounds. The average fashion model is five-foot-eight and carries only 112 pounds.

DRUMSTICKS—640,000 drumsticks a year are eaten by the thousands of Minnesota people who depend upon iron mining and related business for their livelihood. Chicken is popular on our Iron Ranges. If one chicken farmer were to provide the chickens eaten by Iron Range families, he'd have to raise 320,000 chickens for the Iron Range market each year! I'd say that Minnesota's Iron Ranges are a big market for Minnesota's poultry industry.

BETTER BE CAREFUL, Parents, how you name that offspring of yours. A bizarre name, say the experts, can have a direct effect on an individual's personality and general outlook. A name that strikes others as queer or strange or that lends itself to jokes can result in a chip-on-the-shoulder or an antisocial attitude . . . A doctor has come up with a good reason for resting a foot on the old brass barroom rail: It prevents backache. He even recommends bar rails in the home, suggesting that housewives place one under the kitchen sink, in front of the ironing board or any other work space where they must stand for long periods.

This Column brought to you by the Iron Mining Industry of Minnesota.

Whitey's a Man With Both Feet on the Ground

Whitey Fisher and his missus got back from their first European vacation the other day. But before they left, Mrs. Fisher tells us, Whitey had some pretty strong feeling about their transportation—a new jet plane.

"Should go by boat," Whitey complained as they boarded the jet. When they were seated Whitey murmured, "I'll get air-sick on this thing for sure."

And a few minutes later, he added, "Course I'm all right now, but wait until we take off." Just then the pilot announced, "Folks, we're now cruising at an altitude of 26,000 feet!"

From where I sit, sometimes we all jump to conclusions without knowing the facts. For instance, some people are like that about my favorite beverage—beer. They insist that coffee or tea goes best at dinnertime, when actually it's a matter of choice. We ought to be tolerant—and know before we take off on our opinions.

Payments to Jobless Plan Is 25 Years Old

Unemployment insurance, created 25 years ago, has helped immeasurably in stabilizing the economy of Minnesota, Frank T. Starkey, Commissioner, Minnesota Department of Employment Security, pointed out today.

In this birthday month of job insurance, more than half a million Minnesota workers are covered by the program and 46 million are covered in the country as a whole (including those covered by the Railroad Retirement Act).

As a result of passage of the Social Security Act August 14, 1935, the first state unemployment compensation law was passed on December 22, 1936, approved by the Governor on December 24 and by the Federal Social Security Board on December 29, 1936. Unemployment compensation benefits became payable January 1, 1938.

"Since that time," Starkey said, "jobless workers have received $319,897,396 in benefits — money they have spent with their own merchants, who maintained their business because these payments helped maintain purchasing power. By keeping purchasing power up, the UC program also helped preserve the jobs of the employed."

Highest year on record was 1958, during the recession, when $18,095,933 in benefits was paid out. Workers, when filing claims, must register for work and must accept suitable job offers or be disqualified from benefits. The Department points out the unemployment compensation recipients in 1959 drew benefits for an average of 14.5 weeks.

Minnesota employers have paid into the trust fund $342,648,162 and the fund earned $13,100,878 in interest — a total of $385,749,040—to finance the payment of benefits to eligible workers who became unemployed. There was a total of $112,729,145 in the fund when the 1958 recession began, but as a result of the heavy benefit drains during the 1958 recession period, the fund had decreased to a total of $66,252,975 as of June 30, 1960.

"If all Minnesota employers listed job openings with their local state employment service office," Starkey points out, "it would reduce to a minimum the time that UC recipients draw benefits. This could have the double effect of cutting employers' tax rates and at the same time restoring jobless workers to productive work and full pay with the least possible delay."

State Motorists Pay Heavy Taxes

Levies Total $174 Million in 1959, Official States

Minnesota motorists paid $174,093,000 in state and federal gasoline and other automotive levies last year, it was disclosed today.

Mr. H. V. Smock, Chairman of Minnesota Petroleum Council, said the biggest bite was placed on the motorist in the form of the gasoline tax. Minnesota took in $54,550,000 from this source in 1959 and Uncle Sam realized $34,181,000.

The rest of the revenue came from a variety of levies, including registration fees, taxes on new cars, parts and accessories, imports on lubricating oil and other sales and excise taxes.

Minnesota imposes a 5 cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline and the U. S. government has a four-cent levy.

Nationally, the state and federal tax revenue alone was directed to non-highway spending, he said.

Tomato Canning at Peak in State

Marketing Specialist Advises Buying Them Now

Buy your tomatoes now for canning, homemakers were advised today.

Tomatoes are at the peak of supply, of uniformly good quality and reasonably priced by the bushel and half bushel, according to Mrs. Eleanor Lomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota.

Use only fresh, firm, red-ripe tomatoes for canning. Discard those with decayed spots and cracks. Scald the tomatoes just long enough to loosen the skins. Dip quickly into cold water. Cut out the hard core and peel the tomatoes, trimming off any green spots. Cut large tomatoes into halves or quarters if desired, but leave small tomatoes whole.

Either the raw pack or the hot pack is satisfactory for canning tomatoes, but extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota say the cold pack is somewhat easier and gives superior flavor.

For the raw pack, put the peeled tomatoes into hot, scalded jars to ½ inch of the top. Press the tomatoes together gently until the spaces fill with juice. Add ½ teaspoon of salt to pints and 1 teaspoon to quarts.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Low rates of chemical Atrazine did a good weed control job in corn this year for Ed Neeser, Benton county farmer. Neeser applied the chemical just after planting, and covered only a 7-inch band over the row. As a result, he used only a half pound of chemical for each acre of corn. Control, according to county agent Burton Olson, was good. Three cultivations were still necessary, however.

You can plant corn 5 or more consecutive years in the same field, without losing a single bushel in yields. University of Minnesota research is showing how it can be done. The practice calls for nearly level fields, minimum tillage, plenty of fertilizer, a heavy stand, and insect and weed control. A good stand of continuous corn can yield enough stalks and leaves to return as much organic matter to the soil as a legume.

Just because a farm is in the conservation reserve is no reason to stop applying wise practices. Walter Maher, Fulda, constructed a two-acre pond on his farm to stop a gully. The pond will give water to livestock and the plantings around it will furnish wildlife cover. Several miles of terraces will be put in this summer to conserve water on the cropland. Waterways and outlets are being built and a new windbreak has been planted.

What works for one man is often a convincer for his neighbors. So it workked for Harold Holmgren, farmer in Douglas county. He recently told Bob Amborn, SCS worker that "What sold me on contour strips was the corn my neighbor raised on his strips last year. I never thought those hills would raise corn like that, especially as dry as it is." Holmgren's first set of strips was laid out this spring, with more to follow next year.

Sample Ballot for Primaries in Times Today

Liveliest Races Are for Congress Post and for Legislature

The publication in this issue of the Times of the official sample ballot will serve as a reminder that less than two weeks remain before the primary election Tuesday, September 13.

Candidates have been conducting active campaigns in recent weeks, particularly for the two legislative posts in the 65th district, in which there are five candidates, of whom one will be eliminated in the primary; and also for the DFL nomination for Congress, with Roy E. Wiseth of Goodridge, the party's endorsed candidate, being opposed by Coya Knutson of Oklee, who was defeated in 1958 by Rep. Odin Langen; and August J. Duren, Fergus Falls.

Langen is expected to return to the Ninth district from Washington within the next few days, following adjournment of Congress. He is opposed for the Republican nomination by Jack Carlson of Beltrami county.

Candidates for the state legislature listed on the ballot include Rep. Ben Wichterman, Plummer; Vic Aalbu, Gonvick; Irving W. Beyer, Red Lake Falls; and Dave Ostby, Plummer.

Unopposed for DFL nominations are U. S. Senator Hubert Humphrey, Lieutenant Governor Karl Rolvaag, Secretary of State Joseph Donovan and Attorney General Walter Mondale. Governor Orville Freeman is opposed by Belmont Tudisco; while Conrad Hammar and Bill Kjeldahl are seeking the DFL nomination for the office of state treasurer, now held by Val Bjornson, GOP, who is unopposed.

Mayor P. Kenneth Peterson of Minneapolis, seeking the GOP nomination for U. S. senator, is opposed by James M. Williams, while Elmer L. Andersen is the only GOP candidate for the nomination for governor.

Five candidates are in the field for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, including G. Howard Spaeth, Art Ogle, Russell H. Underdahl, Hursel O. Kallestad and John C. Peterson. Kenneth O'Brien Joyce is unopposed for the nomination for secretary of state, as is Gaylord A. Saetre for attorney general.

BRT Chief Supports Library Board's Plea for Added Facilities

The Trainman News, official publication of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Cleveland, Ohio, carries in its August 29 issue a photograph and detailed story of a visit made at the Carnegie public library in Thief River Falls by Wm. P. Kennedy, president of the brotherhood, while he was the guest speaker recently at a banquet in this city.

The article follows:

An appeal to residents of this area to generate all-out support in the drive for an improved, expanded local library was made by President W. P. Kennedy.

The BRT leader's solid endorsement for a bigger, better Carnegie Public Library building was strongly seconded by C. G. Buoen, Soo Line general chairman, former member of the library's board of trustees and native of Thief River Falls.

BRT Lodge 436 is giving solid support to the library drive. A $100 lodge gift was presented recently and a short time later individual lodge members collected $50 for an additional gift.

When sufficient funds have been collected, the library will construct a new wing to house a separate children's section and special rooms for adults. Plans call for film viewing and record listening rooms.

Kennedy termed the need for a modern, up-to-date library as being "essential, especially for the community's children." A good library develops the minds of children and helps them become productive citizens, he added.

District Governor of Rotary Speaks at Club Luncheon

Ralph Bird, Port Arthur, Urges Members to Strive to Make a Better World

Ralph Bird of Port Arthur, Ontario, governor of district 558 of Rotary International, called on local Rotarians to expand their ideals of service and to make the community, the nation and the world a better place in which to live.

Bird spoke to the local club Monday noon during his annual visitation. "Rotary stands for peace, understanding and good will," he reminded club members, "and is the largest private organization in the world devoting its effort toward those objectives."

He opened his talk with a history of American-Canadian relations which have, despite some difficulties, resulted in peace and understanding. He paralleled this with a meeting of Rotary International which he attended in company with representatives from 116 nations. Despite the differences of race, languages and government, these representatives met in complete harmony.

Present at the meeting were Viggo (Vic) Fischer, Danish AFS student who will attend Lincoln high school under Rotary sponsorship this year and Mrs. Maynard Mehrkens, his hostess for the year. Fischer is the sixth foreign exchange student to live in the Thief River Falls community.

Army Engineers Take Soil Samples from Thief River

Work Is Preliminary to Providing a Remedy for Flood Damage on Stream

A U.S. Army Corps of Engineers boring crew has resumed work on the Thief River between Thief Lake and the mouth of the river at Thief River Falls. This work was started in January of 1960.

According to Colonel W. B. Strandberg, new district engineer at St. Paul, the crew is taking soil samples that will be used in tests to determine types of soil present, moisture content, stability of bank slopes and other subsurface conditions at bridge foundations and along the proposed channel improvement.

"For certain soil data it is necessary to obtain undisturbed samples at depths of 20 to 40 feet," said Colonel Strandberg. "In addition, methods involving various types of equipment are used to secure samples from which the load bearing capacity of the various soils is determined."

These types of borings are taken near bridge structures and at one-mile intervals in the 30-mile reach of the river north of Thief River Falls. Tests are then performed at the Army Engineers' Division laboratory in Chicago, Ill.

Purpose of the work is to obtain information for survey studies presently under way by the Corps of Engineers to determine ways of alleviating flood damages on the Thief River. The Thief River study is one of several which will be undertaken under a general authority for comprehensive survey of the Red River of the North drainage basin.

Members of the crew, which will be in the vicinity about a month, are Melvin Nelson, chief of the boring party; Gerald Ducharme and William Conley.

State Wood Pulp, Paper Industry Creates New Jobs

Work Has Been Provided for 3,100 More Persons During Past 15 Years

Expansion of Minnesota's pulp and paper industries has created 3,100 new jobs in Minnesota since World War II. This was revealed at Duluth Monday by John V. Hoene, executive secretary of the Forest Industries Information Committee. "Continuing expansions and modernization have made this possible," Hoene said. "In the last two years alone, over 33.7 million dollars have been invested in these improvements."

A new high of over 8,700 jobs was reached in 1959 resulting in payrolls totaling $54,060,000. Last year the industry produced over half a million tons of printing, writing, wrapping and packaging and over 382,000 tons of structural and flexible insulation material made primarily from the products of Minnesota's forests.

About 9 million trees were harvested returning $17,600,000 to pulpwood producers. Over 11,500 people obtained part or full-time employment in the production of this wood.

"Improvements in our second growth forests have provided the surplus of pulpwood needed for expansion," Mr. Hoene said. "Better forest management including selective cutting, fire proection, construction of access roads and improved equipment have contributed to this development. Most of the pulpwood required is purchased from tree farmers."

FU Agency Plans Lamb Grading Tour

Tours Are Scheduled for September 8, 9, 10

The second fall lamb grading tour will be conducted in this area by the Farmers Union Marketing association on September 8th, 9th, and 10th.

This is the second of three such tours designed to give the sheep farmers the opportunity to have their lambs graded on their farms before marketing them. The August tour was highly successful, and it is expected that the September and October tours will show even more participation.

With the wide price spread between fat lambs and those selling as feeders, this services is proving to be beneficial. Sheep raisers are urged to take advantage of this free service by contacting either their local trucker, or Cy Carpenter at Thief River Falls.

Faulty Steering Gear Charged with Goodridge Mishap

Car Driven by Orville Kjelgren Damages Co-op Oil Station Building

A faulty steering mechanism resulted in the crash of a car into the Co-op oil station at Goodridge Monday evening, causing minor injuries to the driver of the car and extensive damage to the building.

The mishap occurred about 7:50 p.m. Monday as Orville Kjelgren, rt. 2, Goodridge, was turning off highway 218 into the station. The car, instead of following the service drive, struck the building near the grease rack, doing considerable damage to it but only an estimated $35 damage to the car, according to Sheriff Charles Richard, who investigated.

Richards said that examination of the car revealed the steering mechanism was faulty, bearing out Kjelgren's explanation that the steering gear had locked and he was unable to stop before hitting the building.

BRT Chief Backs Campaign to Add to Library Space

Prior to this the library was housed for six years in the basement of the first city Auditorium.

Originally the library began here in 1900 through the efforts of a spirited group of ladies who formed the original Public Library Association. They raised $500 for the purchase of the library's first stock of books.

In those early days, the library was supported entirely by the efforts of the ladies. For nine years they operated the library in a rented room of the Dobner-Meehan Building.

Today the library receives its support from the county, city, local school districts and most importantly — from individual citizens.

The present building was designed to house approximately 15,000 volumes. The current book stock totals 24,014 volumes, including 12,593 adult books and 11,421 juvenile books.

The library's shelves are therefore — badly congested. Books are stacked atop the shelves, on window sills and everywhere possible. Meanwhile an additional 800 volumes plus some 126 magazines are annually added to the total stock. Magazines are kept five years, and then a year's supply is discarded.

The American Library Association, recommends each shelf in a library to be never more than two-thirds full.

The library has a seating capacity of 31 people, 17 seats on the adult side and 14 on the juvenile side. Often more than 50 people are on the library floor.

Softball Playoffs Become Complicated

The city softball playoffs developed complications Wednesday night when, after seven and a half innings of play, and with the Hartz Stores having scored three runs to take a 6 to 3 lead over the Bridgeman's, darkness forced suspension of play. The winner of this game was slated to play the Hamm's Beer team this evening, Thursday, in the finals of the double-elimination series.

In playoff play on Monday, the Hamm's Beer, with big George Janssen pitching steady ball, defeating an erring Hartz team, 5 to 0.

On Tuesday evening, playing off a game that was washed away by last Thursday evening's rain, the Bridgeman's, getting four runs in the first inning, defeated the Len's Tire Service team, 5 to 4. The defeat dropped the Len's from the playoffs.

In last evening's tense game, the Bridgeman's, playing without the services of Bob Carlson, who was out of town, picked up a run in the last half of the first inning for an early lead. Hartz evened the game in the second inning on Dave Martin's home run, but Bridgeman's added a pair in their half of the inning to take a 3 to 1 lead. Hartz managed a run in he fourth inning, and notched the tying run in the seventh inning.

Bridgeman's failed to score in the last half of the seventh inning, and with a tie score on the board it was agreed to play an extra inning. Hartz erupted for three runs in the top of the eighth inning, and had a runner on first base with one out when play was suspended because of darkness.

The managers of the two teams failed to come to an agreement as to procedure to follow to conclude the game. The Hamm's Beer squad notified the two teams that they, the Hamm's, will be on hand for a game this evening.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Near-Classic

We were in the bleachers at the Ada ball park on Tuesday night for the game between Twin Valley and Fertile, the two teams that were paired up in the winner's bracket of the Region 2B baseball tourney, and we witnessed Bruce Lindell's effort at turning in a no-hit and no-run game. Twin Valley won the game, 4 to 0.

Lindell, the former Crookston and North Dakota athlete, pitched for the Ada Athletics in Norman-Polk league play this past season, and was a draft choice of the Twin Valley Twins for the regional competition. Bruce had a no-hit face on the scoreboard until the eighth inning when, with two men out, Fertile's Dick Werdahl, the ninth batter in the order, drove a ground single between third base and shortstop. Howie Strom, the Fertile shortstop, singled into right field in the ninth inning to account for the other hit as Lindell recorded a two-hit shutout.

On Thursday night, on the Ada diamond, Fertile will play Fosston in an eliminatiton game, with the loser being sidelined and the winner going into the finals against Twin Valley. Twin Valley, with a mark of two wins and no losses, must be rated a top-heavy favorite in the double-elimination series. Fosston gained the semi-finals against Fertile by scoring a 5 to 3 win, in ten innings, over Bagley in a game played at Bagley on Tuesday night. The Thieves' righthander, Arlan Hjelle, a Fosston draft choice, was the winner.

Judging by the games that we have witnessed, during the tournament and throughout the season, it is evident that the Norman-Polk league has a more abundant supply of first-rate pitchers than the Northern Minny league. Twin Valley, the Norman-Polk's number one team, has an able two-man pitching staff in righthander Smokey Johnson and southpaw Bob Hanson, and for tournament play the Twins have been bolstered by the addition of draftees Bruce Lindell of Ada and Jerry Mehlisch of Halstad.

Mehlisch is particularly valuable as he can take a turn at catching in addition to being a dependable pitcher. On Tuesday night he was behind the plate accepting the pitches of Lindell, and it's probable that Mehlisch's calling of the pitches had some bearing on Bruce's two-hitter.

The Fertile pitching staff has veteran Jim McChesney, a righthander, and Roragen, a lefty. And to give this staff some depth, Fertile drafted righthanders Al Santwire of Halstad and Ken Weber of Ada, and southpaw Tom Fenno of Eldred.

In a double-elimination series such as the Region 2B tourney, dependable pitching is a must, and the Norman-Polk teams have pitching strength.

Warm Weather News

To act as a moderating influence on the hot weather these days we can make mention of the fact that the Bemidji city council has voted funds for an addition to the sports arena in the Lumberjack city so that the curlers will have a space for the artificial ice plant for the curling rink.

This addition, which will measure 30 x 45, will form the basis for an even larger addition, 45x 175, that the club hopes to build in future, and which will increase the curling area to six lanes.

There has been some curling talk by the local enthusiasts, too; but the definite plans will have to await the completion of the harvest. A large number of the farmers in this vicinity are active curlers.

An Accomplishment

It is an accomplishment for a 15-year old high school sophomore to qualify for the championship flight of the city golf tournament. And that is what Ron Kvikstad did. It's more of an accomplishment for such a youngster to move through the flight, playing 18-hole, matches against such golfers as Larry Perkins, Wally DuChamp, and Reid Stromberg, and win the city golf title. And that's what Ron did.

Ron has shown remarkable improvement in his golf play this season, and part of this is due to the practice that he has been doing. But most of his improvement is due to his grooved and smooth swing, and the added experience he has gained this year by participating in various tournaments.

It perhaps would be to Ron's advantage if he could arrange for a couple of lessons from Les Bolstad at the University of Minnesota. To a sideline observer, Ron's golf swing appears faultless, but there may be a refinement or two that Bolstad, one of the nation's top golf teachers, would recommend.

Winter Shows Board OK's Expansion Plan

Bennett Aarestad of Halstad was named to serve a three-year term on the board of managers as the representative of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association at a special meeting held August 25 of the Red River Valley Winter Shows Board of Managers, Inc. Aarestad is well-known in the area for his potato interests and as a progressive farmer.

In other action, the board amended the articles of incorporation and by-laws of the non-profit corporation raising the number of directors from 15 members to 18 and defining the criteria for regular membership on the board.

A resolution was adopted which provides for admitting advisory members to the board, who will be the non-voting representatives of organizations associated with the Winter Shows which do not meet the requirements for regular board membership. Advisory members would attend the annual meeting of the board and such other meetings as the board may direct.

The appointment of a 54-man building council and a council steering committee from the area was ratified by the board. Members of the steering committee are Richard Fitzsimons, Argyle, chairman; William Strickler, Euclid; Abel Anderson, Red Lake Falls; Marvin Severson, Ada; Robert Shafer, Mahnomen; Peter Fog, Halstad; R. T. McCulla, Crookston.

North Dakota farmers in the Red River Valley will participate and be officially represented by the new expanded exposition and other promotional activities planned when the board is able to effect the policy set at this meeting.

A report of the progress of the building fund campaign was made to the board, showing 1,671 pledges have been received which total $141,804. Campaign activity has been centered in gaining support from business firms which have a sake in the agriculture of the Red River Valley.

The board authorized the executive committee to investigate architectural services available. The board plans to continue the fund raising effort this fall and winter and start construction of the new Winter Shows facilities in the spring of 1961.

Rep. Langen Urges Increase in U.S. Sugar Beet Output

Seeks Enlarged Acreage Following Reduction in Purchases from Cuba

Congressman Odin Langen Friday urged the Department of Agriculture to allow an expansion of domestic sugar beet acreage. In a letter to Agriculture Secretary Benson, the Ninth district lawmaker wrote, "It seems only logical to me that our American farmers should be allowed to participate in fulfilling the increased sugar needs of our Nation."

These increased needs were caused by recent cancellation of purchases from Cuba.

In defending his request, Langen said that processing facilities and soil and weather conditions in the Red River Valley make it a logical area for production of a portion of the increased needs. He stated that existing processing facilities in the Red River Valley can accommodate a 10 to 15 per cent increase in tonnage, and that hundreds of farmers have a desire to grow more beets, as evidenced by the large number of requests for allotments made yearly.

Langen also stated that increased acreage in beets would mean fewer acres of crops which are in over-supply. He said, "A better balanced agriculture would be the result."

Langen has emphasized during considerations of the sugar situation that increased sugar beet acreage would give a tremendous boost to the economy of the Ninth District.

Traffic Warning Is Issued for Labor Day

Twenty persons lost their lives on Minnesota roads and streets during the four day Labor Day holiday of 1959. In addition 351 persons were injured in the total of 546 traffic accidents reported during the 78 hour weekend.

The report was issued by the safety division of Minnesota highway department as a reminder that the final long weekend of summer ahead traffic accidents can be avoided through cooperation of all drivers.

"While the total number of accidents in 1959 was below the 10 year average for this holiday," Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, said, "fatalities were more than double and injuries were increased. This simply means that the severity of our accidents is on the increase. Based on this experience we can predict that should you have an accident this year, there is a greater possibility that it will result in death or serious injury.

An analysis of 1959 records indicates that six of the fatal accidents occurred during daylight hours in clear weather, the other six during hours of darkness, but with clear weather. Drivers at fault ranged in age from 17 to 73. Five of the fatal accidents involved one or more drivers who had been drinking and four involved one or more who had been speeding."

Potato Field Day Set Sept. 8th at G. Forks Station

To Give Area Growers Opportunity to Inspect Potato Research Farm

The annual potato field day at the Red River Valley Potato Growers association's potato research farm will be held Thursday, September 8, at 1 p.m., according to Lyle W. Currie, executive secretary.

The field day is planned to give growers and others interested an opportunity to view the field research projects on the farm and to discuss potato problems with research workers from the University of Minnesota, NDAC, and USDA personnel of the research center. The farm is located four miles south of Grand Forks on Highway 81 and one mile west.

Research plots to be seen will include seedling and variety trial, date planting and harvest study; Norland, minimum tillage, plus chemical weed control; minor element study; variety trial, fertilizer trial, insecticide trial, potato breeding trial; seed spacing and depth of seed placement in the row; and seed treatment to control blackleg and silver scurf.

Tractor-drawn trailers will again be used this year to haul visitors through the plots. To give those attending a better oporunity to see and hear, those attending he field day will be taken through the plots in groups, with each group starting at a different plot so that all will complete the tour about the same time. A special tour of the plots has been arranged for county agents of the area at 10 a.m. the same day.

Tennessee Angler Gets 25-lb. Walleye

Present Record Is 22-lbs. Fish Caught in Ontario

Down in Tennesee they think they've just recorded a new world record for a walleye caught with rod and reel. On August 2, Mabry Harper of Hartsville hooked a walleye in nearby Old Hickory Lake. After a 50-minute battle, he got the fish in and took it to a boat dock where it was weighed in at just under 25 pounds.

Harper then took his catch into town where it was weighed again. The fish was also found to measure forty-one inches in length and 29 inches in girth. Not realizing he had a potential record, he then cleaned the fish and cut it up.

Fisheries technicians of the Tennessee Game and Fish commission examined the head and photograph of the fish and positively identified it as a walleye. Efforts are now being made to have the fish authenticated as an official world's record.

The existing record is a 22 pound whopper taken at Fort Erie, Ontario.

No other resource so directly affects the welfare, comfort, and happiness of so many people as does water. Water conservation is featured for the first time on a commemorative stamp, recently issued in Washington, D. C.

"In addition to thinking, the student should be provided with the education of feeling. He should learn to transcend language, sharing the wordless communion with nature typified by the story of a Buddhist Master lecturing to his monks. Just before the sermon began, a bird started singing on a bough outside the monastery walls. The Master kept quiet and everyone listened to the song in attentive silence. As soon as the bird finished, the Master announced the sermon was completed, and departed." —R. G. H. Siu

Those Potsdam Papers

The Potsdam papers, a scholarly study of the Potsdam conference by State Department historians, has been withheld from publication until after the coming election. The stop order came from Secretary of State Christian A. Herter after newspaper reviews of some of the contents indicated their release at this time would muddy the waters of the coming political campaign.

These papers presumably are historically correct and will serve a useful purpose in recording the facts pertaining to an event important not only to our country but to the world. But there will be no disservice to the public if the contents of the papers are kept secret for another year or two, or even until those Americans who made the decisions that might now be controversial, are retired from political life.

Future generations can decide for themselves whether it was necessary to drop the A-bomb to end the war in Japan. Nothing will be gained by starting arguments about such incidents at this time.

Off To A Good Start

The Organization of American States seems to be functioning in a businesslike manner and it may prove to be an effective agency in dealing with the international problems of the western hemisphere.

Our country has been very patient with Castro and that patience apparently is paying off. There was a time when we were pretty fast about moving the marines into troublesome areas, and that method was effective in restoring order. But our use of force was resented and did strengthen the position of critics who charged us with imperialism.

Following that old pattern, we could have moved into Cuba to protect the rights of American citizens. That would have been branded as dollar diplomacy and the Communists would have had a field day thruout Latin America.

As things are now shaping up we have the backing of our neighbors and there is a good chance that our purposes will be accomplished peacefully and with good will. The Organization of American States is off to a good start.

Belgians Are Needed

Congo is a colony the people of Belgium probably would like to forget. The record of this African adventure will occupy little space in the history of their nation.

Under the circumstances the Belgians may get a lot of comfort out of just a little praise. And from Katanga, a province of the Congo that has declared its independence they are receiving some favorable recognition.

From that province, Premier Tshombe has admitted a need for Belgian industrial leadership. He said:

> "In the Katanga we have the world's richest copper mines. We have manganese and cobalt and tin and tremendous uranium deposits.
>
> "Because of all this, the Katanga is prosperous but unfortunately we Africans have neither the capital nor the technical knowledge to work these mines.
>
> "We need somebody to do it for us, on a fair share basis, which the Belgians have been doing for years. I cannot believe that the Russians will do it better. So why must I get rid of the Belgians, particularly as they now have no more political say?
> "I not only want them to stay but I want the whole world to come and invest money here, and that sort of thing can only be encouraged by maintaining absolute law and order. If I fail to do that I shall get out."

It would please us mightily if an arrangement could be worked out that would give the Belgians an opportunity to succeed in Katanga. As Premier Tshombe stated, Katanga lacks both capital and technical knowledge. Of all the Europeans, the Belgians are best qualified to provide what Katanga needs, and the partnership that Tshombe suggests should be encouraged.

How Long Will We Survive?

How long will our government survive as a democracy? Are our basic freedoms that we have come to associate with the free enterprise system in danger? Is the threat of dictatorship a serious menace?

According to Channing Pollock, historian, few democracies have survived more than 200 years. They come into being as the result of a successful struggle against tyranny. For a period of time a vigorous, freedom-loving people, proud of the liberty they have gained by an heroic endeavor, make great progress. Released from the bondage of slavery, they apply themselves enthusiastically to their tasks, take advantage of opportunities, and accumulate wealth. Then, as historian Pollock sees it, comes the inevitable decay and deterioration, and lapse into another era of tyranny and slavery.

And historian Pollock is not alone in his apprehension. John H. Stambaugh, vice chancellor of Vanderbilt University, thinks there are two basic dangers for a democracy, one from without and one from within. The one from without that he now considers a menace, he sees as Communist ideological and economic penetration. The danger from within, he says, is the loss of our individual freedoms by a willingness to let the central government be all things to all people.

Stambaugh wonders:

> "Can we overcome these weaknesses and remain the strongest and most blessed people on earth?
>
> "Are we willing to stand firmly with the basic American idea that there can be no substitute for individual initiative and productivity?"

He believes we can retain our freedom only as we encourage individual initiative and responsibility, stating that:

> "If we use our resources positively and wisely, we have within the framework of free enterprise capitalism all the tools necessary to demonstrate to the world the fallacy of the Communist doctrine of absolute economic and social control by government."

And in the following conclusion he points up a few specific weaknesses in our thinking and in our practices that are leading to our deterioration as a free people:

> "What so many people fail to acknowledge is that each time the government assumes responsibility for our personal economic and social welfare, we take another long stride away from those principles which have permitted us, through individual initiative, to become the most privileged of the earth's people.
>
> "There are other evidences of weakness on the part of our people.
>
> "The great moderate masses of our society have withdrawn from the political scene as a consequence of the very abundance which our free system has provided, the blessings of education and the advances of technology.
>
> "The professional and businessman, the technician, the white-collar worker, the highly trained and productive operation of our massive machines, all enjoy a way of life which leads them to prefer to be left alone.
>
> "The businessman is restrained from political participation for fear of public criticism or the loss of a customer, not understanding that it is much better to lose a customer than to lose the climate which permits him to make a profit.
>
> "Certainly all thoughtful people must agree that if the system we cherish is to survive we must learn to understand that democracy is more difficult to maintain than to attain. Only by our individual efforts can we be sure that the lessons of history do not catch up with our Republic."

Why Not 12-month Schools?

(Christian Science Monitor)

More and more high schools across America are conducting summer schools and in many of them the number of pupils in the summer session is practically as large as in the regular terms. This is the report of Lawrence G. Derthick, United States Commissioner of Education.

Doubtless this indicates, as Mr. Derthick believes from other evidence as well, that young Americans are attaching a new and wholesome imporance to education. Possibly it indicates still another point as to the use of America's school plant.

When this continent was primarily agricultural there was practical reason for concentrating the classroom term in the colder months and turning children out to help on the farm in the summer. Now that America is predominantly urban and child labor is outlawed, the effect of a three-month vacation for teen-agers is debatable.

Some of the high schoolers apparently are saying to themselves, "The school is there; why not go?" Grownups may reasonably ask, "Why not a 12-month school year, perhaps divided into quarters?" This might involve some rotation and rest periods for teaching staffs. And if Johnny or Marilyn needs a vacation, it might be as welcome in December as in June.

Nice Guys: Safe Drivers

(Houston Post)

An effort to determine what makes the safe and unsafe automobile operator is being made in Chicago at the Municipal Court Driver School. One of the school's tutors believes that a faulty attitude was largely responsible for fatal accidents involving nearly a million drivers.

According to the instructor, the attitude of the driver depends on his or her personality. If the driver is what he would call a "nice guy," one devoid of conflicts in his personal life, then he is likely to demonstrate this attitude when behind the wheel.

Too often the modest man develops self-esteem beyond all proportion when he gets into an automobile. The road belongs to him alone. Often well-mannered, responsible people suffer a complete personality change when they turn the ignition switch.

The Chicago driver school is well advised to undertake this study. Meanwhile, if you are a gentleman or a lady when on foot, don't forget to be one when you take the driver's wheel.

There's a double holiday ahead, and that means an extra hazard on the highways. If you must drive, drive extra careful.

Deer Hunting Season to Start November 12

Deer hunters today learned the details of the 1960 Minnesota deer seasons from James W. Kimball, state director of game and fish.

Gopher state hunters will be hunting opportunities, being able to pick from nine zones providing one, two, five and nine-day seasons of hunting. Some zones are open to all legal firearms, while others are open to shotguns with single slugs. Archery enthusiasts will, of course, be able to hunt in all zones during the November seasons. The seasons in all zones will begin on Saturday, November 12.

The boundaries of zones have changed this year in order to provide for a satisfactory harvest in keeping with current habitat conditions, deer populations, hunter accessibility and associated factors.

Hunters are urged to check this newspaper in late September for an official 1960 deer hunting map.

Zone 1 will have a two-day season, November 12-13, for shotguns. Zone 2 will have a three-day season, November 12-14, open to all legal firearms. Zone 3 is scheduled for a five-day season, November 12-16, for all legal firearms. Zone 4 will have a nine-day season, November 12-20, open to all legal firearms. Zone 5 will have a one-day season, November 12, open to all legal firearms. Zone 6 calls for a one-day season, November 12, for shotguns only. Zone 8 calls for a two-day season, November 12-13, for shotguns only, while Zone 9 in extreme southeastern Minnesota will have a five-day season, November 12-16, open to shotguns only. A part of the southwestern area of the state will be closed to deer hunting during the November season.

Archery hunters may take deer statewide during the month of October, and also in all zones established for the November firearms season.

Last fall Minnesota broke all records when 105,000 deer were harvested, the largest in the history of the state. The record kill was accomplished in spite of the fact that the vast majority of the state's agricultural area was closed to firearms deer hunting. Some 200,632 firearms hunters and 11,869 archers took to the woods last fall under nearly ideal conditions. Gun hunter success reached a whopping 53 per cent, being one of the highest for any state in the nation. Highest success, 59 per cent, was reported from zone 4 where a nine-day season was held. Only slightly less successful was zone 9 in southeastern Minnesota where hunters enjoyed a 56 per cent success.

Game officials report the deer enjoyed a good winter, with "yarding" kept to a minimum around the state. This marks the fourth consecutive year that deer were treated to a mild winter. Department field men, wardens and game managers, indicate a good fawn crop is showing up.

One discouraging note from the large number of deer, including fawns, being killed on the highways this year. Some wardens report that certain roads in their districts have become "slaughter alleys".

Archery enthusiasts interested in knowing if a December bow season for deer will be established will have to wait. Game officials indicated this information would not be forthcoming until after the close of the November seasons.

PRINCESS KAY of the MILKY WAY CANDIDATES enjoy milk break during the seventh annual statewide contest which was won by Marilyn Christianson, 18, of Freeborn County (standing third from right). Hostesses for the reception, held in Minneapolis prior to coronation of the winner at the Minnesota State Fair, were Mrs. Orville L. Freeman (right), wife of Minnesota's governor, and Mrs. Leonard Harkness, wife of the state 4-H Club leader and 1960 Minnesota June Dairy Month chairwoman. The new Princess Kay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Christianson who operate a 160-acre Grade A dairy farm one and one-half miles west of Corning, Minn. Marilyn represented Region IX in the contest. Men Narrowly Miss Death
Three Strandquist young men narrowly escaped death Saturday morning when a huge potato house under construction at Crystal, N. D., collapsed in a heavy wind storm as the workers were trying desperately to brace the building. Ten carpenters on the ground floor escaped seconds before the entire structure collapsed carrying James Kline, Jerry Blaze and Rudolph Borowicz of Strandquist with it. Kline and Blaze were 35 feet up at the peak of the building when a sudden gust of wind caused the building to collapse sending the two young men flying thru the air landing on the ground floor below surrounded by a mass of broken rafters and boards. Borowicz, standing in a lower position leaped to another building. All three men were immediately rushed to the Grafton hospital where at this writing, James Kline remains in a critical condition wth a compound leg fracture, broken arm and a head concussion while Jerry Blaze was only bruised and shaken up according to the X-rays taken. Several stitches were required to close a shoulder wound on Rudolph Borowiczz but both he and Blaze were released Saturday afternoon. Kline remained at that hospital.

The building is a complete loss and was under construction by a Fargo firm. Rudolph Borowicz is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Borowicz of the Florian community. Jerry Blaze is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blaze and James Kline the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kline. They are in Grafton at their son's bedside. The entire Strandquist community hopes for this young lad's speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Inger Gustafson and Robert of Ashby, Ralph Johnson of Minneapolis, Mrs. Earl Tholka, Carol and Janet of Duluth and Mrs. John Blaze and Lynette had a Gustafson reunion at the Hjalmer Gustafson farm Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blaze and Lynette attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Satre near Grygla on Sunday. Mrs. Satre is a relative of Mrs. Blaze.

In the evening, they drove in to Karlstad to the cemetery where many relatives and friends are at rest. They spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Oftedahl.

BRIGHT

But wherever it shines . . . there are shadows.

Wherever there are golden opportunities there are also sombre tragedies. Some fail to grasp their blessings.

Ours is a nation which guarantees to every child the opportunity for religious training. Yet ours is a nation which smarts under the scourge of a moral disease — juvenile delinquency.

In blessing you with a son or daughter, God has entrusted to you a precious soul. You are required by law to give your child a secular education. But, despite the scourge of delinquency, a free nation must leave to your conscience the question of your child's moral and religious education.

God has blessed America. With a nearby Church ready and eager to provide Christian training for your child, and religious foundation for your family's life — the Sun shines bright. But there are shadows. You must decide!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Mi[illegible]sota Rated Top St[illegible] in Farm Output

Minnesota is still the nation's leading agricultural state, according to a rating system used by the Minnesota Newspaper association.

And Polk, Otter Tail, Stearns and Marshall counties are the leading agricultural counties in the state.

The service lists the first 10 ranking states in each of 26 categories.

Scoring 10 points for each first place and 9 points for second, 8 points for third and so on, Minnesota comes up with 160 points.

Iowa follows with 154 points, California 137, Illinois 112 and Wisconsin 99. Minnesota placed in 23 of 26 categories, followed by Iowa and Illinois with 20 each.

Mercury Soars To 89 Mark in City Friday Afternoon

This Locality Escaped Tornado That Struck N.W. Area Thursday

This has been a week to gladden the hearts of all who like a "little variety" in the weather.

From a low of 49 early Monday morning, the mercury climbed to a high of 89 Friday, enough variety in temperature to suit anyone.

Wednesday night and Thursday morning should have satisfied anyone who likes noise and spectacular lighting effects together with some rain. Sheet and bolt lightning were coupled with loud thunder, strong wind and 0.49 inch of rain.

This area was fortunate to escape the devastating storms which struck close by to the south. Winds were clocked at more than 90 miles an hour at Fargo and Moorhead, tipped over trailers and small buildings, broke large plate glass windows in downtown stores and broke power lines.

Near Nielsville, a tornado roared through a farm leveling a barn and machine shed, then heavily damaging other nearby farms. No injureis were reported, however.

Friday, the temperatures set a new record in Fargo when 99 was recorded. By 9 o'clock in the evening, the mercury had dropped only to 92.

More hot, sticky weather has been forecast for today. In the Thief River Falls area. Warmer today followed by cooler tonight and Sunday have been predicted by the KTRF station. Highs today are expected to be near 90 and lows tonight in the 50's.

Southerly winds of from 15 to 25 miles an hour this morning. High humidity is also predicted for the afternoon.

The "low" early this morning was a muggy 72.

Vocational School to Offer Drafting Course October 3

Experienced Instructor Obtained for New Course, Says Arat Aune, Director

A new course in structural drafting will be offered by the area vocational technical school beginning on October 3, Arat Aune, director, announced today.

Tom O'Gorman of White Bear Lake has been employed as instructor. He has had 30 years of practical experience with some of the leading drafting firms in the Twin Cities.

In building an airplane, a house, a ship or almost any other product, manufacturing and construction firms need detailed plans giving dimensions and specifications for the entire product and each of its parts. The workers who draw these plans are draftsmen. They translate the ideas and calculations of engineers into complete and accurate drawings. These drawings are used by craftsmen in making the desired object.

This 18-month course is open to post-high school men and women. It is intended to train the young people who have an interest and aptitude to become a technician in the drafting field.

There are still a few vacancies in this class. For more information about the course and enrollment procedure, those interested may call the vocational school office.

WED RECENTLY were Miss Diana Krug and Robert F. Armstrong, both of Washington, D. C. Miss Krug is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton M. Jensen of this city. The couple are making their home in Washington.

Granddaughter of Local Couple Wed in Capital

Baskets and altar vases of white chrysanthemums, daisies and gladioli together with white lighted tapers, graced the chancel of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation on Capitol Hill in Washington, D. C. for the wedding of Diana Joyce Krug to Robert Furman Armstrong at two o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Lawrence D. Folkemer officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter John Krug and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton M. Jensen of this city. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Robert Burns Armstrong, Jr., also of Washington, and the late Mr. Armstrong.

The organist, Mrs. Elizabeth Boaz, played the traditional nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, John J. Nordberg as he sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over tulle and taffeta, featuring a scalloped scoop neckline, embellished with opalescent trim, fitted bodice with side tucks, long sleeves coming to a point over her hand and a scalloped bouffant floor length skirt ending in a chapel length train. Her elbow length veil of tulle was attached to a Princess Margaret crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white bride's roses, stephanotis and orchids.

Mrs. Robert Beauregard Riley, III, was her sister's matron of honor. The other attendants were the Misses Ruth Eleanor Armstrong, twin sister of the bridegroom, Alice Bates and Mrs. Max Chron, Jr. Debra Riley was flower girl for her aunt. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids wore identical ballerina length gowns of royal blue with chiffon bodices and cap sleeves with satin skirts and satin bows at the waistline in the back. Their wristlength pearl button gloves and pearl earrings were gifts of the bride. The matron of honor carried a colonial bouquet of deep red roses and the bridesmaids, similar bouquets of deep pink roses. The flower girl wore a dress of Roman blue silk organza over tulle featuring a shirred waist and puff sleeves with a full skirt over a hoop of taffeta.

Richard Parmalee served as best man and the ushers were Walter Foye Krug and Warren John Krug, twin brothers of the bride, Charles John Hoffman, Phillip Kiess and Allan Lau, who all wore white dinner jackets, black trousers, black ties and cummerbunds and white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Krug chose a gown of copenhagen blue on amethyst brocaded satin with matching hat and shoes and shirred white elbow length gloves. Her corsage was of white orchids. Mrs. Armstrong wore a rose beige gown of lace and taffeta with matching accessories and white gloves. Her corsage was of cymbibium orchids.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 200 guests was held on the lawn of the bride's home on the campus of Gaullaudet College where her father is dean of men and her mother is also on the faculty. Dean Elizabeth Benson, Mrs. Lucille Pendell, Miss Margaret Daniels and Miss Lucile Turner, all members of the college faculty, presided at the tables where champagne and fruit punch, fancy sandwiches, tea, cookies, nuts and bridal mints were served. The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and surrounded by pink roses and white garden flowers, was cut by Mrs. Robert Beauregard, Jr. and Miss Lucille Furman, aunt of the bridegroom. Miss Margaret Joan Elstad, daughter of the president of Gallaudet College, was in charge of the guest book.

Among the distinguished guests present were the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and Mrs. Arthur S. Flemming, the Under Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Bertha Adkins, the Honorable and Mrs. Frazier Reams who came from their home in Toledo, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. James Reston, chief of the Washington Bureau of the New York Times. Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who is godmother of the bridegroom and his twin sister, Miss Ruth Eleanor Armstrong, was unable to attend because of the wedding of her grandson John Boettinger which took place that same day.

Mrs. Armstrong is attending George Washington University. Her husband attended American University and served with the Coast Guard.

The bridegroom's mother, who is known professionally as Bess Furman, is on the staff of the Washington Bureau of the New York Times. His father was for many years Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

For their wedding trip to New England the bride chose a dress of copenhagen blue with white accessories and wore an orchid from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return they will reside in Washington.

Earnings from work account for more than 70 percent of U.S. national income, the U.S. Labor Department points out.

Compared to August of the past two years, this year's version was about normal.

The highs were about as high, the lows as low and it was just a little wetter than the same period last year, rainfall totaling 5.35 inches. August is usually the muggiest month of the year and this one was no exception.

The month's high of 92 recorded the 12th and the low of 43 the 14th were not unusual. The average high of 79.7 was within one-tenth of last year's 79.6 and the average low, 57.1, was within a half degree of last year's 56.6.

Highlights of the month's weather were the windy period from the 15th to the 17th and the 2.1 inches of rain which fell the 23rd. Other sizeable rains were the 0.9 inch the 6th and the 0.97 inch the 25th.

Here is a summary of the weather for August.

FOREST PRODUCTS GROW IN VALUE

In the last two years, according to John V. Hoene, executive of the Forest Industries Information Committee, nearly $31,000,000 has been invested in expansion and modernization of the pulp and paper industry in Minnesota. Since the last war more than 3,000 new jobs have been created in this field, bringing last year's total to nearly 9,000 drawing more than $51,000,000 in annual pay. Total value of the 1959 output was $166,792,512, mostly processed or used within the state. Lumber was second of our forest products with a $25½ million value, fuelwood third at nearly $10,000,000, then Christmas trees at more than $7,000,000, followed by posts, match wood, shavings and sawdust, chemical by-products, poles, veneer wood, railroad ties, mining timber, and piling to a total of $219,347,261. Protection of our timber lands seems to pay.

Good Posture Is What You Make It, Doctors Say

Good posture just doesn't happen, advises the Minnesota State Medical Association. Each individual must cultivate habits which will result in proper muscle balance while sitting, standing or in motion.

Gone is the parade ground idea of good posture. "Heads up, shoulders back, chest out, abdomen in" has been replaced with a more functional good posture approach. Included is a medical evaluation of the bory type, physical and mental condition, as well as the environmental and heredity factors of each individual.

Most young persons in good physical and mental health can achieve good posture through systematic physical exercises. Young persons who are posture concious about a condition which does not respond to usual forms of corrective measures are advised to discuss this matter with their physician. He may recommend an orthopedist (a medical doctor who specializes in the corrective treatment of diseases and deformities of bones, muscles and joints).

New Princess Kay VII Is Preparing for Busy Season

Marilyn Christianson of Freeborn County to Make Scores of Appearances

Minnesota's newly-crowned Princess Kay of the Milky Way VII—blond, hazel-eyed Marilyn Christianson—was scheduled to begin the first of her many appearances in state communities this week.

The 5-foot-7, 125-pound Freeborn county girl, who lives between Albert Lea and Austin, was to make her first appearance outside the Twin Cities at New Ulm Tuesday.

Like past Princess Kay, Marilyn began her year's reign as goodwill ambassador for the state's dairy farmers with scores of appearances at the Minnesota State Fair where she received her crown. Marilyn succeeds Betty Jax of Adams who made 603 appearances on behalf of the dairy industry.

Marilyn represented American Dairy Association Region IX in the seventh annual statewide contest which included 1,687 girls. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Christianson who produce Grade "A" milk from 35 head of Holsteins on a 160-acre farm 1½ mils west of Corning. Marilyn's father markets his milk at Red Oak Grove Creamery in Corning.

Marilyn is a 1960 graduate of Austin high school where she sang in the school chorus and claimed Spanish as her favorite subject. She also plays piano, violin and guitar. Her hobbies include sewing, bowling and tennis.

The slender, blond beauty, who is a full-time employee of the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee for the coming year, will represent Minnesota in the American Dairy Princess contest in Chicago late in October.

Besides a regular salary and complete wardrobe, Marilyn wins a $500 college scholarship. She had planned, before winning the Princess Kay title, to enter Austin Junior college this fall.

Attendants to Marilyn, one of whom will become Princess Kay should Marilyn win the American Dairy Princess title, are Mavis Dykema of Raymond, who represented Region V, and Rene Carlson of Carlton, who represented Region II.

Census Bureau to Give Proof of Age

Offers Aid When Birth Records Are Missing

Last year, 845 residents of Minnesota turned to the U. S. Bureau of the Census for help in proving they were born. These persons were among an estimated 30 million Uniter States residents who are without prof of age or birth. The historical records of the Census Bureau provide the only source of this information for most of these 30 million people.

Proof of age or birth is needed today to collect social security and other retirement benefits. It is needed to obtain passports. It is needed to qualify for jobs carrying certain age or citizenship requirements.

Since 1920, the Census Bureau has provided more than three and one-half million persons with copies of their Census records on age, place of birth, citizenship, or kinship. Persons seeking such records of facts about themselves should write to the Personal Census Service Branch, Bureau of the Census, Pittsburg, Kansas, for a Census Records Search Application Form. A fee of $3.00 is charged for a search of not more than two censuses for one person and for one copy of the information found. Expidited searches are up to 30 days, depending upon the backlog of requests and the ease or difficulty in locating the information.

The personal information in the records of the 1900 and later Censuses is confidential by law and may be furnished only upon the written request of the person to whom it relates or, for a proper purpose, a legal representative such as guardian or administrator of an estate. Information regarding a child who has not reached legal age may be obtained upon the written request of either parent.

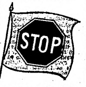
NAVY recruiter CPO Doug Richardson, left, welcomes a new recruiter, CPO Norman Capistran, right, to the area. Richardson, who has been here since April, 1958, was scheduled for transfer to the fleet reserve (retirement) in November, but has accepted the request to remain here for another year. Capistran, who was born and raised in the Crookston area, came here from the U.S. naval air station at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where he served over three years. A revision of the area assignment to the Thief River Falls branch station has created a new billet for the additional Navy recruiter.



GIVE THE KIDS A BRAKE
Youngsters take their school patrol job seriously. So should you, for there has never been a fatal accident at a School Patrol crossing since the program began—right here in Minnesota—nearly forty years ago.
Cathedral School in St. Paul started the idea in 1921. Minnesota's American Legionnaires and the State Highway Department saw its potential and promoted more patrols throughout the nation. Today it is one of America's most important and effective traffic safety efforts.
The youngsters serve entirely without compensation, except for such rewards as the Legionville School Patrol Training Camp near Brainerd. This $225,000 camp is the only one of its kind—built and maintained by Legionnaires and Auxiliary members to train children in safety, citizenship and Americanism, and provide a reward for a good job well done.
Help our kids do another good job this year. Keep their record perfect.

Rural Communities Need Self-Analysis Says 'U' Sociologist

What's ahead for the rural community? Will it grow, decline or stay the same?

Each village, town or city must answer these questions for itself, according to George Donohue, extension rural sociologist at the University of Minnesota.

He says communities needn't sit back and be run over by the "steam roller of social change." They can determine their own destiny, if they'll make a careful self-analysis of ther interests, goals on which local people agree and steps needed to reach these goals.

However, Donohue has this warning: Communities without carefully defined goals and values may continue, as many have, as loose coalitions of splintered interests, buffeted about by population and economic changes.

The challenge is clear. It's up to citizens and community leaders.

So far, Donohue feels, the challenge hasn't been accepted in enough communities. Too often, they are content to drift along with social change and time must be spent by individuals and community groups reflecting on where they want to go and why.

In general, communities of under a thousand people in the past 20 years—except for unique cases—have tended to stand still or decline. Some have disappeared.

Communities with between 1,000 and 2,000 people, however, may expect to grow into more complex centers or go the way of smaller ones. Still larger centers are even more likely to survive.

In spite of the growth in national population, rural communities as a whole in Minnesota, have changed little, with the major population increases occurring around big cities. That pattern of growth will probably continue through 1960.

Therefore, rural communities can't quietly wait for more people. According to current predictions, agriculture is the one industry that will see a decline in employment potential. But Donohue says this decline still doesn't mean a hopeless case for rural centers struggling to keep their people.

Partly offsetting the drop in numbers of full-time farmers is an increase in rural home owners and part-time farmers. Most of the second two groups work in service-type businesses, which will probably grow much faster than agriculture and other production industries.

The U. S. Department of Labor predicts that by 1970, about 10 million persons in the nation will be employed in service occupations, compared to about 5 million in agricuture. Back in 1954, both occupations had about the same number of people—about 7 million each.

This trend is important to rural communities—most of which sell services rather than produce goods. Now, the increased size and efficiency of farms has brought a need for even more services. More people are needed to store, process and distribute farm products.

Woman Injured in Rear-end Collision

Mrs. Leyden Released from Hospital Friday

A rear-end collision between a station wagon and pick-up truck Thursday sent a local woman to Northwestern Hospital with a slight back injury and bruises, caused about $255 damages to the vehicles involved and resulted in one of the drivers being tagged for following another vehicle too closely.

The crash occurred at Sixth st. and Main av. when the pick-up driven by Ed Leyden stopped behind a car which was waiting for oncoming traffic to clear before making a left turn.

Leyden's truck was struck in the rear by a station wagon owned by the Red Lake REA Co-op and driven by Vincent A. Schmitz, Red Lake Falls. The occupants of the pick-up received a vicious jolt from the impact and Mrs. Mabel Leyden was taken to Northwestern Hospital by Sinding ambulance. She was released Friday afternoon. Leyden also sustained bruises.

Schmitz was tagged by police for following another vehicle too closely. Damage to the station wagon was estimated at $235, to the Leyden pick-up, about $30.

Rain Delays Harvest, Aids Corn in Soo Area

Alexandria to Thief River Falls

Moisture conditions on this subdivision are very good. Prospects for corn, soybeans, flax and forage crops have brightened after this rain and if sunny, warm weather prevails, an average corn, soybean and flax crop will be realized. Ground is now in good condition and farmers are occupied with fall plowing. Average yields from the primary crops are durum and hard wheat, 32, barley, 43, oats, 53 bushels to the acre.

Newfolden to Orleans

The weather this past week was generally unfavorable for harvesting due to frequent rains, which were of benefit to the potatoes and flax but lowered the quality of unthreshed grains. The potato crop looks very good at this time and if favorable weather prevails farmers will begin digging in several weeks. This week's threshing reports show durum and hard wheat, 27, barley, 37, oats, 44 bushels per acre.

Viking to Rolette, N. D.

Top and subsoil moisture conditions are very good on this subdivision and with this additional moisture, the potatoes and sugar beets are looking very good. Better than average yields of these crops is expected with the flax crop coming along favorably also. Threshing was slowed down due to the rainfall but by next week, harvesting of small grains should be completed, with the current averages per acre being durum and hard wheat, 23, barley, 28, oats 35.

Overly to Norma, N. D.

Harvesting was brought to a virtual standstill this past week due to the rainfall but the moisture was very helpful to the flax plus conditioning the ground for fall tilling. Flax prospects remain fair to good at this time. Harvesting is from 75 to 90 per cent completed with indicated yields as follows: Durum and hard wheat, 24, barley, 33 bushels per acre.

Dahlen to Orrin, N. D.

Flax, which is filling and ripening, is expected to yield a fair return this season after the greatly needed rain was received. This rainfall hampered harvest operations with 10 to 15 per cent of the crops remaining yet to be threshed. Yields average durum and hard wheat, 25, barley, 26, and oats, 35 bushels per acre. Farmers are now beginning their fall cultivating operations.

General

Moderate to heavy rains over the entire Winnipeg Division during the past week delayed harvesting operations for several days. This rain was very beneficial for late flax and for sugar beets, potatoes, corn and soybeans and softened the ground, enabling farmers to proceed with fall plowing. Prospects for sugar beets and potatoes are good, soybeans and flax, fair to good, corn, fair. Threshing, except for flax, could be practically completed in about a week if fair, dry weather is received.

Summer Pruning

Pruning is a year-round problem in most gardens. In order to have a well groomed garden with shapely, well formed shrubs, it is necessary to do some pruning at almost all times of the year. Usually during the early fall there is more time for this kind of activity than during the spring when planting is in progress.

Almost all shade trees can be pruned during late summer. Examine the young shade trees for poor crotches, disease or insect-infested areas and for branches that result in poor shape of the tree. These should be carefully removed. When making heavy cuts on trees, use a wound compound in order to protect the wound against rot organisms which might later cause a problem in the tree. Most hardware stores where pruning equipment is sold will also have pruning compounds.

The shape of many flowering shrubs has become undesirable because of new growth. Pruning will help to correct this condition. All shrubs which do not flower can also be pruned now. Ninebark, Cistina sand cherry, flowering plum, buckthorn, sumac and alpine currant all can be pruned at this time to improve their beauty.

Ornamental trees or shrubs which produce heavy fruit often benefit by pruning of the fruiting heads or berries, unless of course, the fruit is a significant part of the beauty of the shrub.

Evergreens should not be pruned any more this season. They should be pruned during the early spring. Japanese yew, junipers and American arborvitae, can be pruned until August 15.

GATZKE...

Editorials . . .

"Years ago as a young lad I was helping an old man build a section of wall on a sidehill slope of a farmyard. For almost two centuries Old Ben's family had been famous dry-wall builders. Old Ben was the last of the line. We had dug the trench wide and deep, three feet or more, so that the big foundation stones would be belowe the frostline. Slowly the wall rose. The old man was very particular about each rock and chinking piece. To an impatient lad the old craftsman was unconscionably slow. The idea of chinking rocks below the soil surface was particularly irksome. "Who's going to know if these are chinked or not?" was a boy's question. The old man's astonishment was genuine as he peered over his spectacles. 'Why,' he said, 'I will—and so will you.' "

We Like Beef

According to department of agriculture estimates, the average American this year will eat 84.5 pounds of beef. Since 1953 the per capita beef consumption has averaged 82 pounds a year, an increase of 31 per cent from the 62.4 average of the preceding eight years. This rate was almost 26 pounds a person more than in the 1937 thru 1944 period.

Considering the fact that our area has a high beef producing potential, these figures are certainly encouraging. It takes quite a while to mature a crop of sirloin steaks and they tell us that beef production isn't an exciting operation on a side-line basis. Turkeys and lambs bring a faster turnover. But for the fellow who has the know-how and patience, a herd of mortgage-free beef cattle is a fairly dependable source of income.

As the population increases and the average per capita beef consumption goes up year by year, it would seem that beef cattle fit neatly into the future agricultural economy of this area.

Who Pays The Taxes?

There is a great deal of truth in the following editorial from the August issue of the Midland Cooperator in answer to a question asked by the Minneapolis Star as to "Who'll pay the taxes if all corporations should become cooperatives?" Says the Cooperator:

"The answer is quite simple. Taxes would be paid by the same people who pay them now—all citizens who have incomes. Corporations don't pay taxes. They simply collect them from their customers.

"Most cooperative leaders agree that a tax on corporations is not fair. The individual progressive income tax does a much better job of colleing tax money from those who best can afford to pay. And a corporation tax on top of the individual tax is definitely double taxation.

"If no corporations paid income tax, that wouldn't mean that the government would have to close up shop. Some of us might squawk a lot more about the taxes we have to pay if we were made aware of what we are actually paying indirectly through corporation taxes now. But that might be a good thing. We might give more attention to how the government is being run and what is being done with our money."

There is justification for a tax on corporation profits that are not distributed as dividends, just as there is justification for a tax on the profits of cooperatives that are not distributed to patrons. But, as the Cooperator points out, there is no justification for double taxation and we would all benefit by a more realistic and more equitable solution for this tax problem. Income taxes on corporations, partnerships and cooperatives should be basically the same.

And it would be in the interests of good government if more people realized, as the Cooperator points out, that taxes on business, generally, must be passed along to the consumers. In most instances the business that is taxed merely acts as a tax-collecting agency for the government.

The tax spenders would be less popular if more people were aware of the large contributions they were being called upon to make in the form of hidden taxes for the support of government programs that have doubtful value.

Never More Than One

In the September Rotarian, Philip Wylie tells why he believes there will be no all-out war. Wylie is a top-ranking author whose contributions appear in several of our leading magazines and he has enough of a background in science to deal with the problems of a nuclear war intelligently. His report makes interesting reading.

He bases his conclusion that there will not be an all-out war on the probability that an all-out, nuclear war would be suicidal. He states that:

"An all-out war, with the 'megaton' fission-fusion-fission weapons now possessed in numbers by the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. would bring about the eventual slaughter of nine-tenths or more of all the people who live in the North Temperate Zone."

We wish we could be as certain as he is that a general realization that such a war would be suicidal would in itself keep us from committing suicide. We are are sure that a recognition of the complete futility of such a war would deter rational men from starting one, but wars are not started by rational men. There is always the possibility that a Khrushchev, in a fit of anger, would fire that first shot. And we should not overlook the fact that wars have been started accidentally.

In his description of the chaos that would come with an all-out war Mr. Wylie does make some logical observations on the inadequacies of our civil defense program. The program is inadequate, he thinks, because there can be no adequate defense against an H-bomb attack. He says:

"American military men have openly given the U.S. Congress an estimate that a first H-bomb assault on the U.S.S.R. would eventually kill most of the people in the Soviet Union, Siberia included, and a high percentage of people in Japan as well, perhaps, as in the Philippines. Any Soviet assault on the U.S.A. would have comparable results, whatever precautions the people of the U.S.A. had taken. And the nature and history of mankind at war strongly suggests that, after any such initial assault, both sides would be driven into a frenzy so savage that the H-bombing would go on until the last person with a bomb to "deliver" had delivered it on the enemy—even if he had to do it by running the weapon up a bay in a pleasure cruiser and going up, himself, with its detonation."

This is not a pleasant prospect but, as Mr. Wylie suggests, the sooner these facts are recognized thruout the world the better chance we will have of getting general support for preventive measures. Mr. Wylie may not be right when he says thre never will be an all-out war. We may be sure there will never be more than one.

Mexico Isn't Wavering

(Cincinnati Post and Times Star)

Americans will be heartened to know that our Mexican neighbors are not going 100 per cent down the line for Cuba's Castro and all he represents—or misrepresents.

There is sympathy in Mexico for some aspects of the Cuban revolution, the Mexican ambassador to the United States said in a speech at the University of Nebraska. But his country will not follow Cuba into Communism, said Antonio Carrillo-Flores.

The ambassador cited one economic fact alone to put the situation into the right perspective. He said Mexico had attained its economic progress by trading with the free world, while trade with Communist countries amounted to less than 1 per cent of Mexico's international transactions. So here is one neighbor not likely to be baited into political or any other significant deals with the Communist world.

Smartest Kind of Politics

(Wall Street Journal)

One of the things that puzzles many people about President Eisenhower is that he doesn't seem to be a "smart" politician and yet he not only gets elected in landslides but now is ending his term as admired as when he began.

Perhaps there's one small clue to the mystery in his press conference the other day. He was asked by a reporter, mindful of some political maneuvers in the past, whether he would recall Congress in special session before November if Congress didn't act on his 21-point program.

To which the President replied by asking, "If Congress doesn't want to act now, what would be the point in bringing them back?" And he observed that it is an unwise thing to call Congress into special sessions "unless actual emergency demands it."

In short, Mr. Eisenhower gave no thought to the opportunity for "smart" politics to embarrass the Democrats in Congress even further. He answered the question by measuring it against what he thought was wise or unwise for the country. And though that may puzzle some people, it's the smartest kind of politics there is.

Not a Trouble-Maker?

(Sleepy Eye Herald-Dispatch)

"I don't believe he would do such a thing unless he was antagonized" was the statement of a juvenile officer at Mankato to whom had been referred a 12-year-old who pulled two knives on lifeguards when they attempted to escort him from a swimming pool and locker room.

The lad still had the lifeguards backed up against the wall when police arrived. It was said he had been asked to leave because he had been fighting in the pool.

The juvenile authority was quoted as saying the youth "is not a trouble maker."

From this distance, perhaps it isn't fair to pass judgment either on the boy or the juvenile authority, but snap judgment would indicate that the "authority" should be given a different kind of job and the 12-year-old should be taken across his father's knee and paddled until he found it difficult to sit down.

If a boy who carries two knives and gives evidence of being willing to use them isn't a "troublemaker" who is?

Top Secrets By The Million

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The Pentagon certainly is stepping up its speed in stacking up secret papers, if there is anything to a house government information subcommittee report.

Chairman Moss has found that a million-cubic-foot stockpile of classified documents has been created since World War II. This is three times as much as that created from the inception of the system in 1907 until 1946.

It is at least consoling to think what a terrible time a brigade of the brawniest and brainiest spies would have trying to sort out and make off with the really important papers in this Pentagon storage bin.

Cancer Institute Slated Sept. 13-15

Fourth Annual Meeting to Be on 'U' M. Campus

A former dean of the University Medical School today hailed the Four national cancer conference to be held in Minneapolis September 13, 14 and 15, as, "an important milestone on the road to cancer control."

Dr. Harold S. Diehl of New York City, senior vice president of the American Cancer society, said the affair, jointly sponsored by the National Cancer Institute of the U.S. Public Health Service and the American Cancer Society, "can well assess the direction which cancer control will take in the coming years."

"There is no sure or quick way to solve the cancer problem," Dr. Diehl said, "but we have, however, definite evidence of progress in the increasing number of lives saved from this disease."

"Four years ago, a similar meeting (the Third National Cancer Conference) in Detroit resulted in a new look at statistical findings that eventually showed that the cure rate among cancer patients had risen from 25 to about 33 per cent, so that now we can say that one in three who get cancer is saved. Previously, it was one in four."

The conference, which will be held at the University of Minnesota, will attract more than 2,000 doctors. About 100 scientists and clinicians from this nation and abroad will present a wide range of subjects for discussion.

Grain Reserves to Go up in East

To Be Stored in Idle Ships on Atlantic Coast

Stocks of government - owned grain in states along the Eastern Seaboard will be increased materially as part of the overall program of developing civil defense readiness, the Department of Agriculture has announced.

Wheat in idle maritime ships at anchorages in the Hudson and James rivers will be at least doubled—from 7.4 million bushels in the Hudson River and 7.3 million bushels in the James River to 15 million bushels or more at each anchorage. In addition, stocks of CCC food and feed grain in commercial stocks at less vulnerable locations in the Eastern states will be increased by about 5 million bushels.

Officials point out that the action is in line with the policy of giving consideration to possible civil defense need in positioning CCC food stocks. The supplies would be available for emergency use in the heavily population areas from New England south along the Atlantic coast. Additional food and feed grains have previously been stored in the northeastern part of the United States.

At the peak of storage shortages in 1955, a little more than 22 million bushels of CCC-owned wheat were stored in idle maritime ships in the Hudson River and more than 25 million bushels in the Jama River. More recently normal space has been adequate to handle storage needs, and less dependence has been placed on supplemental ship facilities. The department's large stocks of surplus food and feed grains are scattered throughout the country in some 10,000 commercial warehouses and a large number of government-owned special bins, with the heaviest concentrations in or near regions of major grain production.

MABEL STEAM DAYS BRING PAST TO LIFE

One of the more dramatic and nostalgic touches of "the good old days" is coming back to the lovely little southeastern Minnesota town of Mabel September 9-10-11, prosaically titled Steam Engine Days. Some of our most prized historic pictures show fat greasy steel giants belching forth tangy wood and straw smoke as they make grain separators hum, circular saws sing, well pumps chug and slurp. At Mabel a number of these "relics" will come to life and perform as they did for our frontier ancestors, threshing grain, sawing logs, and proving useful as well as spectacular. "An hour south of Rochester," says the publicity, and it might add "a century back of now." There'll be a carnival, dance, fireworks, campaign oratory, and lots of good old-fashioned picnic food at Mabel on September 9-10-11.

Nixon to Speak at UND September 14

To Give Afternoon Talk in Field House at G. Forks

Residents of Pennington county are invited to hear Vice President Richard Nixon speak at the University of North Dakota Wednesday, Sept. 14, according to Dr. George W. Starcher, UND president.

Nixon will give an afternoon address in the field house on the university campus in Grand Forks. His appearance is the result of invitations the University extended to the presidential nominees of both major parties.

The headquarters of Sen John F. Kennedy, Democratic nominee, has indicated that the Massachusetts senator is interested in making an appearance if suitable arrangements can be fited into his campaign schedule.

Nixon will appear under the joint sponsorship of UND and the Republican State Central Committee. Arley Bjella of Williston, state chairman said, "We are delighted to participate with the University in the event. We hope the Democrats will also take advantage of the opportunity to appear."

Dr. Starcher emphasized that the speech will be open to the entire public. There will be no admission charge. The University Fieldhouse, which seats upwards of 8,500, is the largest auditorium facility in the state.

"Considering education's significant role in the democratic structure, the University platform is an appropriate place for political opponents to discuss the issues of the day," said Dr. Starcher.

Mrs. Nixon will accompany her husband.

Captains, Ready?

That will be the query of referee Andy Carey and umpire Warren Johnson as they whistle the 1960 football season into action on the Lincoln high school athletic field on Monday night as the Prowlers meet the Warren Ponies.

In last season's game between the two teams, played on the Warren field, the Prowlers jumped into an early lead, scoring a pair of touchdowns in the first period, and another pair in the second period to take a 26 to 0 lead at the intermission. The Prowlers won the game by a 32 to 0 margin.

But of that sturdy group of winning Prowlers, only left halfback Gary Klungness and ends Ron Hanson and Don Ulferts are the returning starters. Such boys as Dale Wennberg, Arlan Hjelle, Pete Iverson, Wes Halvorson, Jim Wegge, Dennis Pederson, Jeff Hartje, and Darrell Nelson, starters last season, have been graduated. The Ponies, meanwhile, lost only four players through graduation — Terry Black, Ned Munger, Bill Gilbert, and Bill Peterson. So it appears that Irv Behsman, who is resuming the coaching duties at Warren after a year's absence, will have an advantage over Prowler coach Joe Mrkonich as far as veteran material is concerned.

But if the Ponies are to be successful Monday night they will have to put up a defense that will stop such Prowler backfield speedsters as Gary and Paul Klungness, Lloyd Ranum, Gary Anderson, and Eddie Lietzow, the boys who will be filling the Prowler backfield positions. We doubt if the Ponies will be able to defense the Prowlers.

And if Warren should succeed in marking up a win over the locals it will be the first time since the 1924 season that the Ponies have defeated the Prowlers on the gridiron. In that 1924 season (and we won't recite the Prowler lineup for that game as several of the "boys" are active around town and the facts of that 20 to 0 score would be embarrassing) the Ponies had a Mally Anderson in their backfield, and this chunky fast-running halfback scooted for three touchdowns.

Since that dark and dreary day in October (it was dark and dreary, wasn't it, Cliff?) the Prowlers have rolled up a string of 21 consecutive triumphs. And most of these wins have found the Prowlers running up scores in double digits. Let's hope that the Prowlers continue that double-digit scoring on Monday.

The First

We learn from Ralp Anderson's widely-read column in the Detroit Lakes Tribune, "Standing By In Sports", that the Detroit Lakes Lakers and the Prowler basketball teams will play a preliminary game in the Williams arena on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis on Saturday night, Jan. 14, 1951. The game, between the two highly regarded teams, will be a preliminary to the Minnesota vs. Purdue Big Ten tilt.

It will mark the first time that a Prowler cage team has played in a preliminary game on the Minnesota basketball schedule. And the game should be first-rate, as the two teams are rated as regional contenders in their respective regions, the Prowlers in Region Eight and the Lakers in Region Six.

The basketball series between the Prowlers and the Lakers began back in the 1939-40 season, with the Prowlers scoring a 24 to 22 win. Since that time, the two teams have played 18 games, with the usual procedure being on a one-game-a-season basis (except for the 1946-47 season when the clubs met in a home-and-home series), and in this series of games the results have been in favor of the Lakers by a two-to-one margin. Detroit Lakes has won 12 games and lost six.

Ralp mentions that Prowler vs. Lakers game of the 1951-52 season, which was won by the Lakers, 47 to 46, on a last second basket by Curt Huska. We recall that game vividly, and remember that the Prowlers made a vigorous protest, claiming that the Detroit Lakes timer, in the excitement of the final seconds, stopped the clock on an out-of-bounds play. But the records show that the Lakers won, and that's what the historians will note as they read the athletic records of the two schools.

We are surely glad that the two schools have resumed their basketball rivalry.

The Softball Playoffs

The Hamm's Beer and the Hartz Stores softball teams will resume their championship finals on Tuesday evening on the East Side diamond. The two teams played four innings of softball on Thursday evening, and with the score tied at 4-all it was decided to suspend play because of darkness. The two teams will resume play with the score tied at 1-all, and will begin the game as of the fifth inning. Should the Hamm's squad win the game, the series will be concluded, with the Hamm's the winners of the playoffs. Should the Hartz win the game, another game will be necessary in the double-elimination series, and that game will be played Tuesday evening.

On Thursday evening, in a three-inning game, the Hartz Stores, by a 3 to 1 score, edged out the Bridgeman's to eliminate the Bridgeman's from the playoffs. The two teams had had their Wednesday evening's game called because of darkness.

Twin Valley vs. Fosston

Stan Otness' Fosston team surprised an over-confident Fertile team in a Region 2B baseball tournament game at Ada on Thursday night, winning by a 6 to 5 score. The defeat took the Fertile team out of the playoffs, and moved Fosston into the finals against the unbeaten Twin Valley team.

Fosston will play Twin Valley tonight, Saturday, on the Ada diamond, with game time at 8 p.m. According to present plans, Arlan Hjelle, righthander drafted from the Thieves, will be given the hurling assignment for Fosston.

Good Rural Roads Object of Drive

Highway Group Appoints Orlin Folwick Director

Appointment of Orlin Folwick of Edina, former Twin Cities newspaperman and public relations counsel, as executive director of Minnesota Good Roads, Inc., was announced today by Elmer V. Erickson of Cambridge, president.

Folwick succeeds John H. Mullen of St. Paul, who will become the organization's director of highway development.

Erickson, president of the Cambridge State Bank, said Minnesota Good Roads, Inc., is embarking on a new effort to spur improvement of rural highways.

"Minnesota today stands in need of much highway construction for its farm-to-market, commercial cargo and touring requirements," Erickson said. "The rural areas are insisting on better roads. Hauling of farm commodities is hindered by lack of highway facilities. A great many of our highways carrying pleasure vehicles and tourists to our vacation areas are congested and, in some cases, actually dangerous. Rural highway service is vitally needed."

Folwick, active in the newspaper field on the old Minneapolis Star and Minneapolis Tribune and assistant director of the Northwest regional office of War Information during World War II, has since been public relations counsel for business and labor groups in Minnesota and California and recently has handled public relations in state tax reform efforts.

The purebred ram sale scheduled for Monday, Sept. 12, will be held in the new livestock pavilion at the fair grounds at Thief River Falls. Consigned for the sale are over 40 high quality rams in four breeds. They are Hampshire, Suffolk, Shropshire and Columbia.

The sale will start at 1 p.m. It will be preceded by judging of the rams in the morning. Any rams not meeting the high standard for rams set by the directors will be culled out by the judges.

Judging the rams will be Carl Spong, Central Livestock assn., and Oscar Nelson, county agent at Mahnomen.

A banquet for the consignors will be held Sunday evening at the American Legion club in Thief River Falls.

The ram sale this year has been shifted to September 12 instead of early October. This move was to accommodate breeders who are planning for earlier lambing, a current trend in sheep production to capitalize on the stronger spring and summer lamb prices.

The ram sale has generally contributed to the improvement of the sheep industry in northwestern Minnesota. It has aided in dispersing good breeding stock and in raising the quality of sheep through careful selection of the rams consigned.

Among the rams to be sold at the sale are: Four Shropshire rams consigned by Lehart Stock, Goodridge, sired by champion ram at the English Royal Show in England in 1951 and now in service at the University of Wisconsin. Also included are several Columbia rams consigned by Gordon Clow, Lancaster, which sheared 17 and 18 pounds of wool and placed first and second at Crookston Winter Shows.

A Suffolk ram consigned by Bredeson Farms of Hawley was first place ram lamb and reserve champion at the 1959 state fair FFA show. This ram was also first place ram lamb and reserve champion at the 1960 Crookston Winter Shows. Norman Anderson of Middle River has consigned the first place yearling Hampshire ram at the Pennington and Marshall county fairs. Both rams consigned by Anderson were aired by the second place Hampshire ram at the 1958 National Corn Belt Sale.

This the 12th anniversary of the purebred ram sale.

57 Less Pupils in TRF Schools on Opening Day

1,076 Registered in Jr.-Sr. High School and 1,334 in Grades

First day enrollment Tuesday in the Thief River Falls public schools and area vocational school aggregated 2,585, Supt. Marshall Hankerson announced yesterday. A check of the Times files reveals that the first day enrollment in 1959 was 2,642 or 57 more than this year, while in 1958 the total was 2,558 and in 1957 was 2,378.

Enrollment Tuesday in Lincoln junior-senior high school was 1,076, six fewer than 1,082 registered a year ago, while the number attending the elementary schools dropped from 1,358 in 1959 to 1,334 this year; and vocation school students numbered 175 this year compared to 201 at the start of the 1959 term.

Of the grade schools, the Knox school has by far the largest enrollment, 523, including two sixth grade classes housed in the National Guard Armory. Northrop school Tuesday had 407 pupils, and Washington, 404.

Opening day enrollment by grades in Lincoln junior-senior high school was: Seventh grade, 182; eighth, 182; ninth, 199; tenth 174; eleventh, 182; and twelfth, 157. Mr. Hankerson reported that junior high school facilities are particularly cramped, and that it has been necessary to take over some senior high school space.

The Goodridge schools opened Monday of last week, and Supt. David Brown stated that there were 230 high school students, an increase of about 15 over last year, while elementary enrollment was 140, a decrease of eight from 1959.

Election Featured by Congress and Legislative Races

A primary election campaign featured by lively contests for the two posts of state representative from the 65th district, and for the DFL nomination for Ninth district congressman will come to a close on Election Day next Tuesday, September 13.

Polls in Thief River Falls and the Town of North will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., while in all other precincts they will open at 9 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Residents of Thief River Falls are reminded that this year for the first time voters in each of the five wards will have a separate polling place, instead of all wards voting at the city Auditorium as in past years.

First ward voters will cast their ballots at the Northrop school; second ward, Masonic Temple; third ward, city Auditorium; fourth ward, Knox school; and fifth ward, St. John's Lutheran church. The dividing lines between the various wards were shown on a chart in Monday's Times.

Candidates for the state legislature from the 65th district, all of whom have campaigned energetically, include Victor Aalbu, Gonvick; Irving W. Beyer, Red Lake Falls; L. J. Lee of Bagley; Dave Ostby of Plummer; and Ben Wichterman, incumbent, also of Plummer. One of the five will be eliminated in the primaries, leaving four candidates to fight it out in the November election.

Another interesting contest is that for the DFL nomination for congressman, in which Roy Wiseth of Goodridge, who has his party's endorsement, is opposed by Coya Knutson of Oklee, who was defeated for reelection by Rep. Odin Langen of Kennedy in 1958.

Unopposed for DFL nominations are U. S. Senator Hubert Humphrey, Lieutenant Governor Karl Rolvaag, Secretary of State Joseph Donovan and Attorney General Walter Mondale. Governor Orville Freeman is opposed by Belmont Tudisco; while Conrad Hammar and Bill Kjeldahl are seeking the DFL nomination for the office of state treasurer, now held by Val Bjornson, GOP, who is unopposed.

Mayor P. Kenneth Peterson of Minneapolis, seeking the GOP nomination for U. S. senator, is opposed by James M. Williams, while Elmer L. Andersen is the only GOP candidate for the nomination for governor.

Five candidates are in the field for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, including G. Howard Spaeth, Art Ogle, Russell H. Underdahl, Hursel O. Kallestad and John C. Peterson. Kenneth O'Brien Joyce is unopposed for the nomination for secretary of state, as is Gaylord A. Saetre for attorney general.

Aspirants for the nonpartisan office of chief justice of the supreme court are Roger L. Dell, incumbent; Clifford F. Hanson and E. Luther Melin.

Seeking the DFL nomination for railroad and warehouse commissioner are Hjalmer Petersen, incumbent; and John A. Henderson; while Republican candidates for the post are A. L. Freeberg, Robert M. Johnson and Bernard E. Erickson.

Records Should Be Kept of Lamb Sales, ASC Office States

Required in Connection with Applications for Incentive Payments in '61

Sheep producers who market unshorn lambs this fall should maintain full records on their sales in order to make proper applications for payment next spring under the wool incentive program, county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office manager Patrick W. Culkins pointed out today.

Failure to keep full records in the past has prompted difficulties for producers in obtaining their unshorn lamb payments under the program, the office manager stated. The sales records for lambs sold must include the name of the buyer, his signature, and the number and live weight of lambs sold, plus the description "unshorn."

Lamb feeders who buy lambs should also keep accurate records of all their purchases of unshorn lambs, including dates of purchases and the number and live weight when purchased. Adequate records must be maintained by producers in order for them to certify to the accuracy of the information contained in payment applications. Inadequate reporting of lamb purchases on payment aplications has presented problems in administering the wool program.

Lamb payments are made only on lambs that have never been shorn to encourage the customary practice of selling lambs with the wool on. Lamb payments are made to producers who have owned lambs 30 days or more. The payments are based on the wool incentive payment. The amount paid to each producer is based on the weight gain of lambs during the period of his ownership. Full information is necessary so that each producer can be given his proper share of the payment on a lot of lambs.

Records should be kept in a safe place at home or they may be filed at the couny ASC office for safekeeping. While the final date for making applications under the wool program for the 1960 marketing year is not until April 30, 1961, applications may be submitted any time between now and then.

To Tell of Russian Slave Labor Camp

John Noble to Speak at Tabernacle September 15

John Noble, one of the few Americans ever to return from a Russian slave labor camp, will give his unforgettable experiences when he speaks at Assemblies of God Tabernacle in this city next Thursday, Sept. 15.

Mr. Noble, whose visit is sponsored by evangelical churches of the area and the National Association of Evangelicals, will be accompanied by Rev. Mahlon L. Macy, NAE.'s field director who will introduce him.

John Noble was born in Detroit, Mich., in 1923 and attended schools there until 1938. At that time he accompanied his parents to Germany to study in a photo industry factory while his father was receiving medical treatment.

When World War II broke out the Noble family was put under local internment by Hitler's forces until 1945. As the Soviet Red Army occupied East Germany, the Nobles expected to be liberated, since they were United States citizens, but instead were imprisoned by the Soviets. Later John's parents were released but he was held in the Dresden prison of 14 months, without accusation or explanation, and late in 1946 shipped to concentration camp Muehlberg in East Germany, and then on to notorious Buchenwald.

In 1950 Noble was sentenced, without trial or accusation, to 15 years' imprisonment and was shipped through Poland into the U.S.S.R. For four and a half years he was kept in the infamous arctic slave camp "Vorkuta" working in the coal mines under unspeakable conditions.

Finally, John Noble was able to smuggle out of Russia a postcard which reached his parents in Detroit and resulted in his liberation after personal intervention by President Eisenhower.

1,800 at Old Mill over the Week-end

Many from This City See Old Mill in Operation

Approximately 1,800 persons viewed the operation of Marshall County's Old Mill Sunday and Monday at Old Mill State Park. Largest crowd was on Sunday when about 1,400 entered the park, many of them from Thief River Falls.

Sunday's crowd came in 332 vehicles of which 188 needed Minnesota park stickers to enter. Monday's visitors came in 100 cars of which 54 needed stickers. From this fact and from viewing the register the majority of these at the park for the running of the mill came from outside of Marshall county, according to Park Superintendent Ernie Jewell.

Because of the demand for grain Mr. Jewell has tentatively set another running of the mill, possibly on October 2. Persons wishing grain to be ground should contact him immediately so he knows whether enough grain will be on hand to operate the mill.

Collision at Main and Third Causes $130 Car Damage

Russell Anderson, city, who had been waiting for the light to change to make a left turn onto Main av. from the north, came into collision with LeRoy Stauffenecker, Greenbush, who proceeded north on Main into Anderson's attempted turn after the light changed.

Damage was estimated ta $100 to Anderson's car, $30 to the Stauffenecker vehicle. No tags were issued.

Prowlers Have Hard Time Taking Warren

The football Prowlers were hard-pressed to defeat a veteran Warren eleven, 19 to 14, in a scredule-opening game played on the local field Monday night.

On Friday night, Sept. 9, the Prowlers will play coach Tom Rowlette's Mahnomen Indians at Mahnomen. Friday's game will mark the fourth time that the Prowlers have met the Indians on the gridiron. In the three previous tilts, played in 1924, 1936, and 1937, the Prowlers were the winners, by scores of 56 to 6, 33 to 0, and 12 to 7.

The Prowlers' winning margin in Monday night's game with the Warren Ponies came on a 51-yard touchdown gainer early in the fourth period, giving the locals a 19 to 7 lead. With the ball on the Prowler 49-yard line, quarterback John Aune lofted a pass to towering left end Ron Hanson, and the six-foot eight-inch Prowler gathered in the ball on the Warren 38-yard line and showed surprising speed as he outran the Warren secondary to cross the south goal. The try for the conversion failed, with a fumble marring the play.

Warren gained a 7 to 0 lead in Monday's opener when the Ponies tallied a touchdown and a conversion point in the second period. Gaining possession of the ball on their own 30-yard line, the Ponies, in seventeen plays from scrimmage, rolled up six first downs, and from the Prowler 2-yard line, Milo Monroe sliced over left tackle for the touchdown. Fullback Wayne Edgar added the extra point on a left-tackle plunge.

The Prowlers, accepting the kickoff following the Warren TD, rallied for a touchdown, with Lloyd Ranum taking a handoff from Eddie Lietzow and blasting through right tackle for seven yards and a touchdown. Moving from their own 39-yard line, the Prowlers required but five scrimmage plays to score the TD. The important ground-gaining plays in the sequence were Eddie Lietzow's scampering run of twenty-nine yards on a keeper play. Lietzow's pass to Hanson which was completed for nineteen yords and a first down on the Warren 18-yard line; and Gary Klungness' sweep of right end that carried to the 7-yard stripe. The conversion point following Ranum's TD failed when a pass, Lietzow to Ulferts, was incomplete.

Trailing by a 7 to 6 score entering the fourth period of play, the Prowlers, holding the ball on their own 42-yard line, moved into scoring territory in six plays, with Paul Klungness cutting through right tackle for nineteen yards to cross the south goal and give the Prowlers a 12 to 7 lead. Gary Klungness added the point on a right-end sweep. In the scoring march from the 42-yard line, Gary Klungness, on a lateral, raced to the Warren 43-yard line for a first down, Paul Klungness went through right tackle for a first down on the 27-yard line; three running plays carried to the nineteen, from where Paul Klungness sprinted for the TD.

Warren, following Ron Hanson's touchdown run, trailed by a 19 to 7 score with five minutes to play. Two first downs carried the ball from the Warren 42-yard line to the rPowlers' 34-yard line. A pass completion, Jerry Cook to Duane Yeado, moved the ball to the Prowler 2-yard line. Edgar plunged for yard, and then Monroe cut through left tackle for the touchdown. Edgar rushed the ball across the line for the extra point, paring the Prowlers' lead to five points, 19 to 14.

During the remaining two minutes of the game the Prowlers controlled the ball to "run out the clock."

In the first down department, the two teams were on even basis, with each club rolling up sixteen first downs. Warren outdowned the locals, eleven to seven in the first half; while the Prowlers held an advantage in the second half.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Softball Playoff Champs

Cy Glass' Hamm's Beer softball team won the city softball league double-elimination playoffs by scoring a 2 to 1 win over the city league champion Hartz Stores team on the East Side diamond on Tuesday evening.

The two teams, the finalists in the four-team playoffs, began play in the finals last Thursday evening, but darkness halted the game at the end of four innings of play with the score tied at 1-all.

The game was resumed Tuesday evening, in the fifth inning, with the Hartz team at bat. The two teams, playing a fine brand of softball, moved through the fifth, sixth, and seventh innings without scoring. In the last half of the eighth inning, Glenn Carlson of the Hamm's led off by beating out a slow roller in front of the plate; Fred Dablow lined a single off the second baseman's glove, with Carlson moving around to third base; Rod Collins drew a walk to load the bases; and then Bob Gaarder bunted down the third base line, squeezing in Carlson with the winning run.

It was somewhat of a moral victory for the Hartz Stores team as they forced the heavy-hitting Hamm's squad to resort to bunt-and-run tactics in order to score the winning run.

The Season's First

The season's first hunting stories are being circulated by Ken Wendel and Ralph Helm. The two nimrods returned on Sunday from an antelope and mule deer hunting trip to Wyoming.

The trip, which added 1800 miles to the speedometer of Ken's station wagon, was highly successful, and enjoyable. Ralph filled his antelope and mule deer tags, while Ken bagged an antelope. Ken has a valid mule deer tag, and the latest news is that he is attempting to organize a hunting party for another trip to the Wyoming hunting area.

Stan and Sandy Wilson left on Friday for a Canadian moose hunting expedition, and they should have some interesting stories to tell when they return.

Now Is The Time

Charlie Smith, president of the Thieves senior baseball organization, announced that a year-end meeting will be held at the Eagles hall on Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 8:00 P.M. At this meeting plans will be made for the 1961 season, and financial report of the 1960 season will be made.

President Smith stated that all baseball fans are invited to the meeting. We hope that the Bums baseball organization will have several members in attendance at the meeting. The two teams, the Thieves and the Bums, complement each other and there are a number of reasons why the two groups should work in harmony. Cooperation will make for better senior baseball here, and that's the aim of every baseball fan.

Now is the time to make the plans for next season.

Miscellany

The Twin Valley Twins won the Region 2B baseball title, and a trip to the state tournament at Springfield, when they scored a 6 to 3 win over Fosston in a finals game played at Ada on Saturday night. Arlan Hjelle, the Thieves' righthander, was on the mound for Fosston, and but for some loose defensive play in the sixth inning, when Twin Valley scored five runs, would have turned in a winning effort. Hjelle gave up seven hits, while Fosston tagged lefty Bob Johnson and righthander Chet Dickey for nine hits, one of which was a home run by Dave Carlin. Twin Valley will meet Pipestone in a state tournament game at 8:30 P.M. on Saturday . . . Fred Monroe returned last week from a visit in St. Paul, and while there he attended four of the tournament games of the national Babe Ruth baseball tournament. The Babe Ruth baseball is limited to boys in the 14 to 15-year old classification. Some of the cities that were represented by teams in the tourney were Fresno, Cal.; Lake Charles, Fla.; Anderson, Ind.; Seattle, Wash.; Huntington, W. Va.; Stanford, Conn.; and Charlotte, N. C. The Huntington team won the championship, defeating Charlotte in the finals . . . Arnold (Casey) Stengel, popular coach of the Plummer Cardinals for the past several seasons, will be coach at Herman this season . . . An interested spectator at Monday night's Prowler vs. Warren football game here was John Lindenmeyer of Lancaster, Pa. John was football and basketball coach of the Prowlers from 1938 to 1941 and again, after service in World War II, in 1946 and 1947. John is an ROTC instructor in a boy's school in Lancaster.

Lions Challenged to Golf by Rotary

Deanna Burtness Gives Safety Demonstration

Jarvis Prichard, Rotary club president, invaded the Lions den Wednesday to issue a challenge for the annual inter-club golf tourney, at which Rotarians will be hosts. The Lions accepted with alacrity, and the match was set for Monday evening, September 19.

Deanna Burtness, member of the Silverton 4-H club, accompanied by Lloyd Johnson, adult leader, was a guest at the Lions luncheon, and she repeated the traffic safety demonstration she had given last week at the Minnesota state fair. She was introduced by Dr. Herbert Achenbach.

Dan Illies, manager of the municipal airport, was presented by Dr. Leo Herber, and he showed a sound motion picture descriptive of the great progress made during the past 40 years in the aviation industry.

More Ducks, Geese at Mud Lake in '60

Breeding Population up 21 Pct., Says Herb Dill

Again this year numbers of ducks and geese have increased at the Mud Lake national wildlife refuge, states Herbert H. Dill, refuge manager. Food and water were abundant during the spring migration. This resulted in attracing greater numbers of waterfowl than last year's record population.

Dill states that the breeding population of all species of ducks increased 21 per cent. Diving ducks, which include the redhead and canvasback, increased 26 per cent. Production has been excellent, exceeding last year's by at least 44 per cent.

Canada geese have also done well. It is estimated that 160 young were fledged this year as compared to a little over 100 last year.

Dill explained that intensive management of the refuge has resulted in vastly improved habitat. This has contributed to the attractiveness of the area for ducks.

Crookston Diocese Sets Golden Jubilee Next Sunday. Sept. 11

Plans are now nearing completion for the celebration of the golden jubilee of the Diocese of Crookston with special parish observances throughout the diocese on Sunday, Sept. 11, and with a Pontifical High Mass to be offered in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in Crookston Monday, Sept. 12.

A letter from the ordinary of the Diocese, Bishop Laurence A. Glenn, will be read in the parish churches at all the Masses on Sunday, Sept. 11, calling for renewed efforts on the part of all the faithful of the Diocese to maintain continued growth in the next 50 years.

Other arrangements for local observances have been left up to the individual parishes and religious orders, and it is expected that the individual parish contribution to the 50-year diocesan history will be reviewed by the respective pastors.

On the following morning, Bishop Glenn will offer a pontifical High Mass in the presence of Archbishop William O. Brady, metropolitan of the Province of St. Paul, and 12 other members of the hierarchy from neighboring diocese.

Monsignor James Shannon, president of St. Thomas college at St. Paul, will deliver the sermon at the jubilee Mass which will be attended by all the priests and religious of the diocese.

Catholic schools throughout the diocese will be dismissed, Sept. 12, to allow the priests and teaching sisters to be present for the jubilee Mass.

Immediately following the Mass a luncheon will be served the priests and visiting dignitaries at the Eagles Hall in Crookston. A group of ladies from the local Crookston parishes, under the direction of Mrs. Ed Caller and Mrs. Orris Olson, will serve the meal.

Archbishop Brady and Archbishop Maurice Baudoux of St. Boniface, Man., will head the list of visiting dignitaries.

Other bishops include Bishop Peter W. Bartholome, St. Cloud; Bishop Edward A. Fitzgerald, Winona; Bishop Francis J. Schenk, Duluth; Bishop Leo F. Dworschk, Fargo; Bishop Lambert A. Hoch, Sioux Falls, S. D.; Bishop Hilary B. Hacker, Bismarck, N. D.; Bishop Alphonse Schladweiler, New Ulm; and Bishop Leonard Cowley, auxiliary bishop of St. Paul.

Abbots attending will be Abbo Baldwin Dworschak, O.S.B., Collegeville, Minn.; Abbot Ignatius Hunkler, O.S.B., Richardton, N. D.; and Abbot Gilbert Hess, O. S.B., Marvin, S. D.

Pheasant Outlook Better This Year

To Be Average for Past Ten Years, Says Kimball

Despite a wet spring in most of the pheasant range, the conservation department's director of game and fish, James W. Kimball, said today that pheasant hunting prospects this fall appear as good or slightly better than in 1959 and about average for the past ten years. This was revealed recently by the recently completed August brood counts which were run in 62 counties by game managers, wardens and biologists. A total of 3,800 miles of census routes was run.

Counts this month revealed that nesting success improved sufficiently so that total production of young was actually higher than in 1959, despite the reduced number of breeders this spring. Although a substantial number of broodless hens in some counties again this year gave evidence of another difficult nesting season, it was encouraging to see that the overall percentage of hens with broods increased 8 per cent over last year. Brood size also improved substantially this year averaging 6.5 chicks per brood compared with 5.7 in 1959. This year's brood size is about average for most season and indicates that the survival rate of checks has been normal.

Roadside pheasant counts made in the same counties in 1959 and 1960 show an average count of 264 birds per 100 miles of road; a count almost indentical with that of the average county for the 10 years 1950 to 1959, and about the same as last year when the county was 267 birds per 100 miles.

In general pheasant counts were somewhat higher this year than last in counties within the pheasant range north of the Minnesota River and were down somewhat in counties south of the Minnesota River.

Kimball pointed out that this year, as last, there may be much unharvested corn on the opening day of the season—a condition which might adversely affect hunting success.

Chickens Lead in Plentiful Foods

Broiler-fryers in Good Supply in September

Broiler-fryer chickens are headliners among foods that will be plentiful in September.

Supplies of these tender young birds are expected to be larger than last year at this time, reports Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota.

Since demand for frying chicken tends to drop after the summer season of barbecuing, prices are expected to be unusually attractive to consumers.

Turkey also has a prominent place on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods for the month. Heavy birds will continue in largest supply.

Lamb is another of the abundant protein foods consumers can feature in September meals. Supplies are likely to continue above last year's at prices more attractive than usual.

Though some of the fruit crops marketed in September are smaller this year, the melon supply will be bountiful, Mrs. Loomis says. Minnesota-grown cantaloupe will be coming to market this month, along with cantaloupe from California's record-large crop. The late crop of watermelon is larger than last year's and 57 per cent above average. Also on markets will be honeydews from a big California crop, Persian, cranshaw and casaba melons.

September is the month when late summer vegetables are particularly abundant. Sweet corn, tomatoes, onions, cabbage, green peppers, green and lima beans, squash, carrots, potatoes and lettuce can add color and pleasing variety to dinner menus.

Walther League to Meet Sunday

St. John's church young people's Walther League will meet at the church Sunday, Sept. 11, at 8 p.m. Marvin Koop is youth counselor. The topic: "God at Work in Christian Education" will be led by the pastor. Bob Benke, president, will conduct the business meeting. Serving refreshments will be Sandra Jensen and Ruby St. Martin. This is a rally meeting for all the youth of the church and friends.

Gospel Services Slated at Grygla

Gospel services will be conducted by the Heflin Sisters of Kansas City, Mo., at the Mar-Bel Hall in Grygla Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week at 8:30 p.m. each evening. Special music also will be provided, and the public is invited to attend.

> "My life in the Middle East had been taken up with news, a thing that falls into patterns concerned with governments, crises, projects, change. I had barely noted that what was not changing was so great a part of everything. News is a very special distortion. It is either about something changing or something unusual. Life, however, is to a great extent about something not changing and not being unusual. Follow the news diligently enough, and you will become stone-blind to the greater part of reality and to most of the values of living." —Albion Ross

A Reactionary Danger

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell delivered one of the few informative Labor Day speeches, most of them being run-of-the-mill campaign tirades, full of self-glorification and denunciation of the other fellow. Mitchell pointed up some of the problems in labor relations with which we are confronted and urged that they be given serious consideration by both management and labor.

Among the problems that he called attention to are automation, uneconomical work practices, division of productivity gains and the meeting of foreign competition. These are actually the vital issues that we face, and on how we deal with them depends the future of our economy and our political system.

These problems were touched upon briefly by William P. Kennedy, president of the national Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, at a luncheon meeting on the occasion of his recent visit to our city. In a question and answer session he justified wage increases by increased productivity. He agreed however that it would be better if increased productivity could be reflected in lower prices—then all would share in the benefits. He said it would not work out this way because business would not lower prices and the increased productivity would result only in bigger profits. He agreed that higher wages are resulting in higher prices and that we are becoming less competitive in world markets. He would meet this problem by high tariffs that would keep foreign-made goods out of our markets. He stated that he favored trade barriers.

We liked Mr. Kennedy. He gave us the impression that he is sincere. In what he said he no doubt supported the position of labor leaders generally. But we do not agree with the position that he and other labor leaders are taking on these questions. In advocating trade barriers to protect us from foreign competition they are not speaking as radicals or as liberals. On the contrary the position they take is extremely reactionary.

Our country will not grow great by producing for ourselves alone. To shelter ourselves from world competition by a Chinese Wall of trade barriers would be to limit our growth and curb our development. We will not survive as a free nation if we isolate ourselves from the rest of the world.

These are the most important problems we face as a nation at the present time. We are threatened with unemployment largely because we have not faced up to these problems realistically. Continuing spirals of wage and price increases will bring us more unemployment.

Mr. Mitchell was one of the few Labor Day speakers who spoke as a statesman. He used the occasion to point up some of the most important issues before us, issues that should be discussed and debated on their merits and in the best interests of all Americans, including that all-important segment of our economy, American Labor.

Time To Start Planning

The St. Paul Pioneer Press points to surveys that have been conducted in other states on the reactions of campers to their park facilities, and suggests that such a survey might be worth while here in Minnesota. Camping is becoming increasingly popular and Minnesota should adjust its facilities to the needs of this type of tourist. As the Pioneer Press points out, we can benefit in the meantime by the information obtained by surveys in other states.

A recent study conducted in the State of Maine, based on the information contained in nearly 3,000 questionnaires that were returned from visitors to Maine parks, revealed that:

> "Nearly one-third of the total number of campers were children under 12, that the average daily expenditure per family was about $20 and that 77 per cent preferred tents to trailers. Most of the campers were spending their first year in Maine but nearly 40 per cent indicated they would return the following year. Most of those interviewed heard about the parks through word of mouth and 83 per cent of the campers were from out of state.
> "What they liked most about camping was the chance to be "outdoors" and second, the "courtesy and service" of park personnel. What they liked least was "overnight camping areas are too crowed." Swimming, touring and hiking were primary activities with fishing rated well down the list."

Here in Thief River Falls campers never will become an important source of community revenue. Not many of them are going to travel long distances to enjoy our facilities and our hospitality, but a considerable number of them are stopping here now on their way to some other place, and it is encouraging to know that some of them stay here longer than they had intended.

Our natural resources in this field are somewhat limited. We are not the center of a great resort area. But we have done fairly well in the development of our limited resources—and we can do considerably more.

The Pioneer Press suggests that a survey be made to determine the need for camping facilities at the state level. Here in Thief River Falls a study at the local level would be very much in order. Our river has a great potential and we should not delay further in planning its future development, which probably can be accomplished by easy stages over a period of years. And we need some serious local-level planning for better playground and recreation facilities. There are excellent possibilities.

Poisons Can Serve Good Purposes

We hear complaints that come from the uninformed about the folly of using poisons in the spraying of plants that are the sources of food. Such complaints are understandable. Maybe the proper way to reduce their number is to make more information available as to the need for spraying and the benefits we enjoy as a result in the form of more and better foods.

This was the conclusion we reached after reading the following editorial observations in Hoard's Dairyman. Maybe you will get the same reaction:

> "Few people realize the important role pesticides and other chemicals play in maintaining our high standard of living. If the use of agricultural chemicals were banned tomorrow, the yield of many crops would be reduced 10 to 90 per cent according to Dr. George C. Decker, University of Illinois entomologist. He scorns the policy of "letting nature take its course" in insect control which "some individuals thoughtlessly advocate."
>
> "Indicating the impact of banning chemicals on the nation's food supply, Decker says, "The price on most food items sold in stores would double, some would treble, while still others, notably some fruits and vegetables, would totally disappear from the open markets."
>
> "Decker says cultivated crops grown in North America are attacked by over 3,000 economically important species of insects, by as many plant diseases, and by an unestimated number of nematodes, rodents, and weeds.
>
> "With our food supply curtailed, instead of being bothered with the infamous wheat surplus, we might very well have a surplus of human beings for whom an adequate food supply was not available.
>
> "Entomology was never our long suit but the points raised by Dr. Decker emphasizes that a solution to the chemical residue problem is not that of banning agricultural chemicals."

Water Safety

To date this year in Manitoba 49 persons have lost their lives in water mishaps, and 17 fatalities, or roughly 40 per cent, involved boats, according to the Winnipeg Tribune. And, says the Tribune, "careless boat operators, like careless car drivers, are being hit where it hurts, in the pocketbook."

Fines of $75 and $100 were imposed last week on boat operators who had violated the common sense rules of water safety, and commending the magistrate for recognizing the seriousness of this kind of carelessness the Tribune observes:

> "Powered boats are not playtoys. There is as much difference between a rowboat and a modern outboard as there is between a tricycle and an automobile. The fines handed out by Magistrate Rice should be a warning that foolhardiness on the water will be no more tolerated than it is on the highway."

A Deserving Candidate

Lawyers have a special interest in our courts and because of their close association with the courts they are in a better position than the rest of us to pass judgment on the qualifications of the judges. For this reason the high regard in which Chief Justice Roger Dell is held by the bar of the state has proper campaign significance. The unanimous endorsement of Roger Dell as a candidate for reelection by the members of the Pennington County Bar Association is interesting mainly because it is typical of sentiment within this profession thruout the state.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Roger Dell has both influence and authority thruout our court system. A hard worker himself, he has speeded up the machinery of justice thruout the state and has done much to overcome the traditional delays of justice. Roger Dell deserves reelection.

A Japanese manufacturer will build two turbines for a power plant being built in California. The low bid was $664,860. The low bidder for another power plant, also in California, was an English firm which will install two turbines at a cost of $832,830. Both of these jobs were federal power projects and in both instances the low bids were more than six per cent lower than the bids of any American firms. So the Democrats will boost wages 25 per cent across the board and make it easier for the foreigners to be low bidders on more of our jobs.

Fur Trapping Season for 1960 Announced

The 1960 fur trapping seasons were announced today by the Minnesota game and fish division. Details call for the establishment of northern and southern trapping zones again this year. Mink, muskrat and badger may be taken without limit in the northern zone from October 29 through November 27, inclusive.

The northern and southern zones are separated by a line beginning at Breckenridge, following 210 to Motley, then on highway 10 to St. Cloud, and then on highway 95 to Taylors Falls on the eastern boundary of the state.

Raccoon trapping in the northern zone will be from October 29 through December 31. No limit has been placed on the number of 'coon that can be trapped.

Game officials point out that statewide interest in trapping has been declining in recent years. Lowered pelt prices for most furbearers has tended to discourage many trappers, as seen by a slump in trapping license sales. Synthetic furs which have made their appearances in recent years have contributed to a falling off in the fur market.

The mink harvest last year of 42,200 was down from the 56,087 taken in 1958. Trappers reportedly took 93,368 muskrates last year compared to the 221,700 removed in 1958.

Raccoon populations still remain relatively high, although some reduction has been noted over the past two years. Trapper interest in 'coon has also declined with the result that 14,350 were harvested last year. Agricultural depredations from 'coon around the state have caused game officials to establish longer seasons in recent years in hopes of obtaining a better harvest.

Trappers harvested one-quarter of a million animals last year in spite of the fact that only 8,188 trapping licenses were issued.

Litterbugs Less Evident This Year

Cost of Removing Litter from Roadside Is Down

The litterbug is showing encouraging signs of becoming rare in Minnesota, according to State Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman. "Minnesota may now be on its way to becoming one of the more litter-free states in the nation," he said.

The cost of litter pick-up fell off about 33 per cent during the first six months of 1960 as compared to the first half of 1959, according to a report issued by the highway department.

The first half of 1959, it cost $170,000 to remove 9,663 truck loads of litter from the highways.

During the first half of 1960 it cost $114,000 to remove 4,018 truck loads of litter from the 900 trash barrels on the 11,000 mile T.H. system.

The decrease in cost appears even greater when considering the cost of removing one truck load of litter went from $25.92 to $28.47, mainly due to increases in labor wages. Labor hours devoted to litter pick-up also dropped from 62,802 to 37,877.

Winger Man Killed in Combine Mishap

Ervin Geldaker Victim of Strangulation Saturday

An elderly couple returning to their farm home near Winger found the body of their son hanging from a combine, the Polk county coroner's office reported Monday.

Dr. H. E. Nelson said Ervin M. Geldaker, 47, died of strangulation when his shirt and overall straps were wound tightly about the neck and pulled into the machine.

The discovery was made Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Theodore O. Geldaker returned home from a two-day trip. The accident was believed to have happened late Saturday when the younger Geldaker apparently stopped the combine to clean straw from the feeder and left the shaft running.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
by JIM KIMBALL

Our first hunting season opened September 1 on rails and gallinules—this is of no interest to anyone I have heard of in Minnesota. Possibly this is because we are not equipped for such hunting. The southerners tell me that to hunt their birds properly you must have a flat bottomed boat with a high, comfortable chair mounted in the center. You sit in this chair with your fowling piece across your knees while "your man" poles you about the marsh.

The first real opener will be September 24 on sharptailed and ruffed grouse. Usually the ruffed grouse (partridge) season opens later but many sportsmen wanted us to try a simultaneous opening.

It is true that, in some areas, the ranges overlap and some partridge are killed by mistake when hunting sharptails. It is also nice to be permitted to take a partridge when you see one while hunting sharptails. The simultaneous opening may take some pressure off the sharptails and certainly partridge won't be hurt by a September opening. Well, at least we will give it a try and see whether or not you like it.

The one disadvantage of the early ruffed grouse opening which I know of is this: Too many of us are traditionally "opening day hunters." Too many will rush off to the north woods on September 24 expecting to shoot a limit of partridge.

Because of leaves on the brush and the elusive habits of the birds in September, hunting will be "lousy." Many hunters will neither see nor hear a partridge, so, of course, they will do the logical thing—write a nasty letter to the state director of game and fish. Such letters should always contain one sentence which reads, "You knew there were no grouse and opened the season only to sell licenses and get our money."

I always wonder if these people think I work on a commission—or what. Actually, there are not many letters of his nature any more. Five years ago there were plenty.

Well, after the partridge season has run two or three weeks and the opening day novices have worn themselves out or given up in disgust, I will start getting notes from the game wardens and managers. Their notes will say, "Grouse hunting is good now but we won't have any hunters left."

Now you might logically ask why, if I know this will happen, do we have an early opening on partridge and take the heat? You have a good point and it may not be possible to continue an early partridge season. But I keep dreaming and hoping that hunters will learn that partridge hunting in September and early October is mostly just an excuse to hike woods trails, to enjoy the beauties of Minnesota in her finest garb and to take a gun along just in case you spot a grouse.

Then go back later for some ruffed grouse shooting.

Rep. Langen Hits Congress Session

Criticizes Failure to Pass Sugar Legislation

Congressman Odin Langen this week expressed keen disappointment at what he called "the failure of the August session of Congress to accomplish a single thing that couldn't have been done before we left in July."

He said the session amounted to little more than "catching up on homework that was due two months ago and playing politics."

"Especially disappointing," he said, "were the futile efforts regarding sugar legislation.

"Action on this item, which is of great significance to the Red River Valley, once again was disrupted by international and other considerations, and as a result nothing was done.

Extension of the Sugar Act, together with comprehensive wheat and small grain legislation, should be at the top of the agenda for the 87th Congress when it convenes next January."

Langen, who returned to the Ninth District Saturday, stated that he is looking forward to the opportunity of seeing and visiting with as many people as possible.

A familiar sight . . . men with briefcases daily throng airports all over the nation, winging their way from one place to another. But where, really, are they going?

In this busy age of appointments, rush hours, and summit meetings, we search for success, for more money, for a better future, for a variety of things. Yet, like so many mid-twentieth century Americans, the harder we seek the less we find.

We need a job, a purpose, a home, a family. But also, we need a church. We need to go into that church to reaffirm our faith both in God and in our fellow beings. Only then does our quest — and our ultimate destination — begin to make sense.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

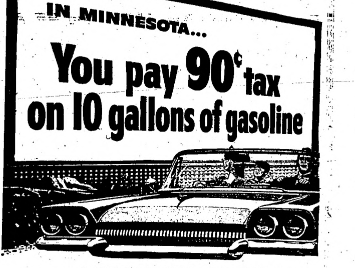
IN MINNESOTA...
You pay 90¢ tax on 10 gallons of gasoline



Gasoline taxes up 51% in ten years

Everywhere in Minnesota, car owners pay 90¢ tax on every 10 gallons of gasoline they buy.

Does a tax this high—on a basic commodity like gasoline—really make sense? Gasoline taxes across the nation amount to a 50% sales tax—and that's five times as high as the tax rate on luxuries like diamonds and mink coats.

How did gasoline taxes get so high? Well, since World War II, there have been three increases in the federal gasoline tax alone. This brought the Federal tax to 4 cents a gallon, in addition to the State tax of 5 cents a gallon.

Looking at it another way, in the last ten years gasoline taxes have skyrocketed 51%—yet the price of gasoline itself has risen only 5.5% during the same period.

$63 a year for gasoline taxes! Gallon by gallon, these taxes add up to a lot of money. Each year the average motor vehicle owner in this state pays $63 for gasoline taxes alone. That's just a few dollars less than the average week's pay for most people!

Your gasoline dealer—who must collect these taxes from you—feels that gasoline taxes are much too high. More and more, thinking people are coming to agree. What do you think?

HIGHWAYS AND GASOLINE TAXES

Your gasoline retailer, naturally, favors construction of the roads that the motoring public needs. He believes in fair and reasonable taxation for this purpose but feels that taxes on gasoline have now reached unreasonably high levels. He also believes that all special taxes on the motorist should be used only for highway purposes. Yet last year, out of every automobile tax dollar collected by the Federal Government from highway users, more than 40 cents went for non-highway purposes. If these automotive tax revenues were dedicated for highway purposes, there would be no need for the latest increase in the federal gasoline tax.

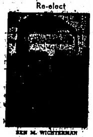
VOTE FOR A LIBERAL TERM

Ben Wichterman — L. J. Lee

To Represent You in the House of Representatives

Re-elect



BEN M. WICHTERMAN
Plummer

65th District

DFL

Endorsed

Elect

L. J. LEE
Bagley

Mr. Wichterman, a life long resident of the district, has a strong faith in the future of Minnesota and believes that the state should help in promoting industry and agriculture because the resulting increase in property values, earning power and productivity will more than offset the investment of the state.

He is well qualified to represent everyone in his district because living on and operating a farm enables him to understand the problems of agriculture. Operating a small commercial spraying business together with the experience of operating heavy road equipment qualifies him to represent both small businessmen and the working man. As a parent of school children the value of public education is appreciated.

The important committees in the State Legislature that Mr. Wichterman serves on are: Vice-Chairman of the powerful House Tax Committee, Chairman of the Aircraft and Airways Committee, and is a committee member of the Municipal Affairs, Livestock and Dairy Products, and the Interim Committee studying educational problems.

Mr. Wichterman has always used his personal experiences as a guide in his legislative work as a representative of the 65th District. Citizens will continue to be given the representation they so well deserve. This requires hard work both in and out of the legislature.

L. J. Lee has lived in Clearwater County for 46 years. During this time he has made a great contribution to the betterment of the area. He is a home owner and taxpayer.

L. J. Lee was raised on a farm in Clearwater County northeast of Gonvick. He worked on this farm of 280 acres for many years later purchasing the farm from his father. With this farm background and having lived in Clearwater County for 46 years he is well qualified to represent the farmers of this district.

He has provided outstanding leadership for the Clearwater County Board of Commissioners of which he presently heads as Chairman. Under his leadership the board has made real progress in meeting the needs of the people of Clearwater County in such fields as highway construction, hospital care, etc.

L. J. Lee's record as a member of the Bagley Village council is outstanding. Thru this work he has come to understand the tax problems etc. of the man in business.

As Chairman of a citizens committee he was one of the original supporters of the Clearwater County Memorial Hospital, a project which has proved its worth many times in lives saved and important health services rendered Clearwater County.

He is presently occupied as an area representative of Operating Engineers Local No. 49. He understands the problems of working people. He understands the problems of agriculture. His wide experience as a County Commissioner, as a Village Councilman gives him the qualification to serve the 65th District as its State Representative.

This advertisement was prepared and circulated by the Lee-Wichterman Voluntary Committee Walter E. Day Chairman; Mrs. Clarence Peterson, Clearbrook; Osmond Hofstad, Oklee; Lester Flage, Red Lake Falls, Mrs. Alfred M. Johnson, Thief River Falls; and Stanley Radniecki, Oklee.

Aspirants for Office Await Tuesday Vote

Absence of County Contests May Cut Down Local Voting

Today is the last day for candidates for office in the primary election to seek to influence voters, who will go to the polls Tuesday in Thief River Falls and thruout the state to indicate their choices for candidates who will compete in the general election November 8.

A heavy vote does not seem likely in Pennington county, owing to the absence of any primary contests for county offices. This, however, may be offset in part by the lively five-man race for the two posts in the state legislature from the 65th district, with the number of candidates to be reduced to four Tuesday.

Seeking nominations for the two legislative posts are Victor Aalbu, Gonvick; Irving W. Beyer, Red Lake Falls; L. J. Lee, Bagley; David Ostby, Plummer, and Ben Wichterman, incumbent, also of Plummer. The other incumbent, W. E. Day of Bagley, is retiring after about 40 years of service as a representative.

Another hard-fought contest is that for the DFL nomination for Ninth district congressman, in which former Rep. Coya Knutson is seeking a comeback, and is opposed by State Senator Roy E. Wiseth of Goodridge, who has the endorsement of the DFL organization; and by August Duren of Fergus Falls.

Among DFL officials who have appeared recently in the district in support of Wiseth are Senator Hubert Humphrey, Governor Orville Freeman, Chairman Ray Hemenway of the state DFL committee, and Miles Lord, former Minnesota attorney general.

Rep. Odin Langen of Kennedy, who is seeking the Republican nomination for a second term in Congress, is opposed by Jack Carlson of Beltrami county.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the five voting precincts in Thief River Falls, including first ward, Northrop school; second ward, Masonic temple; third ward, city Auditorium; fourth ward, Knox school; and fifth ward, St. John's Lutheran church.

Residents of the Town of North will also vote from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the assembly room on the lower floor of the court house; while polls in all of the other townships will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Mary A. Lendobeja to Conservation Camp Sept. 15-18

Kratka 4-H Club Member to Represent Pennington Co. at Itasca Park Event

Mary Ann Lendobeja, Kratka 4-H member, will represent Pennington county at the 1960 State Conservation Camp at Itasca State park, September 15-18. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lendobeja.

Mary Ann was chosen on the basis of her outstanding work in conservation activity projects as well as her all-around 4-H record and her ability to bring back useful information to the county.

Mary Ann has been enrolled in the conservation activity the past three years. She has been able to incorporate her conservation activity into her home yard improvement project by encouraging wildlife to her yard with feeders and birdhouses.

This will be the 27th consecutive year that the conservation camp has been held for Minnesota 4-H'ers.

The camp, sponsored by Charles L. Horn, president of the Federal Cartridge Corporation, will be held at the University of Minnesota's Itasca forestry and biological station.

St. Bernard's Has 169 in School

Opening enrollment last week in the eight grades of St. Bernard's parochial school aggregated 169, it was announced today. The total is seven less than the 176 registered at the start of the fall term in 1959.

4-H [illegible]t Animal Show Slat[illegible] in Newfolden on S[illegible]urday, Sept. 17

Minn Historical Society
Historical Building
Zone 1

SLAVE laborer for four and one-half years in the Soviet Union Arctic slave camp coal mines was John H. Noble, who will speak on his experiences at the Assemblies of God Tabernacle in Thief River Falls next Thursday evening, September 15. Mr. Noble, who was finally released after personal intercession by President Eisenhower, will speak here under the sponsorship of the National Assn. of Evangelicals, and will be accompanied here by the Rev. Mahlon L. Macy, NAE field director. The public is invited to hear Mr. Noble.

Fifty-seven entries will be shown at the second annual Marshall county 4-H fat animal show at Newfolden Saturday, September 17, announces Harlem Sandberg, 4-H club agent. Entries will be housed in the school bus garage.

The entries include eight steers, 10 barrows, 20 wether lambs, two trios of lambs (wether), 16 chicken exhibits and one turkey exhibit. The poultry exhibits consist of three dressed and eviscerated (ready-for-the-oven) birds.

Entry deadline is 9 a.m. Entries will be weighed upon arrival at the following places: Steers, Newfolden elevator; poultry, locker plant; sheep and pigs, school bus garage.

Judging will begin at 10 a.m. with Carl Spong of Fargo Central Livestock association doing the judging. Mr. Spong will also judge the beef, sheep and hog showmanship contests. They will be held immediately following the individual class judging.

Public auction of the animals will take place at 2 p.m. All animals will be offered for sale except one steer, two wethers and one barrow which will receive trips to the Sttate 4-H Junior Livestock Show. These four members will receive prizes from the Newfolden Civic and Commerce, sponsors of the event. The prizes are $25 for the steer and $15 each for the wethers and barrows.

Donald Steinhauer of Holt will conduct the sale. The public auction sale is unique in that it is a controlled sale. This facilitates selling a blue placing exhibit for more than a red and white placing one. Also, it allows the sale to be kept under control.

This year only blue and red placing exhibits will be sold at a premium. White exhibits will be sold at market prices only.

A trucker will be on hand for buyers, who do not slaughter their animals locally, to ship them off to market. The purchaser assumes full responsibility of the animal upon purchase.

The order of sale is as follows: Steers, wethers, barrows and poultry. Within each class blue exhibits will be sold first, red second and then white.

Presidential Aspirant to Speak in Afternoon in the UND Fieldhouse

Residents of this area will have an opportunity to hear Vice President Richard Nixon deliver a major address at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks Wednesday, Sept. 14, according to Dr. George W. Starcher, UND president.

Nixon, the Republican candidate for president, will speak in the afternoon at 1:40 in the field house on the University campus. His appearance is the result of invitations extended to the presidential nominees of both major parties.

The headquarters of Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democratic nominee, has indicated that the Massachusetts senator is interested in making an appearance if suitable arrangements can be fitted into his campaign schedule.

Nixon will appear under the joint sponsorship of UND and the Republican state central committee. Arley Bjella of Williston, state chairman, said, "We are delighted to participate with the University in the event. We hope the Democrats will also take advantage of the opportunity to appear."

Dr. Starcher emphasized that the speech will be open to the entire public. There will be no admission charge. The University Fieldhouse, which seats upwards of 8,500, is the largest auditorium facility in the state.

"Considering education's significant role in the democratic form is an appropriate place for structure, the University platpolitical opponents to discuss the issues of the day," said Dr. Starcher.

Wheat Market Program to Be Same for 1961

Price Supports to Remain Unchanged from Those of '60

With winter wheat planting getting under way, Patrick W. Culkins of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office pointed out today that the wheat program for 1961 will be essentially the same as it has been in recent years.

Marketing Quota—As a result of an 87.4 affirmative vote of wheat growers who voted in a referendum July 21, marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1961 crop and the marketing of excess wheat will be subject to a penalty.

Price Support — Price support will be available on 1961 crop wheat at a minimum national average rate of $1.78 per bushel, the same as the rate for the 1960 crop.

Acreage Allotments — Each wheat producing farm has an acreage allotment, representing the farm's share of the national allotment, which again in 1961 stands at 55 million acres, the minimum permitted by law.

Under the marketing quota system, any farmer who keeps within his wheat acreage allotment (or does not exceed 15 acres of wheat) may market his total wheat crop without penalty. Also exempt from penalty is any farmer who obtains approval to participate in the feed wheat program and produces 30 acres or less of wheat for use on his farm.

Other growers who exceed their allotments will be generally subject to a marketing quota penalty on the normal yield of the excess acres. The penalty rate for 1961 will continue at 45 per cent of parity, which for 1960 worked out to be dollar-and-cents penalty rate of $1.06 per bushel.

The wheat price support program for 1961 will be carried out through loans on farm- or warehouse-stored grain and through purchase agreements. Support will be available from harvest time in the summer of 1961 to the end of January 1962. The tentative support level is a minimum announced in advance of planting, which may be increased on the basis of later information next year but may not be reduced.

The total U.S. wheat supply for the 1960-61 marketing year is now estimated at a new record of 2,682 million bushels, according to the latest U.S. Department of Agriculture report on the wheat situation received at the local ASC office.

FIRST PRIZE winner in the four-year-old class at the Minnesota State Fair was this product of the James Muzzy herd of registered Holsteins seven miles north of Thief River Falls. Daleford Fokes Montvic is the daughter of Daleford Cornell Montvic, dam, and Albrecht Gypsie Fokes, sire. She also was judged the best uddered Holstein in the four-year old class.

For Mr. Muzzy this recognition was the crowning glory of many years of breeding and showing. Earlier in the season this cow had placed first at the Grand Forks fair and at three county fairs in this area.

Dale Fokes Montvic is not only a show animal but has an excellent production record as well. She had a record of 410 pounds of fat as a three-year old and in the first 38 days of her lactation as a four year old she has produced 102 pounds of fat.

The Muzzy herd of 60 registered Holsteins is in its 13th year of DHIA and IBM testing and during that time has maintained a herd average of more than 400 pounds of fat.

The Minnesota State Fair is recognized as one of the top dairy shows in the country and the best animals of several states are entered in competition. This is the fourth year Mr. Muzzy has shown at the state fair.

Local Youth Hurt as Car Rolls over in Red Lake County

A local youth was hospitalized at Northwestern hospital over the weekend as the result of a one-car mishap in Red Lake county around midnight Saturday or early Sunday morning.

Larry Vettleson, 16, was taken to the hospital here after the car in which he and Larry Ness and LaVern Whitson, both 16 and both also of this city, rolled over in Equality township near Roland's store, according to Sheriff Gerald Hinze of Red Lake county.

Ness and Whitson were not hospitalized, Hinze said. The mishap occurred on a road going south past the rural store. The youths were southbound and their car failed to negotiate an S-turn, rolling over as the result.

Hinze did not say which of the youth was driving at the time. He doubted that any citations would be issued, however.

Arthur J. Larson Is Killed, and Donald Thune Hurt in Crash

A second tragedy in the space of a year orphaned three Pennington county children when their father was killed early Sunday in a one-car accident seven miles south of the city.

Arthur J. Larson, 35, was believed killed instantly when the car he was driving ran off a dead-end at the intersection of state aid roads 3 and 17 south of the Thief River Falls airport.

A passenger with Larson, Donald Thune, 26, also of rural Thief River Falls, was placed on the critical list when taken to Northwestern hospital here, but his physicians said he has shown much improvement today. He is suffering from possible internal injuries.

The Larson car was discovered about 2:40 a.m. by Larry Johnson, whose home is on the northwest corner of the "T" intersection where the airport road ends at the Hazel road, which runs east and west. Johnson reported the mishap to Sheriff Charles Richards, who placed the time of the accident between 2 a.m. and 2:40.

The Larson family has been dogged by tragedy for over a year. Mrs. Larson died of a gunshot wound about a year ago and Larson was involved in a collision shortly afterwards with a car in which one teen-age youth was severely injured. This crash occurred about three miles northwest of the city.

Larson was a lifelong resident of the Thief River Falls area. Funeral services will be held Thursday at Zion Lutheran church, with Dr. Walter Pedersen officiating. Interment will be made in Bethany cemetery east of the city. The body will be at Green Funeral Home from Tuesday evening until 10 a.m. Thursday.

A complete obituary will be published in Thursday's Times.

The intersection where Larson met his death has a bad reputation and has been the scene of several accidents. A St. Hilaire man, Ben Rosendahl, was killed there a few years ago in the same kind of accident which caused Larson's death.

The intersection is marked, both with red stop signs and with a barricade indicating it is a dead-end intersection.

Slow Down and Live!

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

Time Called on Weighting

One blast from the referee's whistle during the heat of a game and everyone knows it's time to rest, to recoup strength, to review strategy. A call for time to weighty women who are mothers-in-waiting comes from Dr. Samuel Wishik, Professor of Maternal and Child Health at the University of Pittsburgh. His advice: Take time out. Don't try to reduce during pregnancy without the careful guidance of your doctor.

As Dr. Wishik sees it, chief strategy at maternity time is to eat a balanced diet, not to worry about overweight. At a recent nutrition institute, he urged doctors, nutritionists, and nurses to focus on the diet and not on reading the scale. He advised that extreme care be taken in prescribing a reducing regime during pregnancy.

In guiding their patients through pregnancy, doctors advise them to follow diets which provide nutrients in amounts recommended by the top nutrition scientists in America, the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council. The Board's recommendation: For an average woman, add 300 calories to the diet which has kept her at an ideal weight—but only during the last half of pregnancy when there is an established need for extra calories.

Pregnancy increases the need for vitamins and minerals right from the start, long before that first trip to the doctor. This is why doctors often pare down the amount of sugar and fat to allow for more high-nutrient foods: Fruits and vegetables, enriched or whole grain bread or cereal, meat or alternates, milk or cheese.

Time for reducing is best called after pregnancy and lactation are over, for that's when overweight is most likely to be the winner. This explains some doctors' stress on a two-year dietary supervision . . . for the year of pregnancy and the year after.

To Study Boost in Sugar Beet Crop

Agriculture Dept. Calls Meeting in Denver Sept. 19

The Agriculture Department announced Wednesday in Washington it will hold a public hearing at Denver, Colo., Monday, Sept. 19, on removing limitations on the 1961 sugar beet crop.

At the present time, sugar beets are being grown under acreage restrictions designed to keep production in line with the beet sugar share of the domestic market, as determined under a sugar control program.

The need for more domestically produced sugar is anticipated in view of the government action in cutting off imports from Cuba, because of that country's anti-American policies.

Producer groups are expected to urge removal of all restrictions of the crop, which is grown in the midwest and Far West.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Nine miles of terraces were built last spring by Earl D. Johnson, Jasper, cooperator in the Rock county soil and water conservation district. The terraces conserve water and reduce the wash from fields through the farmstead. They have a V-shaped channel with terrace slopes at least 13 feet long to accommodate four-row equipment. Johnson planned the terraces with help from Ray Suhr, SCS technician for the district.

A farm pond helps build beef gains on the Lynn Hatch farm in Martin county. Cattle used to make up to a two-mile trip from pasture to farmstead for a drink of water. Then Hatch, with the help of Ivan Burnison, Martin county SCS technician, built a pond near the back of his rolling, 80-acre permanent pasture. This summer 150 steers drank from a float-fed tank at the base of the bond. Hatch says the handy water supply lets him divide his pasture for more uniform grazing. Four Hatch sons and their neighborhood friends find the pond doubles as a roomy swimming pool. The pond area is fenced and will, in a few years, furnish wildlife cover.

Alfalfa is providing a good cash return for many Sibley county farmers this year. With a yield of four tons per acre on the first two crops, and a third crop to harvest, alfalfa will be a high return crop this year, according to county agent Duane Wilson. Farmers are benefiting in two ways—the ready sale of the crop and the improved internal drainage of their soil resulting from the alfalfa root's deep penetration.

• • •

Make your last cutting of alfalfa by the first week in September says William Hueg, extension agronomist at the University of Minnesota. Early fall cutting will give the alfalfa a good chance to build its root reserves for winter survival and early spring recovery. A 1959 survey of nearly 600 Minnesota alfalfa growers showed a greater loss of stand for each week cutting was delayed after September 1. Heaviest loss occurred when stands were cut between September 15 and 30.

Solar Furnace

Think that sunburn you got at the beach is a scorcher? This solar furnace turns sunshine into 7,000 degree Fahrenheit temperatures as Avco Corporation's Research and Advanced Development Division puts the sun to work for science. The high temperatures generated by the furnace are used to test new materials being developed for ICBM nose cones, rocket engine nozzles, space craft and other applications where enormous heating is a problem. Here, an Avco scientist mounts specimen of material to be tested. Acting much like a magnifying glass, furnace focuses sun's rays on small spot on specimen raising its surface temperatures to 7,000 degrees Fahrenheit in 30 seconds—temperatures that would melt ordinary furnace walls.

Science Institute for Teachers Set for TRF in January

To Be One of a Series Sponsored by Minnesota Academy of Science

A series of institutes for science teachers will be held thruout Minnesota beginning Nov. 18, and including one January 20-21, 1961, in Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, with Lawrence Brown as chairman.

Sponsored by the Minnesota Academy of Science and financed by a grant from the National Science foundation, the two-day institutes for secondary school science teachers will be held in seven regional centers throughout the state.

"We feel that the institutes will present an unusual opportunity for self-improvement on the part of science teachers," said Harold W. Hansen, chairman of the institutes committee and chairman of the biology department at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

The institutes will cut across the lines of education, bringing high school science teachers into contact with college and university professors, and other speakers as a part of a widespread program designed to improve science teaching, Hansen said.

The regional centers were selected so that an institute will be held within reasonable distance of each high school teacher in the state.

Regional programs are being planned by teachers of each region to best fit the needs of their particular area, Hansen said. Applications from teachers who wish to participate should be sent to Dr. Hansen at St. Olaf college by October 5. Participants will be selected by October 15.

NROTC Exams Set by Navy on Dec. 10

Program Open to High School Seniors, Graduates

VAdm. W. R. Smedberg, III, Chief of Naval Personnel, announced today that the 15th annual national competitive examination for regular Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps will be given to eligible high school seniors and graduates on December 10. Application forms are now available and must be mailed by November 18.

Designed to supplement the officer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for a young man to earn a regular commission while studying at a civilian college of his choice which has an NROTC unit. All tuition, fees and books are furnished by the Navy, and the student receives an annual retainer of $600 for four years. During the summers the student goes on training cruises as a midshipman.

After completing the usual four years college course, he is commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty as a prospective career officer with the Navy's fleets. For those who apply and qualify, immediate assignment to flight training will open new careers in naval aviation.

High school seniors and graduates who have reached their 17th birthday and have not reach their 21st birthday on July 1, 1961, may apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Those who make a qualifying score will be given a rigid physical exam early in 1961. From the number of qualified young men remaining in competition, at least 1600 will be selected to begin their naval careers next September.

The NROTC college training program is also open to enlisted men on active duty with the Navy and Marines. A separate quota is established for applicants within these services.

Prowler Eleven Trips Mahnomen 34 to 14

Sparked by the slashing runs of their halfbacks, the Prowlers, held to 14 to 7 score at the intermission, rolled up twenty points in the second half to defeat a well-coached Mahnomen eleven 34 to 14, in an inter-district football game played at Mahnomen on Friday night.

The Prowlers will play a district conference game this week when, on Friday night, they entertain coach Andy McCarty's Red Lake Falls Eagles on the Lincoln high school athletic field.

Klungness, a 160-pound junior, had his finest game as a Prowler, running for four touchdowns and adding a conversion points. In the second period, Gary went nine yards for a TD, slicing through right tackle; in the second period, Klungness sprinted around right end for fourteen yards and a touchdown; in the third period, on the second play from scrimmage, Gary broke through left tackle for a 63-yard touchdown sprint; and in the fourth period, Klungness hit left tackle for a yard and a touchdown.

The Prowlers fifth touchdown was made by right end Don Ulferts who gathered in a pass from quarterback John Aune for a ten-yard gain and a TD midway in the third period.

The Mahnomen Indians, exhibiting a well-conceived attack, gained a 7 to 0 lead in the opening period, moving from their own 27-yard line, after accepting the kickoff, and moving down field for three first downs to the Prowlers' 28-yard line. Mike Liebl sped out around left end for 28 yards and a touchdown, crossing the east goal-line. Reuben Hillstad, on a sweep of left end, added the conversion, giving the Indians a short-lived lead.

The Prowlers, gaining posession of the ball on the Indians' 41-yard line on a Dave Backen to Paul Klungness punt, scored after five scrimmage plays, with Gary Klungness finding running rom over right tackle for nine yards and a touchdown. Ranum added the point on a run over right tackle.

The Prowlers moved into the lead by scoring a touchdown in the second period, with Klungness' fourteen-yard run climaxing the drive. Starting seven at left end; Ranum hit left tackle for 11 yards; Klungness made a 12-yard gain at right end, to the Mahnomen 33-yard line. Three plays moved the ball to the 14-yard line, from where Klungness skirted right end for the touchdown. Ranum was successful in adding the conversion on a rush through right tackle.

The Prowlers opened up a point-margin in the third period by scoring a pair of touchdowns and adding a point to take a 27 to 7 lead entering the final period.

Mahnomen, after having a drive stalled on the Prowler 7-yard line in the opening minutes of the fourth period, regained the ball on the Prowler 6-yard line when the Prowlers fumbled. Jim Kleptka, who proved to be a difficult runner for the Prowlers to stop, scored for Mahnomen on a crashing run over right tackle from the 5-yard line. A pass, McArthur to Dave Olson, added the point.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Real Competitor

When Ernotte Hiller defeated Paul Stenseth, 3 and 2, in the finals of the Red River Valley golf tournament at Crookston last week, it marked the thirteenth time that Hiller had won the championship. Considering that the Red River Valley golf event attracts the top flight golfers from Northwestern Minnesota and Northeastern North Dakota, this feat of Hiller's is remarkable.

Ernotte Hiller has been a favorite with the golf galleries in this area since the early 1930's, when, as a student at the University of Minnesota, he captained the Gopher golf squad. It is a joy for a golf fan to follow Hiller when he plays a round of golf against a first-rate opponent. There's no fiddle-faddle or extravagant waggles of the club, Ernotte just takes his stance, addresses the ball, and proceeds to unleash a 250-yard drive.

It's remarkable, too, that Hiller has had such success in competitive golf, for it is common knowledge that he has been troubled by a chronic back condition. There have been years that Hiller has been forced to forego tournament golf because of his aching back.

As an indication of Ernotte's competitiveness we'll recall his duels against Jimmy Nordine. For a number of years these two golfers would inevitably be matched in tournament play, and inevitably Nordine (who is now a ranking member of Dulutah's Northland club) would be the winner. Nordine compiled a string of ten or eleven consecutive wins over Hiller, but finally match, we believe, succeeded in defeating Nordine.

And we can recall the epic duels that Hiller would have with the local club's Vic Jung. Those matches were surely a treat for the golfing fans, and we believe that Ernotte and Vic enjoyed the matches, too.

Our Softball Choices

After watching the city softball league throughout most of the league games this past season, from our vantage point along the right-field foul line, it's our opinion that the followin boys would merit all-city consideration: catcher, Fred Dablow of the Hamm's; first base, Glenn Carlson of the Hamm's; second base, Bob Gaarder of the Hamm's; shortstop, Dennis Bakke of the Hartz Stores; third base, Harlie Drees of the Len's Tire Service; left field, John Drury of the Bridgeman's; center field, Rod Max of the Hamm's; right field, Darrel Rude of the Bridgeman's; utility, Kally Grovum of the Len's Tire Service; and pitchers, Kermit Malberg of the Hartz Stores and George Janssen of the Hamm's.

And we must establish a special category for base-running, in the head-first sliding department. And for this position we can name none other than Bob Carlson of the Bridgeman's. He's a furious base-runner.

To manage this team we would like to have Harold (Pinky) Adolphson developing the strategic moves; and coaching at first base we would like to have Lowell (Mukkett) Collins.

A Reminder

Just a reminder that the Thieves' baseball organization will hold its year-end meeting at the Eagles club Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 8:00 P.M.

Club President Charlie Smith has issued an invitation to every baseball fan interested in the sport on the local level to be present. Why not accept Charlie's invitation?

Miscellany

It is reported that Bob Glas, the Bemidji Lumberjack all-round athlete, will enter North Dakota U this fall. Bob, a star performer in basketball, football, and baseball for the Jacks that past three seasons, and a basketball all-state tournament choice in 1959, should be a welcome addition to the Sioux athletic squads . . . Doug Urness, a member of the Mahnomen Indians football and basketball squads last season, and an all-state selection in football, has enrolled, or will enroll, at Indiana U this fall. Urness played with the North squad in the recent North vs. South all-star football game played in Minneapolis . . . One of the finest football "dope" books that we have received this season, and which compares favorably with the brochures produced by the big colleges, is that prepared by Wendell Vlasin of Mahnomen for the Pine-to-Prairie football conference. This conference is an eight-team circuit, composed of the following: Ada, Mahnomen, Worren, Bagley, Red Lake Falls, Twin Valley, Fosston, and Fertile. And Vlasin's booklet gives complete details of the rosters of these teams. It's a great help.

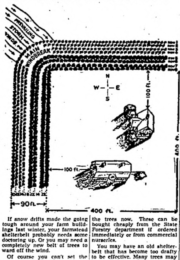
Advise Planning Now for Farm Shelterbelt



If snow drifts made the going tough around your farm buildings last winter, your farmstead shelterbelt probably needs some doctoring up. Or you may need a completely new belt of trees to ward off the wind.

Of course you can't set the trees out now. But County Agent Paul Steimaschuk mentions a number of things you can do. You can plan the belt. Plow the area—if it isn't sod. And order the trees now. These can be bought cheaply from the State Forstry department if ordered immediately or from commercial nurseries.

You may have an old shelterbelt that has become too drafty to be effective. Many trees may have died out. Or maybe the older, tall trees no longer give much protection at ground level. The belt also may be so close to buildings it hinders farm operations.

To fill the close-to-the-ground gaps, you may use a row of shrubs like common lilac, honeysuckle or shrub willows. These shrubs will eventually fill in the bottom 10 to 15 feet. In an old grove, you can plant several rows of tall or medium-height trees next to the old ones.

If you're planting a completely new belt, use eight rows—two each of shrubs and broadleaf trees, pines and spruce or red cedar. The shrub rows go in at the outside, with the taller ones near the buildings.

If the land for the shelterbelt is now in sod, don't plant it this fall for planting next spring. Instead, it should be fallowed through a complete summer to prevent heavy grass competition for young trees. If it was in grain or a row crop this year, fine; plow it up and and it will be ready to disk up and plant to trees next spring.

You can order trees through the county extension office or Soil Conservation Service. Marvin Smith, extension forester, says transplants are the best choice among evergreens; seedlings don't do too well. For broad leaf trees, select those 18-24 inches high. There's more detailed information in Extension Bulletin 196, "Planting the Farmstead Shelterbelt." The county extension office has copies.

Ducks Unlimited to Stage Member Drive

Ducks Unlimited chairmen in each of Minnesota's 87 counties are deeply involved in the statewide 1960 Ducks Unlimited membership campaign. Minnesota's goal is 3,000 new members, plus reenlistment of 5,000 current members.

"We ended our 1959 drive with a tremendous jump into second place nationally. In 1960 we intend to top all the other states," says Minnesota Chairman F. John Ward, St. Paul.

"There is not only a need for members, but for increased funds to carry on the many Ducks Unlimited projects in Canada to provide and maintain wetland areas where ducks can nest and breed."

Minnesota's membership drive kicks off this week. Minimum membership fee is $5 a year, though many enthusiastic duck hunters give up to $200 each.

During the Canadian drought conditions of the past few years the only water that has existed—other than major lakes—has been the man-made projects, most of which are Ducks Unlimited undertakings.

The DU breeding areas have kept the duck population from falling to disastrously low levels. Now, with the drought eased, DU sees an opportunity to actually increase duck population levels through added wetlands projects.

Federal duck stamp funds legally cannot be used outside the United States, desite the fact that more than two-thirds of all migratory waterfowl originate in the Canadian breeding grounds.

Ducks Unlimited funds, collected through memberships, are poured into Canadian wetlands and marsh reclamation programs. Over one and a half million acres have been reclaimed to date.

This work began 22 years ago, when the first few dollars collected by Ducks Unlimited were put to work restoring breeding and feeding areas.

1961 HEART FUND CHAIRMAN—Harry G. Cummings, St. Paul, representative of Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, heads the 1961 Heart Fund drive in Minnesota. The 11th annual independent campaign will again be held in February. "Last year's goal of $530,000 was exceeded by $10,000," said Cummings, "and we are confident that Minnesotans will again generously support the Heart Fund and thereby accelerate the fight against our No. 1 killer—Heart Disease."

"Funds from the 1960 drive are supporting the research studies of seventy-two scientists in eight states, as well as enabling Minnesota Heart Association to intensify its educational and community service programs," he points out. Fifteen hundred volunteer leaders will direct more than 45,000 workers toward the 1961 goal of $530,000. Cummings is a member of the Minnesota Association of Life Underwriters, an organization which yearly provides top echelon leadership for the Heart Fund.

Vote Tuesday

Tomorrow, Tuesday, is election day, and while this election is held only for the purpose of selecting party candidates where there is opposition, or to limit the field of candidates for some office to be filled without party designation, it nevertheless is an important election. All elections are important. Vote Tuesday.

Most Photographed

The Houston Post isn't sure who the most photographed person in the world may be but believes that President Gamal Abdul Nasser of Egypt would be a leading contender for international honors. The Post reaches this conclusion after thumbing through the July issue of The Arab Review, published in Cairo by the Welfare Institute of the United Arab Republic, "of which Nasser happens to be president."

According to the Post it is a "big, slick magazine in the English language, about the size and shape of the Ladies Home Journal." And getting back to the Arab Review and photographs, the Post observed:

> "Well, the cover picture, in vivid color, is a most immaculate, aesthetic pose of President Nasser. A small reproduction of this appears on the title page, and on the succeeding 24 pages, the handsome, smiling, always sartorially faultless Nasser appears 22 times, on various state occasions and in various groups. Throughout the rest of the magazine he is to be seen only occasionally."

Which leads the Post to conclude that The Arab Review is not mad at Nasser.

But Why The Delay?

In his good column in the St. Paul Pioneer Press Gene Newhall suggests that the public should withhold its opinion on the Minnesota commissary controversy until all of the facts are known. He says:

> "A first step would seem to be to await the public hearings and add the testimony of the accused to the dossier already compiled and publicized.
> "But when all the "facts" are in, all the testimony heard and weighed, acted upon and perhaps appealed, then whether the suspended staff men are cleared or condemned anew, the need will remain for the judgmental public to study and assess public affairs more deeply."

We find no fault with this advice, but tell us, Gene, how long do we have to wait to get the facts. There are going to be hearings, we understand, but why are these hearings to be held so late. Is there any good reason why these hearings could not be held immediately?

Under the circumstances isn't it understandable that some of us suspect the hearings are being delayed in order to keep fair minded people from reaching their conclusions until after the coming election?

It is well to keep in mind, Gene, that this commissary scandal may involve public officials other than the warden at Stillwater and some superintendents of state institutions. The warden has stated that his boss, Morris Hursh, was aware of what was being done when he made his "mistake." Maybe there were others at the higher levels of the Freeman administration who also had approved the wrongdoing at the time the "mistakes" were made.

The manner in which this scandal has been and is being handled, does not speak well for the Freeman administration, and delaying the fact finding and conclusions until after the election doesn't make it easier for us to maintain that calm, judicial attitude which Mr. Newhall recommends.

It is quite possible that the delaying tactics are not in the interests of justice.

Big Turkey Crop

Minnesota farmers are harvesting a record turkey crop and it is gratifying to know that our area is sharing in the distribution of cash that the marketing of this crop brings. This year's state total is estimated at 14,417,000 birds, up more than a million from last year's total.

Minnesota now is the nation's No. 1 turkey growing state, having passed Texas and California. Our state seems to be well suited for the production of quality birds and the product of this northern area has a very favorable quality rating. A modern processing plant, putting this crop on the market in a most attractive package, is helpful in bringing in these extra millions of dollars.

Physical Superiority?

Our country finished in second place as the Olympic games came to an end in Rome, the Russians taking first by a long margin. American Negroes, a minority group in our country, distinguished themselves in the ranks of our representatives.

During the long nights of the coming winter these facts will be the subjects of much conversation. Are the Russians superior to us physically? And, here at home, are our Negroes better athletes than the rest of us?

The Olympic games probably are not a fair test of the relative strength of Americans and Russians. Only amateurs participate in the Olympic games. Many of our outstanding athletes are professionals. In Russia there are no professionals, although they are paid by the government to play. The Olympic games do not prove that the Russians are superior.

But there isn't much to argue about in considering the athletic achievements of our Negroes. In recent years they have distinguished themselves in our country both as amateurs and as professionals. If the question is to be decided on the relative prowess as athletes, then our Negroes have built up a convincing record to prove their physical superiority.

More Conservatives?

From the West Point, Mississippi, Leader, comes an interesting observation on a recent Gallup poll, indicating that there still are many voters in the country who like to consider themselves "Conservatives". Conservative is a good word, especially at a time when we are faced with quite a struggle just to conserve what we have. Liberal is a good word too but maybe it is losing popularity because it has become associated with the kind of politicians who distinguish themselves mainly by being liberal with other people's money. But here is what the West Point Leader says:

> "You might get the impression these days that to be a liberal is all the rage, and that to be a conservative is to be obsolete. Few politicians would willingly put on the conservative tag, even though they might think and vote conservatively, because of the poor image it might create in the voter's mind.
> "It is a surprise, therefore, to run across a Gallup Poll in which voters were asked would they consider themselves liberals or conservatives . . . . It broke down the results geographically. Only in the Northeast did the liberals outnumber the conservatives, 58 per cent to 42.
>
> "The booming South was conservative 55 per cent to 45 per cent. The growing Midwest was 58 per cent conservative. And the rapidly expanding Far West was evenly divided.
>
> "Perhaps the signs to be discussed in this poll will encourage more conservatives to come out into the open."

'A Typical Maneuver'

(Milwaukee Journal)

The Soviet proposal for a summit conference (Eisenhower, Khrushchev and everybody) at the United Nations headquarters in mid-September is a "typically specious and frivolous maneuver." So it was called by Henry Cabot Lodge, chief United States delegate to the UN, in turning it down.

Moscow knows that a conference of 82 national leaders could not conceivably deal effectively with the complicated problems engaging the great powers today. Yet the Russian message speaks blandly of dealing with disarmament, nuclear testing and "other important political issues."

Communist leadership will play the cards to the limit. The party paper Pravda indicated last week that the campaign supporting a UN summit meeting would be far more intensive than the "Stockholm peace appeal" campaign of the Stalin era.

The phony proposal calls attention anew to how quickly Communists can shift ground when they see a chance to make propaganda or bother the opposition. They reverse positions without a hint of embarrassment.

A few weeks ago the Russians broke up the Geneva conference with the claim that there was no profit in continuing talks with the west. Now they suddenly claim to be willing to meet the west and discuss the same problems at an unwieldy and unlikely top level meeting.

Not long ago Khrushchev was avowing that he would never again negotiate with President Eisenhower. Now he says he is ready to meet Eisenhower in New York.

Khrushchev has claimed that a disarmament meeting without Red Chinese representation was meaningless. Now he proposes a conference from which the Red Chinese are automatically excluded.

Of course, few westerners expect consistency from the Communists. This week's proposal for a UN summit conference certainly displays a callous hypocrisy that is most disheartening for peace seekers.

Piggyback Continues To Gain

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

Piggybacking is being called the most dynamic phase of American railroading. By loading truck trailers on flatcars and delivering them ready to be driven away from trainside, railroads at last seem to have developed a combination which may win back freight traffic now lost to the trucks and highways.

While still comparatively small in volume, piggyback carloadings jumped 50 per cent last year, while total carloadings rose less than 3 per cent. Piggyback business this year is reported running 33 per cent ahead of last year.

Trailer-on-flatcar operations make their best showing in distances of 400 miles or more. Starting with less-than-carload shipments of general merchandise, piggybacking was expanded last year to take in the movement of automobiles. Tank trailers for oil and chemicals have passed experimental tryouts. Livestock also is being carried. A growing trend seems to be attachment of piggyback cars to passenger trains for fast service.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Q—Was the GI loan interest rate changed by the recent law which gave World War II veterans another two years in which to get a loan?

A—No. The interest rate was not changed. The maximum allowable interest rate is still 5¼ per cent.

Q—I am a Korea veteran, holding a term life insurance policy with the letters "RS" before the policy number. In understand I can exchange this policy for new term insurance at lower cost. How do I go about it?

A—You may change your present term policy for one costing about a third as much, yet with the same protection. The new term insurance must be converted to permanent plan insurance before age 50, however, if you wish protection. Write the VA office where you pay your premiums, telling them you wish to make the exchange. Be sure to give your present policy number.

Q—I am a World War II veteran applying for pension for the first time. Do I have to include my wife's income in reporting my own income for pension purposes?

A—The first $1200 of your wife's income need not be included but all over that available to you should be. In cases were that would work extreme hardship, exceptions may be made under the law.

Q—The new pension law has caused a lot of talk about just what pension is and what is compensation. Will you define each kind of payment, as it applies to living veterans?

A—Compensation is payable to eligible veterans whose disabilities are due to service. Pension is payable only to eligible veterans whose total and permanent disabilities are not due to service.
